City Budget Nearly One Million Over Expected Revenues for 1965

It's headache time in the city, but City Manager John M. Biery will pass off some of the headaches to City Council before reaching for the aspirin bottle himself.

The headache is the city budget and requests from city departments are nearly a million dollars over the expected revenue for 1965.

Biery said a total of $5,704,595 had been requested as against an expected income of $4,802,750. The $901,845 difference between the two figures will have to be eliminated or new sources of revenue must be found to bring in the money.

The 1964 adjusted budget is $4,712,260.

Biery said that the estimated revenue for the coming year is

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union declared Saturday night it is prepared to come to the aid of Cyprus if the island is invaded by a foreign power.

This pledge came in a reply from the Kremlin to the request by the Cyprus government for Soviet military help in the face of earlier Turkish air attacks.

An official government statement issued Saturday night said:

"In reply to the appeal of the government of Cyprus and President Makarios personally the Soviet government declares that if a foreign armed invasion of the territory of the republic takes place, the Soviet Union will help the Republic of Cyprus to defend her freedom and independence from foreign invasion and is prepared to begin negotiations on this matter right now."

The offer to begin negotiations right now was a clear bid for an alliance with the Republic of Cyprus. Such a deal, bringing the Soviet Union into the Mediterranean, could change the entire power setup in the region.

The bitter quarrel between Turkey and Greece over the island has already had severe repercussions on the eastern anchor of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Both Turkey and Greece are members, but Cyprus is not.

The offer of military aid also served to build up Makarios' bargaining power to gain a solu-

Struck Toronto Papers Hire Non-Union Men

TORONTO (AP) — A spokesman for the three Toronto daily newspapers said Friday there have been hirings in response to advertisements for experienced composing room workers to replace 680 printers who went on strike July 9.

The spokesman gave no indication of how extensive these were.

The Globe and Mail, a morning paper, and the Star and the Telegram, evening papers, have been using non-union and supervisory personnel to do composing room work since Local 91 of the International Typographical Union (ITU) went on strike.

The papers have sought applications for permanent jobs from linotype operators, compositor machinists and other composing room workers. Earlier, they sent letters to the striking printers asking them to return to work individually.

Eighteen strikers returned to work, 12 at the Star, five at the Telegram and one at the Globe and Mail.

Officers of Local 91 are to meet today in Colorado Springs, Colo., with Elmer Brown, president of the ITU, and members of his executive committee.

U. S. to Build Up Atom Power in Asian Areas

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — American nuclear power on the perimeters of Asia will begin moving toward a substantial increase in the next few weeks.

Into the launching tubes of a submarine will be placed combat-ready missiles and the first armed Polaris ship will be ready to head for station in the Western Pacific.

This event, long planned, takes on new importance because of the political debate over the Gulf of Tonkin operation, the nature of orders issued and the general topic of nuclear weapons control.

The submarine Daniel Boone, built on the West Coast at Mare Island Naval Shipyard, is due to return to the Pacific next month from firing tests and training in the Atlantic. The new Polaris fleet support facility at Bangor, Wash., will then be ready. Missiles with warheads will be slipped into the sub's 16 tubes and the Boone will be ready for business. Although the Boone made her initial shakedown cruise in the Pacific, she carried no combat weapons. And the rockets she launched off Cape Kennedy, Fla., were test

Man in Critical Condition After Being Stabbed

A 43-year old man was in critical condition with a stab wound in the abdomen Saturday night, apparently suffered when he argued with another man over a woman. Police were questioning a suspect in the case.

J. D. Fortenberry, 230 E. Victoria St., was rushed to St. Francis Hospital with a 4-inch wound which required emergency surgery. Fortenberry was reported still in critical condition after the surgery as doctors fought to save his life.

Police were holding Raymond (NMI) Anderson, 52, for investigation of the stabbing. Anderson also lives at 230 E. Victoria St. No further details of the case were available at press time.

Tonkin Incident Caused Struggle Between Reds

By DONALD H. MAY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Red China, North Viet Nam and Russia apparently waged a behind-the-scenes political struggle among themselves during the recent Gulf of Tonkin crisis, officials here believe.

Almost nothing is known directly about what went on among the three Communist governments as the crisis unfolded. But some of the picture has been pieced together by deduction.

What is known is that each of the three has its own somewhat different policy interests in Asia, each has reason to be wary of the other two, and all this probably produced frictions between them during the week of crisis.

Although there are any number of theories, the most general belief in U.S. government circles is that the PT boat attacks on U.S. destroyers were conceived by the North Vietnamese themselves along this line of reasoning:

From Hanoi's point of view, the Communist guerrilla war in pro-Western South Viet Nam is going fairly well. But for many months publicity in the United States over possible strikes North must have caused anxiety.

Furthermore, Hanoi has always been uneasy about the fact that U.S. policy statements always single out North Viet Nam to blame for the South Vietnamese war, leaving Red China in the background. Hanoi knows that in any expanded war, the United States would try not to involve China. This raises the spector of North

Leftists, Police Stage Pitched New York Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — Policemen fought pitched battles across mid-Manhattan on Saturday with a leftist group of young people trying to rally in Times Square against U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Several demonstrators were knocked to the streets and about 30 arrests were made, as spectators taunted the group of about 250.

Officers carried or dragged several demonstrators to police vans — including one young woman dragged away by the hair.

Some were bleeding.

A police lieutenant, two detectives and two patrolmen also were hurt, but apparently not seriously.

Backers of the organization include at least three young men indicted for, or admittedly responsible for, arranging the so-called "student" tours of Cuba by young Americans defying a State Department travel ban.

The latest such tour, involving 84 young Americans, returned here only Friday night with several of its members openly proclaiming themselves believers in communism. Some of them joined the protest Saturday.

The organization, calling itself "The May 2 Movement" for the date it was formed, tried vainly to demonstrate in Times Square last Saturday and 17 persons were arrested.

Rallies have been banned in Times Square since the spring of 1962 when 42 persons were arrested while protesting the late President John F. Kennedy's decision to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere.

Police told the group that no demonstration would be permitted at the square but that it could rally at Hammarskjold Plaza, across from the United Nations, seven blocks east.

Levi Laub, one of the Americans who went to Cuba last summer, agreed to move, say-

U. S. Army-Air Force Clash Ironed Out in Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A smoldering dispute between the U.S. Army and the U.S. Air Force in South Viet Nam is moving toward a settlement. It may mean close cooperation for the first time between armed helicopter units of the Army and Air Force fighter planes.

In anticipation of a truce, very high frequency (VHF) radio equipment of the type used in fighter planes is being installed in Army escort helicopters.

The truce has been drawn up for the signatures of Air Force Maj. Gen. J.H. More and Army Brig. Gen. Delk M. Oden.

It is expected to correct the kind of delay which occurred during last Wednesday's helicopter assault on Viet Cong positions. A helicopter pilot requested an air strike by Vietnamese Air Force fighters flown by U.S. Air Force pilots. The helicopter pilot was told that Air Force fire mission requests could not be accepted from Army helicopter men.

Thus the request had to be filtered through various control centers in Saigon. Half an hour after the request, an air strike force was dispatched.

In the proliferation of military bureacracy in South Viet Nam air strikes are controlled by the Air Support Operations Center, the Corps Tactical Operations

GOP Asks for $13 Million For Goldwater Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican chairmen from across the nation got their marching orders for the presidential campaign Saturday: Help raise about $13 million for the battle to elect Sen. Barry Goldwater; meet vote quotas for each of the nation's 185,000 precincts.

They heard from Goldwater, the party's presidential nominee, and from Rep. William E. Miller, his vice presidential running mate, in closed sessions.

State GOP chairmen and finance chiefs met behind closed doors to talk about finances and campaign strategy.

Aides tried to hush a band of fez-wearing Shriners, holding a convention in the same hotel, who paraded noisily through the corridors.

Republican National Chairman Dean Burch estimated the Goldwater campaign will cost about two-thirds as much as the $20 million he said the Democrats plan to spend.

He said that would be roughly $13 million, and much of it will be spent to buy television time.

Burch said the national committee has set vote quotas for each of the nation's precincts, and that if they are met Goldwater will win the White House.

But he had no figure on the

Rodeo, Races, Rides, Prizes, Sales To Be Main Features at County Fair

By SHIRLEY COCHRAN
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Rodeo, races and rides will be the No. 1 attraction today at Calhan as the final day of the annual El Paso County Fair unfolds.

In addition, fair visitors may view all prize winning entries in home eocnomics, livestock, poultry and agriculture until 3 o'clock this afternoon.

One of the most popular events of the fair will get underway at noon today as the 4-H Livestock Sale begins. The sale will include blue ribbon choice beef, sheep and swine.

At 2 p.m. one of the wildest little rodeos in these parts will be featured at the fairgrounds with fresh stock furnished by Edker Wilson of Sanford, Colo.

Tucked in between each rodeo event is a horse race of some type including a ⅝ mile Free-for-All; 220-year Free-for-All; 440-yard cow-pony race; and a 440-yard Free-for-All Girls' Race.

The rodeo is approved by the Western States Rodeo and on Saturday, the 1,500 choice seats in the grandstands were filled to capacity.

One of the top cowboys in the WSRA this year, Perry Hatfield of Albuquerque, N.M., pulled way ahead of the other contestants Saturday by taking first in bareback and second in saddle bronc riding.

Hatfield, who is currently leading the association for the all-around cowboy title, scored a big 58 on his high - spinning bronc, "Sunny" and 50 on his rough saddle bronc. He failed to stay aboard his bull for the half eight second count but is scheduled to ride in this event again today.

Hatfield was not alone with a goose-egg score in riding Saturday. Not one of eight riders managed to score a point on Wilson's angry Brahmas.

The bronc — both saddle and bareback — also came out the winners Saturday. In addition to Hatfield, only Ed Ligett and Joe Farmer scored in bareback while Art Danbee Smith and Ronnie Moore were the only two cowboys to unload from their saddle bronc after the whistle blew.

Calf-roping champ of the day was Allen Johnson who tied up his Angus in a smooth 14.4. Other scores were 17 seconds and above.

The bull doggers came out on top and the rodeo fans witnessed a fast doggin' score of 4.5 seconds by Floyd McEwen followed by a double tie in 5.0 made by Ray Younger and Steve Lang.

Special game and track events are scheduled for the kids again today including a greased pig catch for boys; chicken throw for girls; sack races; spoon races, penny and nickel throw and three legged-races.

Results of all livestock, agriculture, poultry and home economic judging will be published this week in the Gazette Telegraph.

'Delicious Horsemeat' Is Urged for Russians

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Communist organ Pravda said today Premier Nikita Khrushchev would like Russians to stretch their country's never - very-plentiful meat supplies by eating "delicious" horsemeat.

Radio Moscow reported Khrushchev arrived by air today in Frunze, capital of Kirghizia Province, and rode through the city to his "suburban residence" there.

"There are Russians who like horsemeat," Pravda quoted farm-belt speech Friday. The speech apparently was directed specifically to Russia's 25 million pork-hating Moslems.

"Nothing tastes better than 'friendship sausage,' made from horsemeat and pork," Khrushchev said. "Fried horsemeat is remarkable . . . It is worthwhile to develop horse-breeding to supplement meat resources. . . .

"He who cannot eat horsemeat need not do so. Let him eat pork. But he who cannot eat pork, let him eat horsemeat. It's simply a question of taste."

The premier was addressing a crowd in Kazakhstan, one of Russia's chief Moslem centers.

Earlier, the official agency Tass quoted Khrushchev as pledging anew, in another Kazakhstan speech, that Russia will defend its allies against any attack.

$115,000 Estate Will Pay First for Surviving Goat

LOISVILLE, Ky., (UPI) — A little old lady who died here last week at age 85, made up her mind a long time ago not to let anyone get her goat.

This became quite clear Friday when the late Mrs. George W. McCree's $115,000 will was probated in Jefferson County court.

The will stipulates that the foremost consideration by trust officers, who will administer the estate, must be "Baby" — a nanny goat.

Baby will live out her days in a special little house constructed on the $40,000 McCree estate here. Trust officers have been directed to hire someone to care for the animal. They will also pay any food or veterinary costs which come up.

Secondly, and only after Baby has been taken care of, income from the trust will go to four human-type heirs named in the will. Eventually, when all of them have died, the entire estate will be turned over to a local hospital for crippled children.

One of the trust officers, Charles W. Poindexter, of Citizens Fidelity Bank & Trust Co., who is fast becoming a goat expert, said it's anyone's guess how long Baby will continue living.

"You see Baby's already 15 years old," explained Poindexter. "And that's pretty old when you consider the average goat's life expectancy is 10 years."

Briton Claims U.S. Tricked Him

LONDON (UPI) — British tailor Arthur Burchinshaw said here he may make an official protest against U. S. military intellignce which he said forced him to work for Soviet espionage agents.

Burchinshaw, 34, spent 132 days in a West German prison before his release earlier this week.

"I've got lots to say at a later date" Burchinshaw said. "I might be lodging an official protest against the Americans."

He claims U.S. Counter-Intelligence Corps CIC agents forced him to work for the Russians when he reported a Soviet bid to enlist him as a spy and then had him "cast into prison" when he threatened to quit.

DENVER (UPI) The Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City said Friday sales in Denver department stores last week showed a 5 per cent increase over the same period a year ago. The sales reflect summer closing sales and the opening of the back-to-school shopping season. Denver department store sales are up 7 per cent this year over the same period last year.

More Rebel Attacks Expected in Haiti

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — President Francois Duvalier's government is braced for the possibility of further rebel attacks.

Road blocks were manned on roads leading to the capital. And on one street corner the body of a dead rebel fighter was displayed in an effort to show the government's strength.

Duvalier set himself up as a lifetime president of Haiti last June.

The roadblocks were thrown up after rebels had ambushed Congressman Hugo Paul in the Oriani Hills. Paul and his son were wounded, while a boy traveling with them was killed.

Ike Tells Press He Appreciates Reporters' Work

By BOYD LEWIS

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (NEA)— Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower doesn't want to name the "sensation-seeking columnists and commentators" he criticized at the Republican National Convention, but he wants it known that he has the highest respect for the press as an institution.

He made this clear in answer to a request by this writer for clarification of his widely discussed comment, which touched off a raucous demonstration against newspaper reporters and broadcasters at the San Francisco Cow Palace. The following day Richard Nixon was cheered at the convention for remarks critical of the press.

The press, General Eisenhower said, ranks with the school system "in its importance as a defender of our freedom and our free institutions." Press and schools, he said, are "two indispensable factors in a self-governing society."

I wrote to General Eisenhower on July 24 after returning to New York from San Francisco, explaining that I did so as a former war correspondent accredited to his SHAEF headquarters during World War II and one who had been familiar with his real views of the press as they had developed in later years.

"My purpose," I told him, "is to ask if you would be willing to clarify a statement made during your address to the Republican Convention in San Francisco which dismayed me and many of my colleagues. It is your reference to 'sensational-seeking columnists and commentators.'

"From almost any lips but yours," I continued, "this phraseology might have gone into the convention limbo along with the partisan banners and placards. But when the revered General Eisenhower uttered them many delegates stood screaming and shaking fists at the press benches. It was obvious to these that all of the reporters were 'columnists and commentators' and all of the columnist and commentators were 'sensation-seeking.' . . .

"It was obvious to anyone watching your reaction to the explosion on the floor that you had no intent to bare the teeth of extremists against the press, which, in measure far from mean, has given you and your causes friendship and support over many years."

I asked the General if he would care to tell what he "really thinks about the free press" so that I might quote him in a message to a group of picked newsboys from all over the country who are in Washington on "Operation Enterprise." Tonight it will be my pleasure to read General Eisenhower's letter to these ace newspaper delivery boys at a dinner in the National Press Club climaxing a week of visits to government and defense installations.

Mr. Eisenhower's amended record makes a suitable text for one seeking to encourage outstanding carrier boys to pursue a career of public service in journalism.

I ended my letter by saying "I cannot believe that you would want to leave the record unaltered."

The General's letter, dated July 31, 1964, makes it clear that he did not. His complete letter follows:

"Dear Mrs. Lewis:

"You, yourself, quoted the words I used to differentiate from the mass of the newspaper world and the relatively few individuals to whom I adverted in my convention talk.

"I did not mention reporters, photographers and all the others that have participated in the establishment and the maintenance of a press coverage in the United States that is the envy of the world.

"Since I never engage in personalities when I find it necessary to criticize, I went so far as I possibly could (without naming names) of defining the people who I said 'could not care less about the good of our Party.'

"My respect and admiration for the bulk of the American press has so often been expressed publicly that it would seem almost redundant for me to have to repeat them. If anything stands higher than the press in its importance as a defender of our freedom and our free institutions, it is our school system; indeed, I am not sure that such a distinction should be made between these two indispensable factors in a self-governing society.

"On the personal side, the great bulk of the press has treated me considerately, even generously. Consequently I feel that it is only those who have some feeling of guilt who have tried to interpret my words about the press personnel.

"Incidentally, I note that you refer to your association with me throughout the war in Europe and later at Columbia University. I am sure that you have found in your memory many words of mine spoken in tribute to men of the press; quite often I referred to them in Europe as 'quasi-staff officers of my headquarters.' I can scarcely think of any words that could, in my estimation, refer to them in more complimentary terms.

"I hope that this letter will clarify for you my thinking and interest in the matter.

"With best wishes,
Sincerely,
(Signed)
"Dwight D. Eisenhower."

CLOSER SCRUTINY FOR HIGHWAY USE TAX: Taxpayers are reminded that the IRS is taking a close look at compliance with the provisions of the Federal highway use tax law by owners of trucks and buses. Lists of motor vehicles are being compiled and will be compared with the Federal highway use tax returns filed with Internal Revenue. The purpose of the comparison is to determine not only if a return has been filed by owners of taxable vehicles, but also the correctness of returns that are filed.

"Taxable gross weight" is the basis of the Federal highway use tax. There is a difference in weight determinations used by the various States and taxable gross weight as defined by the Federal highway use tax law.

Taxable gross weight depends generally on number of axles and empty weight. Factors such as the weight of a full load of fuel, lubricants and water may not be included in State weight determinations. For highway use tax purposes, however, they should be considered in determining a vehicle's empty weight.

Truck and bus owners are advised to take such considerations into account in determining the tax liability of their vehicles. Further information of the provisions of the highway use tax law is contained in Publication No. 349, "Federal Use Tax on Trucks, Truck Tractors, and Buses." This booklet is available upon request from our local office by calling 636-5171. Form 2290 is the tax report form and must be filed on or before Aug. 31, 1964 for any taxable truck in use on July 1, 1964, or acquired in the month of July.

Academy Cadets Sign in Tuesday, Classes Friday

A summer crammed with travel and training (and even a little time for leave) will draw to a close Tuesday for some 1,800 Air Force Academy first, second, and third classmen.

All three classes will be signed in by midnight Tuesday and following a two-day transition period, during which rooms will be assigned, books issued, etc., classes start Friday.

Members of the Class of 1968 will shed their status as basic cadets during the Acceptance Day parade Wednesday and will officially become members of the Cadet Wing.

Summer was filled with ups and downs for new first classmen (seniors). A group of volunteers completed the Army's rugged airborne training (paratrooper) at Ft. Benning, Ga. All pilot qualified first classmen had a chance to "try their wings" during a week-long pilot indoctrination program.

Selected members of the class are guiding basic cadets through their summer training programs while others are acting as survival training instructors. A group of 24 also accompanied the Class of 1967 on their U.S. field trip.

The Class of 1967 (sophomores) visited Army, Navy, and Air Force installations as part of their field study of the armed forces. Volunteers also took part in Benning jump training.

Academy juniors (Class of 1966) traded conventional low-quarter oxfords for seven-league boots. On overseas field trips, individual groups visited Europe, South America, the Far East, Australia, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

As "third lieutenants" two segments of the class spent two weeks in junior officer positions with Air Force units stationed in Europe and the Far East.

For all four classes, the academic year ahead is sure to be just as busy as the whirlwind summer months.

Pueblo Depot Employes Send Glasses to India

Pueblo Army Depot employes have voluntarily packed and crated 11,981 pairs of eyeglasses for India. They accomplished the packaging and loading operation during their lunch and break periods.

The glasses then will be provided at no charge to individuals requiring glasses.

Observing the shipment at the Pueblo Army Depot were Kenneth W. Quinn, Woodland Park, Lions Governor of District 6 South; Col. Louis Antol, Jr., PAD commander; and William B. McMillan, Fowler, project chairman for the program at the depot and also a member of the Fowler Lions Club.

The eyeglasses were collected on a voluntary basis under the President's People to People Program.

Last year, the depot collected more than 6,000 pairs in conjunction with the Fowler Lions Club. The second year of the program, it was extended to the 32 Lions Clubs within District 6 South. Eyeglasses were received not only from P.A.D. employes but from many residents of Southeastern Colorado.

Col. Antol announced that the program would be continued.

Texas Pilot Killed In Viet Nam War

MOUNT PLEASANT, Tex. (AP) — A Texas pilot killed last week when his helicopter was shot down in Viet Nam told his hometown newspaper recently: "The American boys over there (Viet Nam) know that the war can be won. They're just not sure how yet."

Killed when his craft was shot down by ground fire was 1st Lt. Harold L. McNeil, 30, of Mount Pleasant, Tex.

He died last week as he flew one of 96 helicopters on one of South Viet Nam's major offensives in the jungle war in Southeast Asia.

McNeil went to Viet Nam last March. He was hit by a bullet while flying a mission and came home for 30 days before returning. It was then he had the interview with the Mount Pleasant Times.

The expression "gat" is derived from the inventor- R. J. Gatling, who developed a type of machine gun.

Cadet Survival Training Ends Over Weekend

Lessons learned in alfresco classrooms of the Rampart Range may someday spell the difference between life and death for future pilots now members of the Air Force Academy Class of 1968.

Basic cadets are winding up 2½-day survival exercises in the Fern Creek area of the Rampart Range this weekend.

Specially trained First Classmen and instructors from the Air Force Survival School at Stead AFB Nev. cram the 36-hours spent in the mountains with knowledge necessary to sustain life in remote areas.

Basics construct their own shelters from parachutes and learn just how valuable the brightly colored orange and white panels can be in a survival situation.

They also find out first hand how an empty stomach welcomes natural tidbits such as berries, wild onion, and other edibles.

Cadets skin and prepare rabbits and dry beef for jerky and (try) to snare wild animals common to the Fern Creek region.

Completion of survival training for the more than 950 basics marks the end of the summer training program.

Basics officialy become members of the Cadet Wing Wednesday during the Acceptance Day. The public may attend the ceremony which starts at 11 a.m. on the parade ground east of the academic area.

'Second Home' Recommended For 'Health'

By JOHN PIERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Savings and Loan League wants to help you avoid a nervous breakdown.

How?

Easy. Buy a second home in the mountains or at the seashore.

In his recent book, "Inventing the Future," Dr. Dennis Gabor lists the three great problems. They are nuclear warfare and the population explosion — which sort of cancel each other out—and increased lesiure.

Dr. Gabor says we're not ready to have so much free time on our hands, and he warns that this may bring on a collective nervous breakdown for the human race.

Never a one to take this kind of dire prediction lying down, the Savings and Loan League says that while a second home doesn't "directly" solve the leisure problem, it does "help to provide a diversity of environments."

"Two locations often are more stimulating than a single one or, if not more stimulating, perhaps less frustrating," says the League's latest quarterly letter.

Apparently, a lot of Americans have already got the message. While the two - house family is still not so common as the two-car family, the 1960 Census listed 1.7 million vacations homes in the United States three times as many as in 1950. And the figure doesn't include trailers and other mobile living quarters, now selling at the rate of around 150,000 a year.

The federal government tried to get on the band wagon by proposing that FHA be allowed to insure mortgages on vacation homes. But the plan got knocked out of this year's bill. FHA says it'll try again next year.

Vacation homes are not a new arrival on the American scene, the League says. Wealthy families have enjoyed them for years. But now that more and more people are getting rich—per capita disposable income is now above $2,100 — more can afford that second home.

Longer vacations, better roads and jet air transportation also have helped.

Many of these so-called "vacation" homes have other uses, too. Some people use them as hope to retire there.

What's more the two - home business is going international. Some people already have two or more houses in several parts of the world, the League tells us.

A ranch-type house in St. Louis, private fjord in Norway, a villa close to Rome . . . The mind teeters at the prospect.

Shopping Abroad Can Be Hazard, Experts Counsel

By MIRRAY J. BROWN

NEW YORK (UPI) —Americans traveling abroad for the first time often find themselves tempted to bring home some "art treasure" from the Old World as a memento or conversation piece.

Some may indeed return with some objects of real bueaty and value.

But others will make purchases they will regret, according to a man who ought to know.

He is Emil Faust of Chicago, designer of art objects for the home. Faust makes periodic visits to Europe to pick up fresh ideas for the Arabesque simulated wood wall accessories made by his company.

Over the years, he has become acutely aware of the mistakes often made by inexperienced American tourists suddenly smitten by the European culture bug.

'Do's and Don'ts'

As a guide for the non-expert, Faust offered a list of simple his own long experience:

DO consider in advance what you want to buy, especially with regard to art or other such items for your homes. DON'T depend on your memory and your eye in judging size or scale.

"It's heartbreaking to choose an exquisite chandelier in Venice or a gilt mirror in Florence, only to discover it overpowers the dining room at home," Faust said.

DO check vital dimensions of your rooms and furnishings before you leave, tuck atape measure into your purse or pocket, and use it before you consult your currency converter or sign a travelers check.

"Though most women know how large their dinning tables are, many get confused in a Belgian linen shop and buy a cloth of the wrong size," he noted.

'Original' Art

DO be wary of art objects, especially paintings, offered as "originals." A number of enterprising Europeans turn out oil paintings on an assembly-line basis to meet the demands for "original" art.

"Granted tre paintings are originals, but most have little artistic value," Faust explained. "They're simply bait for eager tourists who want the prestige of a European original in their homes."

DO consider, instead, a good copy of a known work of art that you can have framed at home. Most famous galleries and museums offer them for sale.

DO seek local advice on where to shop. Italians, for example, will tell you to admire the lovely Murano glass in Venice but to do your shopping in Rome or Milan where prices are geared to Italian budgets.

Toledo steel jewelry may be a better buy in Madrid or Granada than in the factory showrooms. But DO make sure it's the genuine article; imitations are fairly common in Spain.

Shipping Precautions

DO buy items you can take with you whenever possible. If you must have something shipped, make certain it will be adequately packed by a reliable merchant —and insured.

DO get the facts on crating, packing and other charges that may be added on a C.I.D. basis. Such charges sometimes can double the cost of the purchase abroad.

DO carry a notebook in which to keep a record of all purchases. It will help you fill out customs forms later.

Faust's final words of advice may sound contradictory:

DON'T be afraid to make an impusle purchase if it is something you genuinely like and can afford.

The fellow tourist who claims "you can get it cheaper" somewhere else may be right. But if he's wrong, you may be sorry you listened to him, Faust said.

DROPS WEIGHT BATTLE

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)— Gov. Harold E. Hughes has abandoned one campaign so he can concentrate on another. He said he has stopped trying to lose weight.

"For the duration of the (political) campaign, I have abandoned the cause," the 235-pound governor said Friday. "I hope all overweight people will be sympathetic and those who aren't overweight will have compassion."

Japan Observes Date of Surrender

TOKYO (AP) — Japan observed the 19th anniversary of its World War II surrender today with a solemn state memorial service for its more than 3 million war dead.

Emperor Hirohito, Premier Hayato Ikeda and other ranking officials attended the ceremony at the Yasukuni shrine in honor of the fallen soldiers. It was the first time since World War II that the state had participated in such services at a Shinto shrine.

Japan's Constitution prohibits the state from engaging in religious activities. The memorial service was kept free of religious overtones to fend off further criticism of the government's participation.

Two Matinees Scheduled At Broadmoor

Carol Truax, director of the Broadmoor International Theatre, announces that in response to countless requests, the theatre has scheduled matinee performances for the next two attractions.

A 2:30 matinee has been set for Saturday, for the Nelson Eddy - Gale Sherwood show which opened Monday, and runs through Sunday, Aug. 23. Appearing on this same program is Rosario Galan and her Ballet Espanol. The Nelson Eddy-Gale Sherwood combination has been cited by critics as "one of the most entertaining acts in the business," and Miss Galan's reviews call her the "most brilliant and exciting Spanish dancer in sight."

Another matinee is scheduled for Aug. 29 when the Second International Folk Festival occupies the Broadmoor stage. The show, featuring three of the top act in the field, opens Aug. 24 and runs through Aug. 29. the Smothers Brothers headline this attraction which also includes folk singing Carolyn Hester who appeared on the May 30 cover of the Saturday Evening Post, and the foremost proponents of "bluegrass" folk singing, The Dillards. This foursome gives out with a rousing heel-stomping type of singing.

The Broadmoor's season will conclude with a one - night - only concert by the American pianist Van Cliburn on Aug. 30.

Tickets for the nightly 8:30 shows as well as for the special matinee performances are available at the Broadmoor International Center boxoffice in Colorado Springs and in Denver at the May - D&F boxoffice.

Polaris Submarine Joins U.S. Fleet

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The Polaris-firing nuclear submarine Casimir Pulaski joins the U.S. fleet today after a commissioning ceremony that will include a message from President Johnson.

Johnson's message was to be broadcast from the White House to the yards of the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp.

Postmaster General John A. Gronouski was scheduled to speak at the ceremony.

The Pulsask, the 44th nuclear submarine to join the fleet, is named for a Polish general who was killed while fighting for the colonies in the American Revolutionary War.

The sub's two alternating crews are commanded by Capt. Robert L. J. Long of Parkville, Mo., and by Cmdr. Thomas B. Brittain of Oklawaha, Fla.

Hi-Y Members To Tour East, Visit Fair

Nine Hi-Y boys accompanied by three adult leaders left Saturday on a tour of the eastern states which will include a visit to the New York World's Fair. The boys are all members of the Palmer High School Hi-Y Club which is an organization for youths sponsored by the YMCA.

Boys making the tour are: Bill Bensburg, David Curtis, Bob Crouse, Allen Epperson, Brian Geddes, Jim Hekkers, David Jardine, Gaylord Nordstrom and Russ Van Sikes. Adult leaders are Keith Bullen, associate program director of the YMCA; Dave Cardenas, a senior at Long Beach State College and C. Arthur Nordstrom, a teacher at Ft. Carson Schools.

The group will stay at the Holiday Hills YMCA, Pawling, N.Y. from Monday to Saturday. From there the boys will go to the William Sloane House YMCA in New York City where they will stay till Aug. 24. The group will make a tour of Michigan and will return home Sept. 1.

If the tour proves to be successful, the YMCA probably will sponsor more such trips for high school groups next spring and next summer, officials said.

Abduction of Robber From Prison Possible

LONDON (AP) — Was convicted train robber Charles Wilson, 32, kidnaped at gunpoint or whisked away by friends in his spectacular jail break from a maximum-security prison?

Scotland Yard chose the latter theory Friday and reasoned that a newspaper message had tipped off the convict hours before he was removed from his cell at Birmingham's Winson Prison last Tuesday.

A jailmate said fellow prisoners believe Wilson was abducted by a rival gang that wanted him to reveal the whereabouts of $5 million in loot from last year's great train robbery.

Police said they cannot rule out Marsden's theory, but they are sticking to the view that an advertisement in a lovelorn column of The London Daily Mail organized the jailbreaker's rendezvous.

India Premier Issues Call For Austerity

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India Saturday marked the 17th anniversary of independence from Britain with a solemn call by Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri for austerity in the face of a serious food shortage.

Shastri, who suffered a heart attack in June, stood in a pouring rain atop the ramparts of New Delhi's old red fort to deliver the traditional Independence Day message.

More than 5,000 Indians, many of whom waded through streets covered with waist deep water, turned out for Shastri's first public ceremonial appearance since he was stricken.

The ailing prime minister declined an offer of an umbrella and raincoat and refused to use a specially-constructed lift to reach the top of the fort.

It was India's first Independence Day celebration without Jawaharlal Nehru, who had been prime minister ever since freedom from Britain was granted. Nehru died last May 27.

In a message after unfurling the Indian flag from the top of the 300-year-old fort, Shastri said the food situation was "very difficult."

Greek Premier Says Course to Be Historical

ATHENS (UPI)—Greek Premier George Papanderou said Saturday "historical conscience" was more important than "popularity considerations" in his government's handling of the Cyprus crisis.

In an interview with United Press International, Papandreou rejected the mounting storm of criticism in opposition newspapers which have charged him with leading Greece into tragedy and national humiliation" over the Cyprus issue.

"I am indifferent to the attacks of the opposition press, however severe they may be," Papandreou said. "I enjoy the confidence of a large majority of the people.

"But in critical moments like the present, statesmen must be led not by popularity considerations but by historical conscience, by which I mean the conscience that they are answerable to history."

Asked to sum up his Cyprus policy, the 75-year-old Greek premier said it could be done in two words: "Peace and Self Determination."

"I believe war is criminal madness," he added.

Geneva Talks Are Held for Cyprus Peace

GENEVA (UPI)—Negotiators Saturday secretly worked out final details of a plan it was hoped would bring a negotiated peace to Cyprus.

United Nations mediator Sakari Tuomioja of Finland leaves Sunday for Athens, Ankara and Nicosia to present the plan personally to the three governments principally involved in the Mediterranean crisis.

The plan was believed to incorporate major suggestions by former U.S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson, sent here by President Johnson to aid in the Cyprus peace soundings.

Official spokesmen again Saturday acknowledged only that Acheson was "continuing to see the parties concerned." But it was believed he conferred Saturday with representatives from both Greece and Turkey who returned here Friday from their capitals.

Handicapped Person Gives Sound Advice

"The idea that life is half spent before we know what it is — is sometimes true. So do what you can with what you have, and do it now."

This is the advice to handicaps from 22-year-old Willie Mae Reed, handicapped person of the month for July of Stalwarts and Pals Handicapped Club.

This girl, who has an artificial arm and hand, works during the week as a sales clerk in the three Goodwill stores of Colorado Springs. She says that Odessa Rooth calls her a "rotator." She has words of praise also for Kenneth Olson, Goodwill Industries executive director, and Maude Haigler, personnel director.

Her hobbies, she says, include gardening, reading, writing and arithmetic, which she calls excellent hobbies for sales clerks.

"The State Vocational Rehabilitation Department here saw to it that I got an artificial arm and hand," she said.

Scripps Denies It Controls Editorials

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The E. W. Scripps Co. denied Friday that it controls the editorial and business policies of the Cincinnati Enquirer or has a monopoly in the daily newspaper field in this city.

The company filed an answer in U. S. District Court here to a suit filed by the Justice Department May 27 in which the department sought to make the Scripps Company divest itself of its stock in the Enquirer.

Scripps also said that at no time had it used its Enquirer stock to interfere with management or operation of the daily or Sunday Enquirer but that the same management had continued in control that was in control before 1956.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

ABERDEEN, Scotland (UPI) — Britain's Princess Anne celebrated her 14th birthday Saturday on holiday with the royal family at Balmoral Castle in the Scottish highlands, 40 miles from Aberdeen.

Household sources said a big postbag of cards and gifts for the blonde Princess arrived at the castle along with greetings and telegrams.

Queen Elizabeth II arrived at the Scottish estate with her four children and the two children of Princess Margaret earlier this week.

U.S. to Build Up Atom Power in Asian Areas

and training devices, without warheads.

The second of the expected seven-ship Polaris squadron for the Pacific will go onto station late this fall, by which time a forward support base, with a tender and other service ships, will be at Guam.

The nuclear power of the 112 missiles in the seven submarines will be added to the even greater potential of U.S.-based ICBM strategic missiles of the Air Force; to the strategic weapons aboard carriers of the 7th Fleet and Strategic Air Command planes which rotate in and out of Western Pacific bases and to the tactical-size atomic weapons available to land and carrier-based planes.

The weapons of the Polaris fleet are designed only for big-scale, strategic war.

But the standing and special orders and particularly, the "command and control" system are a fundamental part of both the strategic and tactical weapon systems.

In the strategic phase of the command and control system, the Polaris forces operate under this procedure:

At the top, Washington is linked via radio at all times with Polaris submarine on patrol. This communications linkage is through a "redundant" (alternate) network of radio circuits, so that if one fails another workable system is ready to take over.

Polaris submarines can receive radio signals, even submerged — as they usually are — through use of a very low frequency that penetrates salt water.

The chain of command for orders to fire — or not to fire — begins with the President, then goes through the secretary of defense, the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

City Budget Nearly One Million Over Revenues

based on the present mill levy of 17.1 mills with an estimated $10 million increase in assessed valuation.

Pushing the budget beyond the expected income are capital outlays in public works, long-delayed park improvements and requests for more manpower and facilities for the police department, plus increased facilities for the fire department.

The police department wants 18 more men and more patrol cars. The fire department wants a new fire station and other facilities.

Biery said there would be no across-the-board wage increases though both the policemen and firemen have asked for wage increases and shorter hours.

In brief, the city manager said, the police department and social investigator requested budget for 1965 is $1,059,330, which compares with the 1964 adjusted budget of $943,025.

The 1965 fire department requested budget totals $1,049,095; this year's budget is $822,910. Next year's budget request includes $220,980 for capital outlays, with $104,800 of that being for a new fire station at Airport and Chelton Roads, plus a pumper for it, a replacement pumper and a new aerial truck for No. 7 station.

Requests for public works special projects for 1965 total $566,020, with $485,750 of that for capital outlays. Some of the principal items include the city's share of the next improvements district, $60,000; city's share of arterial streets, $153,000; storm sewer (Camp Creek extension), $115,000; open and Evergreen Cemetery, $34,400; pave Fountain Street across Evergreen Cemetery, $34,400; repaving portions of roads in the Garden of the Gods and North Cheyenne Canon, $42,120; storm sewers on West Bijou Street, $99,500.

The city manager also said that about $225,000 is requested next year for work in Memorial Park and the Bird Farm Park. It is also proposed to expand about $100,000 for the 4 and 8 per cent land funds for additional improvements in Audubon Park, Westmoor Park, Mark Twain Park and a park site at East Pikes Peak Avenue and Stanford. This $100,000 does not show in park budget requests.

The city manager began his study for the 1965 budget about a month earlier than usual. He said this early study is occasioned by his concern over problems that will confront him and the City Council "in developing a budget that will meet the needs of the growth in area and population during the last year, and also to attempt to catch up in some ways with many of the deferred capital outlay expenditures."

On commenting on the department head requests, Biery said that "while it undoubtedly will be possible to materially reduce those needs and postpone some capital outlays, it is felt that park improvements, storm drainage corrective construction, fire department capital needs and police department added personnel put off from the past can no longer be neglected for serious consideration."

The city manager has presented to the City Council a summary of the department requests and expected revenue, with no attempt at this time to balance the budget by either increasing revenue or decreasing expense.

"It is felt that the city manager and the City Council must work as a team in attempting to determine what the needs of the community area and how they shall be financed," he said.

At the present time the department heads are preparing and will report to the city manager a realistic five-year program of capital needs "so that we not only can look at the 1965 budget, but have a real idea of how these capital needs can be spread out over a period of five years and be accomplished at that time."

The city manager went on to add that "most of these capital needs are ones that should have been completed now and it is expected, as the growth of the community continues, that new needs will continually arise that must be then added to the program we are working on now."

In regard to general park improvements, all such expenses were deleted from the 1964 budget on the basis that a bond issue would be presented to the people. "Up to the present time," the city manager said, "this has not been accomplished and some decision must be made with reference to these park capital outlay unmet needs."

The Park and Recreation Advisory Board has recommended that $132,500 be spent next year from tax funds on Memorial Park improvements. These improvements would include a sprinkling system (one phase), grade work, road to Prospect Lake, boat dock, eight tennis courts and building, botanical supplies, lake side picnic area, restroom, play area, fishing pier and restrooms.

The board also recommended $68,500 improvements in the Bird Farm area and including such things as grade work, irrigation system, botanical supplies, picnic areas, baseball diamond, play area, lighting, shelter, storage and restrooms.

The $10,500 suggested for the other parks would include such things as botanical supplies, picnic areas, play areas, lighting, picnic units, ball diamonds, tennis courts, shelter, storage, restrooms, etc.

In regard to storm drainage, the city manager said the city has attempted in many ways to eliminate this problem in the older parts of Colorado Springs, one of which was a special assessment district in the Palmer Park area; this failed because of nearly 100 per cent opposition by residents.

The city manager noted that the area around West Bijou Street is continually being flooded "and it appears the only method of satisfying these conditions is by including from year to year monies in the operating budget for construction purposes. There is 99,500 proposed for such work next year.

In regard to the police department, Biery said the 1964 request for additional men was not allowed. "But in 1964 the city increased 50 per cent in area and thereby has added greatly to the responsibility of the police so that in thinking of the 1965 budget, the police department is not only facing a shortage for 1964, but a need for additional men in 1965," he said.

The 1965 police budget requests 18 additional men. Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick said police must now cover 34½ square miles. He estimated the present population at 86,000 and estimated it would be 90,000 by the end of 1965.

He also noted that serious crimes have increased 11.5 per cent over 1963, moving traffic violations have increased 26 per cent and accident reports have increased 14 per cent.

For one thing, the police department is proposing the creation of two new police districts, which would require 11 new patrolmen and two cruisers. These proposed new districts would be Nos. 7 and 8.

Due to the increase of serious crimes in the city and the effect of Colorado rules of criminal procedure, which requires more time in investigation of criminal cases and preparing court cases with the district attorney's staff, the chief is asking for two new patrolemn to work in plain clothes in the detective bureau.

Additional help is also needed in the Identification and Records Bureau, administration and communications, plus three additional patrolmen and one cruiser for traffic control, especially as it concerns East Highway 24, South Circle Drive, Academy Boulevard and the industrial area on the Garden of the Gods Road.

The police chief has also asked the director of public works for certain improvements in and around the police building, including installation of a washed air system in the jail area, heated carports for motorcycles and scooters, additional storage for bicycles and large items, installation of a water heater in the basement of the building to insure proper working of the air conditioning system.

In connection with the fire department, the city manager said that "in order to protect the citizens of Colorado Springs against a raise in their insurance rates, it is necessary that the fire-fighting facilities of the city be extended in accordance with the growth of the city.

"At the present time we are certain that we need complete reconstruction of our fire alarm system, the addition of at least two fire stations, and aerial truck and several pumpers.

"These cannot all be accomplished in one year, but must be provided for each year as we go along. It must also be remembered that as we increase the fire stations, we also increase the numbes of personnel and thereby tremendously increase the cost of the department."

The city manager also noted that the city is just a few points out of 5th class in the matter of fire insurance rating. Should the city drop to 5th class, and this could occur unless improvements are made, fire insurance rates would increase.

In his budget letter to department heads in June, the city manager asked that no across-the-board salary increases be included in the 1965 budget requests since most salaries were increased for 1964. He asked that only emergency merit increases be requested.

But included among information sent to the City Council were letters from the wage and hour committees of both the police and fire departments. Each committee recommended to their chiefs that an 8 per cent pay increase be asked for all members of the departments, plus shorter working hours.

The fire committee asked for three additional shifts off per year, which would reduce the present 67.5 hour work week to 66 hours.

The police department committee asked for an additional hour off per week. The department now works a 44-hour week. It was also mentioned the department would like a 40-hour week, the same as most city employes and most police departments throughout the country.

Biery said the police request on wage increases and hour reduction would cost about $76,700 (126 man department) and $68,300 for the fire department (107 man department). As a matter of comparison, a 10 per cent general wage increase for other than police and fire would cost about $118,000.

The police budget proposes the addition of 18 men. If this were cut to 14 men, the increase in the police budget would be $90,000.

The 8 per cent wage increases proposed by the two committees, plus the shorter working hours, are not reflected in the 1965 proposed budget.

The 1965 proposed budget shows $2,903,175 for salaries, $1,039,555 for capital outlays and $1,761,865 for other expenses.

On the revenue side of the picture, $800,000 will come from the Department of Public Utilities in lieu of taxes. On the city manager's estimate of a $134,000,000 assessed valuation at 17.1 mills, funds derived from taxes will total about $2,245,000. The rest of the $4,802,750 will come from miscellaneous revenue, licenses, etc.

The city manager said much discussion, policy making and refinement will be necessary before a new budget can be adopted.

GOP Asks for $13 Million For Goldwater Campaign

total popular vote quota or on what it would mean in electoral votes.

State chairmen were handed precinct quotas at the meeting.

Burch said these were prepared by national committee aide Raymond Humphrey on the basis of precinct turnouts in past elections and the votes cast in them for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and for Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 nominee.

Burch said his $20 million guess on the Johnson campaign was based upon figures given the Republicans by advertising agencies retained by the Goldwater forces.

Burch said the Democrats are spending about $4 million on television spot announcements. He said that is as much as the Republicans will spend on their entire television effort, accounting for nearly one-third of GOP spending.

Burch said the Democrats have $7.5 million in the bank.

"We're even, that's all," he said.

Burch also made these points:

—Goldwater will travel the nation in a chartered jet. The Republicans also are chartering a four-engine propjet for Miller and for short hops by Goldwater.

—Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and Rep. Robert H. Michel of Illinois will serve as a Republican "Truth Squad" trailing Johnson and his running mate to reply to Democratic campaign statements.

—Nixon has promised to campaign for "at least five weeks steady" for the GOP ticket.

—Eisenhower has two dates, in Illinois and Oklahoma, and Burch hopes "he will accept considerably more than that." He said the Republicans hope to use Eisenhower's campaign talents in large cities.

—Miller will be on hand for Goldwater's campaign kickoff in Presrott, Ariz., Sept. 3. Goldwater, in turn, may go to Lockport, N.Y., to appear with Miller when the vice presidential nominee opens his campaign Sept. 5.

Democrats' Fund Drive Ends Today

The county - wide Democratic pledge fund drive which began Aug. 1 will wind up today with a report brunch for all workers at 9 a.m. in the Red Carpet Restaurant.

Co-chairmen for the drive are Mrs. Norman Foote and Mrs. Lynn Larsen. The pledge fund drive replaced the Dollars for Democrats which has been the primary fund campaign in the precincts in other years.

The co-chairmen predicted last week that the pledge drive would raise more money than the Dollars for Democrats did last year.

The top pledge getter will be awarded two tickets to the state Democratic fund raising dinner scheduled for Sept. 12 in the Denver Coliseum. This is a $10 per person box supper specifically for fund raising.

U.S. Army-Air Force Clash Ironed Out in Viet Nam

Center, the Army Aviation Element, the Air Liaison Office, and other bureaus.

Under the new arrangement, close relations would be established among these groups and the shots would be called for all of them by Vietnamese army corps commanders.

Presumably, the agreement would cover the U.S. Army's detachment of two-engine Mohawk fighter-reconnaissance planes.

The operating philosophy of the expected interservice agreement would make Army and Air Force aircraft almost interchangeable.

The problem goes much deeper than mere bureaucratic confusion.

The U.S. Air Force both at high levels and at operating field levels, has disapproved of the U.S. Army combat aviation function. Many Air Force men feel this function can be handled better by the Air Force.

Army men, in turn, believe the Air Force has not been able to provide the close support for ground forces that can be provided by Army-controlled helicopters. In any case, the Army argues these provide a much more stable and accurate platform for firing rockets and machine guns into enemy emplacements at close range than conventional fighter planes.

Cooperation between the Army and Air Force improved somewhat last year when the Air Force began stationing forward observers with U.S. Army field detachments.

But bitter arguments persist between helicopter and fighter pilots, and a final truce will depend at least partly on improving relations between these two groups.

Soviets Pledge to Defend Cyprus Against 'Invasion'

tion of the explosive crisis agreeable to himself.

The U.S. State Department in Washington had no immediate comment on the Soviet pledge.

The Soviet statement did not specify what it would consider an attack by a foreign power, thus it was not clear whether the Kremlin meant incidents such as last week's Turkish air attacks or only an armed ground landing.

It was clear, however, that the Soviet military aid offer placed East and West in direct and dangerous confrontation in a tense part of the world.

If a spark should ignite and the Soviet Union should attack Turkey, for instance, for allegedly attacking Cyprus, the United States is bound by treaty to come to Turkey's aid.

Where this would leave Greece, which is also treaty-bound to aid Turkey, was problematical.

At present there are 6,500 United Nations troops in Cyprus trying to keep the peace between warring Turkish and Greek Cypriot factions.

Just where a Soviet-Cyprus link, let alone direct Soviet intervention, would leave the United Nation's was another question raised by Saturday's statement.

Tonkin Incident Caused Struggle Between Reds

Vietnam's downfall while China remained unscathed.

North Viet Nam and Red China are allies but there is a long history of contention between them based on prior centuries of Chinese rule. There is no doubt that North Viet Nam has its own expansionist interest in Southeast Asia. Ho Chi Minh, the North Vietnamese leader, has ties with Russia as well as China. He has often tried to seize opportunities to play the two Giants against each other.

Against this background, it is believed, North Viet Nam would have reasoned that if it could somehow succeed in damaging or sinking a U.S. destroyer, this would be a tremendous propaganda feather in its cap and also a warning to the United States.

At the same time, it is believed, Hanoi may have hoped by the attacks to draw somewhat stronger support from Red China.

But immediately following the PT attacks and during U.S. counterattacks on North Vietnamese bases, China was highly cautious in its statements. It is probable that during this period Hanoi was plugging hard for stronger support and that there was some diplomatic friction.

From the Red Chinese point of view, North Viet Nam is a welcome ally but at the same time a danger that might draw them into a big war not of their own planning.

Two Men Slug And Bind Clerk, Take $80 Cash

Two men slugged the night man at the Union Ice and Fuel Co., 110 W. Vermijo Ave., bound him, threatened him, and then took $80 before vanishing, police reported Saturday.

The man who was attacked was John Joyce, 1940 S. Hancock Ave., who came on duty only about an hour before the robbery, which was reported to have happened about 11:30 p.m. Friday.

Joyce told this story to Detectives George Follmer and Dewey Gieck:

Some one rang the service bell at the Plant, and so Joyce unlocked the door and stepped out onto the dock, believing a customer wanted to buy some ice.

As he spotted one man, he was struck by another and knocked to the dock. The two men then grabbed him, pushed his head down, and dragged him into the building, one of the men told Joyce "Look up you —— and I'll kill you, ya heah" he said.

The thugs bound and blindfolded him, took his billfold, removing the money from it, then went to the cash register. Joyce said he had earlier removed the money from the register and put it in his billfold.

After that, they returned to Joyce and one of the men bound his hands behind him with a piece of light welding rod, he said.

After the robbers left, Joyce managed to free his feet, then worked his way to an electric grinder. After getting that turned on, he backed up to it and ground the welding rod in two.

Then he went to the home of Richard Harrison, 116 W. Vermijo Ave., also an employee of the company, and asked him for help.

Harrison told the detectives that he had heard a car at the plant shortly after Joyce had relieved him at the plant, but that he had assumed it was a customer.

The alarm was turned in at 12:46 p.m. by action of the ceiling sprinkler head system. The water from the sprinkler system held the blaze down, but there was enough of it for the firemen to fight when they arrived. The damage to the building was reported slight. The report of the Fire Department Saturday was that the origin of the fire was undetermined.

DRAFT REQUESTED

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department has requested the Selective Serviec to draft 6,600 men into the Army in October.

A total of 17,100 recruits will be needed by the military services during that month, the department said, but 10,500 are expected to volunteer.

Pinching Policewoman Leads to Court Case

WREXHAM, Wales (AP) — Robert Pritchard, 19, felt frisky here so he pinched a pretty girl standing next to him in a bar.

The girl, Policewoman Barbara Gibbons, promptly hauled Pritchard off toward the police station.

She got him there after thwarting a break for freedom by the teen-ager and chasing him for a quarter mile.

Pritchard told the court that he didn't pinch. He smacked. The court ruled that was really no defense.

Handing down a fine for common and indecent assault, Magistrate F. S. Hackett commented: "We must protect our police officers."

Suicide has become one of the 10 leading causes of death in Kentucky.

Rheumatic Heart Disease Tamed By New Process

Rheumatic heart disease, once called the "scourge of childhood," is being tamed by direct attack on the "strep" bacteria which too often start the sequence of illnesses ending in permanently damaged hearts.

Results of a 10-year study, recently completed by Dr. Gene Stollerman, confirmed that penicillin, prescribed over long periods of time, halts "strep" infections, prevents rheumatic fever from following a few weeks later, and avoids the risk of rheumatic heart disease.

The study, reported in "Annals of Internal Medicine" and conducted at Irvington House in New York, also showed that penicillin can be taken safely over a long period without developing sensitivity to the drug.

Reduction in rheumatic heart disease resulting from repeated attacks of rheumatic fever has been a major goal of the Colorado Heart Association since its inception. The low-cost penicillin program, now in its seventh year, has registered over 9,000 patients. The program, developed with the cooperation of the Colorado Pharmacal Association, enables patients to obtain oral penicillin at reduced rates to encourage the long-term treatment necessary to prevent "strep" infections.

Colorado Heart Association is also promoting better diagnosis and earlier detection of "strep" to prevent the first attack of rheumatic fever. Intensive educational programs to inform the public, research, support of laboratory services, and professional education-plus new surgical techniques-have resulted in decreasing the rheumatic heart death rate in Colorado from 18.2 to 13.8 per 100,000 in the 10-year period following 1950.

Dr. Stollerman's study found that "strep" can occur without symptoms. He also found evidence that the more severe a "strep" infection, the more severe the rheumatic fever may be.

The report of the study stressed the importance of drug therapy for the "strep-prone" patient. It emphasized protection for the child who may have suffered heart damage from a first rheumatic fever attack, since subsequent attacks are likely to increase the damage.

Academy Queen To Visit With Gov. John Love

Colorado Gov. John Love will receive a visit from royalty in his Denver office Monday morning. A queen from the Air Force Academy and six hopeful successors to her throne will come calling.

Janet Pitman,a secretary in the Office of Information, will ask Gov. Love for his donation to the Academy's 1964 Air Force Aid Society fund campaign.

Miss Pitman was named queen of the 1963 Carnival From Danger. The unique event has a dual purpose: first, to keep Academy personnel off highways crowded with holiday traffic, and second, to earn money for the annual Aid Society fund drive.

With Miss Pitman will be six 1964 hopefuls for the Carnival Queen title including: Ada Kirkman, Karen Bitter, Mary Ellen McKinzie, Mary Liz Quinlan, Sally Sampson, and Jacque Kuilema.

The meeting between queen and chief executive was arranged by Merf Evans, director of the Colorado Highway Safety Council.

Winner of the 1964 crown will receive a $50 savings bond and will sit as a guest of the Cadet Wing at all five Falcon football games.

Capt. Lawrence Means is Carnival From Danger project officer. S. Sgt. Wayne Karonvich, coordinator.

Class of 1968 Cadets Prepare For Parades

Two trips to the parade ground loom large to the more than 950 members of the Air Force Academy Class of 1968.

Basic cadets, nearing the end of the 8½-week summer training program, will parade twice Tuesday and Wednesday — before classes resume for fall semester. Both parades are highly significant to the new class.

Tuesday at 1:15 p.m. basics will take part in the 81st Fighter Wing Memorial Trophy presentation parade. The large silver trophy is presented each year to the basic cadet squadron demonstrating outstanding ability in six areas ranging from marching to meals to performance at field day (also Tuesday).

Wednesday, at 11 a.m., the Class of 1968 will march onto the parade ground as basic cadets but leave some 30 minutes later as full-fledged members of the Cadet Wing. At completion of the training cycle each year, basics officially become members of the Cadet Wing during the Acceptance Day Parade.

Following the parade, the Class of 1968 will receive shoulder boards designating them Fourth Classmen.

Both parades are open to the public. The parade ground is directly east of the main academic area.

Boy's Club Plans to Vacate Campsite at Emerald Valley

By DAVE STINNETT
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

The Colorado Springs Boy's Club today disclosed near future plans for giving up the site of their mountain summer camp for boys, located in Emerald Valley.

Forestry Service expansion plans for the area, in addition to expiration of the club's lease on the campsite next January have made the move necessary, a spokesman said.

The camp has been located at Emerald Valley, 13 miles from Colorado Springs and south off the Old Stage Road, since 1960.

Boy's Club officials said that they are now investigating possible sites for new location and are looking for available private land near Colorado Springs suitable for a summer camp for boys.

"The sooner we find a suitable area, the better it will be. In fact, to have a camp for the boys next season, means we must relocate before winter," Boy's Club Director Tom Hoe stated.

Hoe said that Boy's Club workers had explored many prospects, including areas under Federal Land Management, but had found all unsuitable for camp use, for various reasons.

The club decided that private property would be sought for purchase or acquisition, suitable to both the club and the land owner. Hoe said that the land should have water and be some where in the neighborhood of about 40 acres with some wooded area. Ideally it should not be too distant from Colorado Springs, possibly within a one to two-hour drive from the city.

The Boy's Club director stated that size of the camp, however, would not be the most important factor and would depend on the location. He gave accommodation figures of a maximum 40 boys per week using the campsite.

Hoe said that the decision to relocate the Boy's Club Camp was also based on plans of the Forestry Service to install some 15 public camping areas around and adjacent to the present Emerald Valley Camp, all within the three-miles to the Old Stage Road entrance of the present campsite. He said a Forestry spokesman had given a projected starting date for the public campsites as 1966. Hoe said that the Boy's Club had been given the option to renew their lease of the campsite, on a year to year basis.

Before deciding in favor of relocation of the camp, Hoe said that consideration was given upcoming building repair costs, water system improvements, and miscellaneous repairs and improvements to the camp that are presently needed. These added to the coming date of lease expiration were considered in making the decision favoring the move.

Objections to lands available to the club under the Federal Land Management, which were investigated by Boy's Club committeemen, were found unsuitable due to inaccessability of some, locations boxed-in by private lands which require trespassing to reach, locations too close to privately owned resorts, lack of woods or water, or a combination of those characteristics, the club director said.

As spokesman for the Boy's Club of Colorado Springs in any negotiation for a new location of a summer camp for the club, Hoe urged persons interested in the project to contact him at the Boy's Club, 605 S. Tejon St., or call 633-5888 or 634-0368.

A long-standing main operation of the Boy's Club is the complete series of physical fitness, arts and crafts, woodworking, hobby and similar programs, all under professional supervision. Much of the activity involves group or team programs, with ample provision for individual goals.

The wide variety of programs and projects are there to "offer every boy a good start," Hoe said.

Scenic High Drive Now Open to Traffic

The scenic High Drive in Bear Creek Canon is once again open to traffic, according to Gene German, superintendent of Parks for the City Parks and Recreation Department.

He said repairs had to be made following heavy rain in that area earlier this month.

Several spots had to be repaired, with one of the more troublesome being a rock slide near the caretaker's house.

Th High Drive, which is city maintained, is a one-way down drive from near where the Goldcamp Road intersects the one coming up out of North Cheyen coming up out of North Cheyene Canon. The highway goes through Bear Creek Canon.

First Federal's Branch Office Given Approval

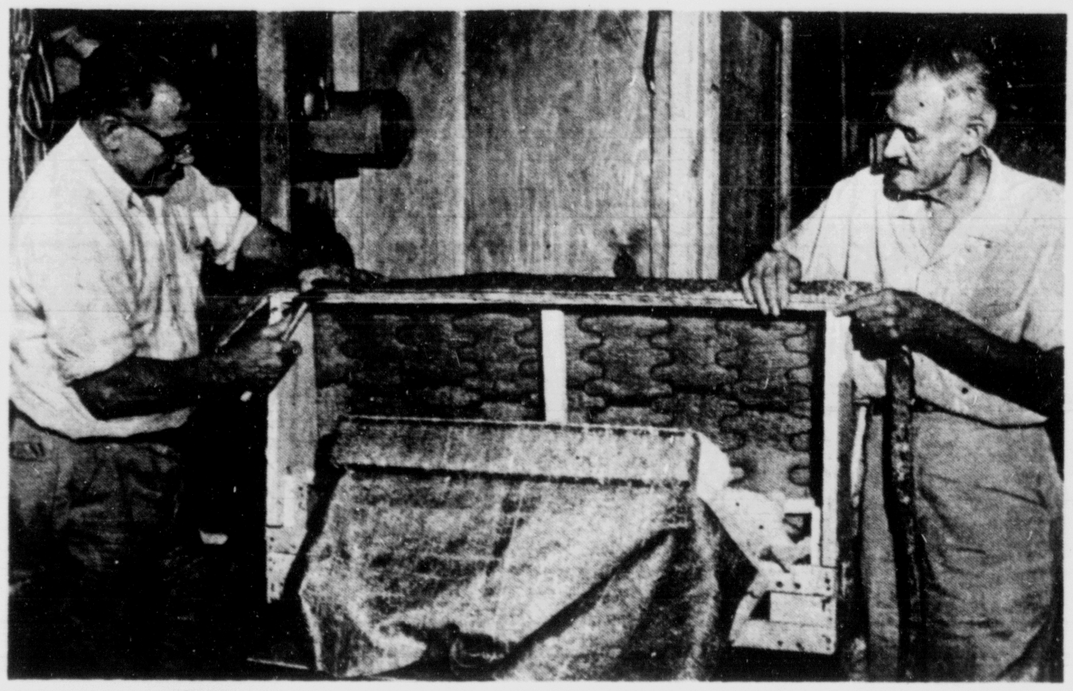
The formal approval of the East Side Branch Office of First Federal Savings and Loan Association has been received from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, Washington, D.C., it was announced Saturday by Donald W. Nienhuser, executive vice president of the firm.

The site for the new branch office facility was purchased by First Federal Savings and Loan Association a year ago, and is located directly East of the new Montgomery Ward Store. Located at 2500 E. Pikes Peak Ave., it has a frontage of nearly 500 feet on Pikes Peak Avenue and a depth of 150 feet on Barnes Street.

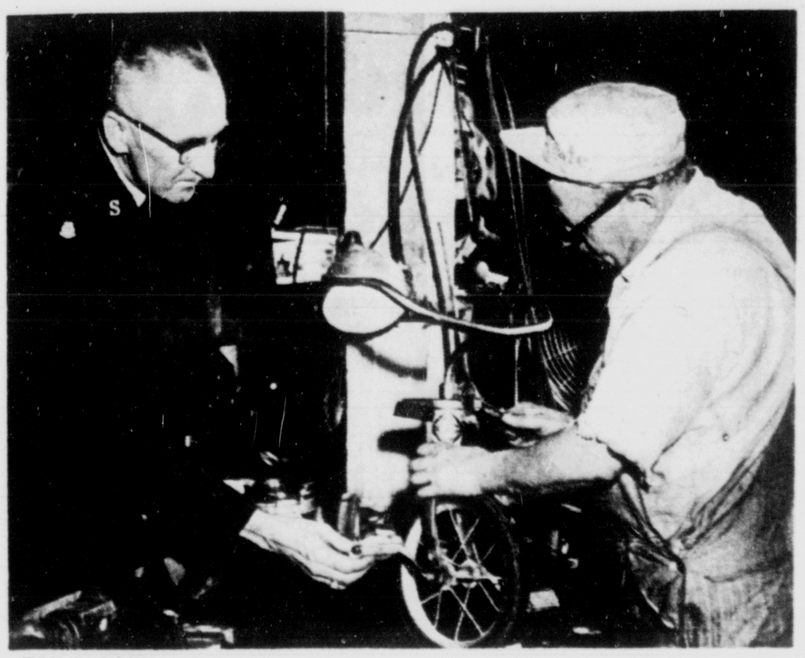
The firm is proceeding with architectural plans for the development of the site adjacent to the rapidly growning Pikes Peak Plaza Shopping Center, and it is anticipated that the new branch office will be in operation by next Spring.

The main office of the financial firm will continue to be located at 421 N. Tejon St., in quarters which were built in 1958.

The local savings and loan association is in its 31st year of operation, with resources of nearly twenty-four million dollars, and effective July 1st it increased its dividend rate paid on insured savings accounts to 4½ per cent per annum.



FURNITURE DEPARTMENT — Two beneficiaries of the Salvation Army Men's Social Center repair a piece of discarded furniture that will be put on sale in one of the four outlet stores located in Colorado Springs, Pueblo, La Junta and Canon City. Furniture items are often completely rebuilt; others need only to be reupholstered. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)



TOY REPAIR — Outgrown and broken toys are cleaned and repaired in this workshop. Major Charles W. Griffin, left, manager of the Center, discusses the repair of a tricycle with one of the workers. Recently, a large toy tractor was received at the Center for repair and sale. To make the vehicle more realistic, the toy repairman welded a mock exhaust pipe onto the hood. Salvation Army's Service Center Gives Man Chance to Help Himself

By ROBIN TIBBETS
Gazette Telegraph
City Editor

The best way to help a man who has lost his human dignity is to give him an opportunity to help himself.

This is often easier said than done, but the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center has accomplished the task.

A broken chair, a table damaged by fire, an inoperable carpet sweeper, an old washing machine with a burned out motor, items usually relegated to landfills and junk yards, can mean the difference between happiness and desolation to the group of men who live at the center, located at 132 S. Cascade Ave.

These men, most of whom have a compulsion to drink alcoholic beverages, and who, as a result of their weakness are unable to hold steady jobs, repair usable discards for sale in the Salvation Army Store located at 17 W. Colorado Ave.

By repairing broken chairs, damaged tables, electric motors and other items sold at the store, the residents of the center become useful citizens, able to make their own way. This is accomplished by returning the proceeds from the sale of used items to the center, where the money is used to provide lodging, food, recreational facilities and small luxuries for the men who do the work.

"The Men's Social Service Center exists for one purpose—the rehabilitation of men in spirit, mind and body. It is a program for men who have lost their grip on themselves and have become incapable of functioning as reasonable, adequate and self-supporting citizens," to quote an information folder published by the Salvation Army.

"The Center exists for the man, not the man for the Center," the pamphlet states. "This is not a transient Center, but a long range rehabilitation program."

Residents of the Center not only receive treatment for their physical needs but are also given spiritual guidance, psychological therapy and social rehabilitation.

Valuable therapy is provided through gathering, sorting, mending, painting and repairing the household items donated by residents of the community.

A trained psychologist who works with the men one day a week is employed by the Center. He assists them with their emotional problems on a group therapy basis.

In effect, then, the Center is a home for the homeless; a place where they may regain the human dignity they have lost in succumbing to their own weaknesses such as the excessive use of alcohol and the resulting despondency and feelings of degredation.

It is a place where a man may refresh his knowledge of a former trade or learn a new one.

Many men who took advantage of the opportunities offered by the Center are now employed in local business firms as skilled repairmen. They have once more become useful citizens who are a credit to themselves, to their community, and to the Salvation Army which gave them the opportunity to help themselves.

Major Charles W. Griffin, manager of the Center, reports that the service center program has been in effect in this area for about five years. It was three years ago that the new residence was opened at 132 S. Cascade Ave. Today, about 30 men are housed in the center, just 10 short of the maximum capacity of 40.

A medical doctor visits the residence every Wednesday to give physical examinations to beneficiaries, as the residents of the Center are known. Too, a doctor of psychology spends about 2½ hours per week giving lectures on alcoholism and working individually with three men per week.

"Men who come to us are from all walks of life," Maj. Griffin said. Some, he said, come from prison as parolees. "We are their last hope of getting a parole," Griffin said. The Center takes mostly unskilled men or those who have a long history of problems; the type of problem a man has usually determines if can be accepted. At the present time, there are two parolees at the Center.

Other men are transferred to the Center from the Colorado State Hospital at Pueblo. Two of the present salaried employees of the Salvation Army came from the state hospital and "made good," Maj. Griffin stated.

A few men "come in from the street," the major said. "These create a screening problem, for the Center is not an overnight shelter; it is a continuing program of rehabilitation."

In addition, a chapter of Alcoholics Anonymous is maintained at the Center, and the men help each other with their drink problems.

The work the beneficiaries do provides for the services they receive, Maj. Griffin said. These include a room, three square meals every day, recreational facilities and even a small cash gratuity every week, with which the men may do as they wish.

As each man is accepted at the Center, he is given a small gratuity which, Maj. Griffin explains, is "not meant to be a wage in any sense."

After three weeks, if the man is doing his job properly, keeps his room and work areas clean and gets along well with the other beneficiaries, the gratuity is increased as a theraputic instrument. At the end of three more weeks, if the man allows his control to slip, the gratuity is reduced to the original amount.

Beneficiaries can receive a maximum of $15 per week over and above their room, board and clothing allowance. This money may be used to buy small luxuries, such as cigarettes, shaving items, etc., or it may be saved for future use.

Maj. Griffin said that the Center is currently on the look-out for wholesome musical and entertainment programs such as those provided by youth groups; programs which would be attractive to an anti-social individual. He said appointments can be made by calling his office at the Salvation Army Store, 17 W. Colorado Ave.

At the present time, shops are maintained for reparing and painting toys; repairing large appliances such as washing machines, ranges and refrigerators; renovating and rebuilding furniture items including divans and chairs; repairing television sets, radios, and small appliances such as electric coffee makers, fans and irons.

Four stores sell the repaired and usable items. They are located at Canon City, Pueblo, La Junta, and Colorado Springs. Goods are received from each of those areas, and the Center also gets beneficiaries from them.

The Center has four trucks. Two of them operate all the time in Colorado Springs, while one makes the Pueblo-Canon City route and the other makes the so-called "country" routes which include the small towns south of Highway 24, including the Arkansas Valley and points south and east.

Trucks cover all of Southern Colorado, except the far western areas in the vicinity of Durango.

In order to keep the Center operating, an average of 6,000 pounds of used clothing must be collected per day plus furniture, appliances, and other items.

In rags alone, the Center ships between 40,000 and 50,000 pounds of rags per month. "There is very little waste," Maj. Griffin said.

Close to $200,000 a year income is required to keep the Center and its store in operation on the present basis, Griffin said. He stated that future plans call for a new building to house the entire store-shop-residence project, with enough space for about 70 men.

Maj. Griffin said that the Center hopes eventually to employ a full-time social worker, a vocational guidance instructor, and to have a psychiatrist available on a consultation basis in addition to a psychologist.

Is the program successful?

"We feel that in the overall course of working with men, about 15 to 20 per cent are rehabilitated," Maj. Griffin said. "Out of the 165 to 170 men we handled last year, we feel that about 22 or 23 were rehabilitated," he stated.

LARGE APPLIANCES—An old washing machine is being taken apart by a beneficiary at the Men's Social Service Center in preparation for making repairs. After the worn parts have been replaced, the machine may receive a touch-up paint job, if needed. It will then be placed in one of the four Salvation Army stores for sale to the public. Proceeds are turned back into the operation of the Center. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Cost of Government High In County, Report Says

NEW YORK —(Special to the Gazette Telegraph) — The cost of government is relatively high in El Paso County.

Local residents pay somewhat more, on a per capita basis to meet the regular payroll for their public employes than do people in most parts of the United States.

This is brought out in a new federal report on public employment at the local level of government, which comprises counties, townships, municipaliites, school districts and special districts. Excluded are persons who are in federal or state employ.

Comparative figures are given by the Census Bureau to show the number of people soemployed and the size of the payrolls in each locality. The study is based on data obtained from every area of the country in the course of its 1962 Census of Governments.

In El Paso County, the report shows, the payroll for all local government workers amounted to $1,708,000 during the month selected for the survey.

This sum, divided equally among the local population, was equivalent to a cost of $10.68 per resident.

It was more than was spent for the purpose in most communities in the United States, the average being $10.59 per month.

It was less, however, than the average cost throughout the State of Colorado, $11.51 per capita.

The census report shows a total of 4,685 persons employed by the various branches of local government in El Paso County. The number includes 4,041 full-time workers and the remainder part-time.

To get an understanding of how this stacks up with public employment in other communities, it was necessary to convert the part-time workers into their equivalent number of full-timers.

As adjusted, there is one full-time worker locally for every 38 residents.

This is high in relation to the situation in other areas. Nationally, the average is one person employed by a local government for every 42 people. In the Mountain States, it is one for 39.

Education accounts for more than half (52 per cent) of all local government employment, according to the findings. This includes teachers, school librarians, administrators and others connected with school systems.

New School Teachers Need Local Housing

New teachers coming into the School District No. 11 system this fall will need apartments and houses to rent. Approximately 200 new teachers will join the teaching staff, which numbers 1,008, for the 1964-65 school year. Seventy-eight of these teachers will be working in newly-created classrooms.

The district's housing office assists teachers in locating suitable accommodations. Most of the teachers will be desiring furnished houses and apartments; however, unfurnished accommodations are also requested.

Listings for available rentals should be made by calling the housing office, 633-8773, extension 75.

Florence Council To Hear Talk On Home Rule

The council has been engaged in probing the feasibility of home rule for Florence. It currently is checking all pros and cons available on the subject.

Annual Pre-School Clothing Campaign to Open Aug. 24

Major Charles W. Griffin, manager of the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center, announced that the Center's annual pre-school clothing drive gets under way Monday, Aug. 24, with an intensive week of solicitations for discarded, usable dresses, skirts, slips, trousers, shirts, underwear and other clothing items.

He said, "From past experience we've found that the weeks just before school opens are the most timely for a clothing drive. Mothers welcome a place to send school clothes which have been outgrown since last year. And we welome the discards for resale in our Thrift Stores, where they'll be purchased by low income families who need to save money on their back-to-school budgets."

Maj. Griffin pointed out that even though the concerted effort in this drive was for used clothing, any usable or repairable discard would be welcomed. He said that tables, chairs, chests of drawers, bedding and dishes are always in demand.

Contributions of discards are deductible for income tax purposes, and on request the Red Shield driver will provide a signed acknowledgement of receipt of items donated.

Those wishing to contribute can call the Salvation Army, 633-4697 in Colorado Springs for at-the-door pick up of any discards. Large sturdy paper bags are available for use in sorting and packing clothing discards, and anyone needing them is invited to call.

The proceeds from collection, and later resale, of these contributions support the work of the Men's Social Service Center program in Southern Colorado. The program is one of rehabilitation of homeless men, most of whom suffer from a compulsive drinking problem.

The program is administered from Colorado Springs, where complete facilities are maintained for care and treatment of men who are trying to overcome the problem. It is a long range program, not a transient center.

The men, recruited from communities in this part of the state, are given housing, food, and the benefits of spritual, social and psychological reorientation through trained Salvation Army officers and lay specialists.

A major protion of the therepy is derived from the benefits of work in a Christian atmosphere, work provided through reparing, mending, painting, and sorting the discarded items contributed from Southern Colorado communities, Maj. Griffin said.

Major Griffin reported, "Each day we learn more and more about how to help these men, and our record of success in their rehabilitation continues to improve. Each year, with the help of Colorado Springs' salvage-able discards we are able to return more men to a useful palce in society."

Used clothing contributions for this pre-school clothing drive may also be left at any of the Salvation Army drop boxes, conveniently located in Colorado Springs.

'Architecture' Emphasized in New York Style

By Jean Sprain Wilson

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sexless," muttered the males. "Divine," murmured the females as James Galanos had the last word on what the moneyed miss will wear this winter.

Other American collections opened three months ago and the French ones recently, but the California designer protected himself from style plagiarism by waiting until the season was practically here before revealing his own designs.

His only concessions to the trousers trend here and abroad are quilted Chinese brocade hostess jump suits with sleeveless winglike velvet coats over them.

As far as the topless fashion madness goes, Galanos conceded to bareness on the spine side of the body only.

A self-fabric bra was a part of the otherwise backless to the waist number, with gem dandies dangling from the back band.

But from the very first number — a black semi-fitted princess lines with rounded button-detailed sleeves — it was obvious Thursday that architecture of the costume was more important to Galanos than the framework of the lady under it.

Among the slim coat and suit styling details were pocket flaps, tiny lapels, welt seaming, side-wrapped and apron-pleated skirts, belts banded across the front, and some back belts slung so low you could swing on them.

For the cocktail crowd, Galanos recommended starkly simple bias cut wools or crepes with long sleeves and hem-flared skirts. For the discotheque enthusiasts the dresses were barer, with V-plunges, halter necks or shoestring straps uncovering pale raw bones.

In these as well as the paisley chiffons with jewels on them the size of doorknobs, or the Grecian-draped or pleated silk numbers these gaunt girls appeared to be too fragile to journey the full stretch of gold carpeting under the hotel ballroom's massive chandeliers.

Yet, at another point they looked like rugged pioneers of the Old West in dark, long-sleeved, bias cut wool dresses hemmed just above the ankle to reveal heavy stockings and T-strapped, square-heeled shoes, all the same dull color.

From the comments in the room it appears it will take some hardy fashion pioneers to put across this too-poor look in a mudless, air- conditioned 20th century.

Wives Protest Union Pickets In Plant Dispute

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS Ind. (AP) — Proclaiming, "Only wives have the right to manage their husbands' lives and money," nine women demonstrated against two Teamsters Union pickets at a small company here Friday.

The company, Plywood of Indiana, a small distributor of building supplies, has only 13 employes. The Teamsters won an election for representation of six drivers and warehouse men in April but no contract has been signed.

C. H. Gibbs, company president said the union struck after he discharged two drivers who failed to report for work.

He asserted one nonstriker had been beaten in a restaurant, flares and paint had been thrown into workers' cars and rifle bullets had damaged trucks the firm leases.

He also said the union has never explained why it is striking.

One of the pickets told newsmen, "I have been instructed not to talk, but I'd sure like to."

The nine women, who lined up sign-plastered autos on the plant's lawn, said they organized the "powder-puff pickets" by telephone and many had not met until Friday.

The leader was blonde Gay Gibbs, wife of the president and secretary-treasurer of the firm.

The other women, who said they were wives of workers, distributed mimeographed sheets stating:

"We do not want our husbands joining a union! They are being paid good money; time-and-a-half for overtime, vacations with pay, hospital insurance, good working conditions and promotions based on their merit. If we have no complaints, our husbands have no complaints and the employer has no complaints, why must we be subjected to all of the above?"

Carson Officer Top Character In New Book

"A Small Artillery Problem" is the chapter heading and "The River and the Gauntlet" by S. L. A. Marshall is the book. A principal character in the chapter is Lt. Col. Rowland B. Shriver Jr., new commander of the 6th Battalion, 21st Artillery, the 5th Infantry Division's elite Honest John battalion at Ft. Carson.

The story tells how Col. Shriver earned a Silver Star in Korea.

Setting for the episode was Thanksgiving, 1950, when, between 1 and 4 a.m., "a considerable number of Chinese" assaulted the position of a battery where Col. Shriver was executive officer.

"We fired everything we had," Col. Shriver said, "including our 105s at 150 yards."

Result: "We maintained the line." The beginning of the Chinese onslaught was successfully resisted.

Besides the Silver Star, he won the Bronze Star, the Distinguished Unit Citation and the Korean Presidential Unit Citation.

During World War II he won the Bronze Star with V Device, for valor, with the 89th Infantry Division, which he joined at Carson. And while with the 2d Infantry Brigade at Ft. Devens, father of the 5th Division's 2d Brigade, he won the Army Commendation Medal for his service. Among other assignments he was commander of a composite battalion.

Trained at Survey School at Ft. Sill, the colonel reported in to what was then Camp Carson for the first of his three tours at the mountain post. He was assigned to the 340th Field Artillery in the 89th Division, which was located at Carson.

In November 1949, he arrived at Carson for his second tour of duty and was here during the disastrous fire of January 1950.

Not long afterwards he found himself in the battery position which Gen. Marshall found so significant that he included the episode in his book.

Col. Shriver served as an instructor at Ft. Sill for 18 months after completing the advanced course, then studied Spanish at the Army Language School.

He had a three-year tour in Panama as secretary to the Latin American School and as artillery instructor. Command and General Staff College followed.

His Spanish was dusted off again during his assignment to Spanish Staff School and two years of duty with Military Assistance Advisory Group in Madrid. When he left for Carson, he was chief of the operations and training branch of the Army Section.

The Pentagon then honored his stated preference and assigned him both to a battalion and to his third tour at Ft. Carson.

The artillery commander resides at 1210 Parkview Blvd. in Skyway with his wife and their three children: Christine, 16, born in Trieste; Stephen, 15, born in Nurnberg, Germany; and Karen, 10, born at Ft. Sill, Okla.

U.S. Deficit Goes Up During Quarter

WASHINGTON — The deficit in the United States' balance sheet in transactions with foreigners increased sharply during the second quarter of the year, the Commerce Department reported. Preliminary estimates placed the red ink at an annual rate of $2.968 billion as against a rate of only $856 million in the first quarter. One reason for the setback was rising imports and falling exports.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: The Moving Matches.

DO THIS: Break each match in the center, and arrange them as shown, so that the broken places touch. Let a drop of water fall so that all the breaks are touched by the water. The matches should not be broken completely in two parts.

Slowly, the matches will begin to move until they have formed a star.

HERE'S WHY: This is an example of capillary action. The water moves by capillary action into the dry wood, swelling the cells. The swelling tends to make the matches straighten out somewhat.

Get the new collection of these science tricks. Look for it in bookstores under the name "Science Circus No. 2." Fleet of New York is the publisher.

First Federal's East Side Office Given Approval

The man who has served for the past three years as the Commander's right arm in the 47th Communications Sq., Ent Air Force Base, retires at the end of this month. M. Sgt. Roderick R. Magee, first sergeant of the 47th, swaps the Air Force "Blue" uniform for civilian garb after 22 years of active military service.

A native of Plymouth, Mass., Sgt. Magee has served overseas in Europe during World War II in France and Hawaii. He served for four years in France before being assigned here in June, 1961. Before that tour, he had been stationed at Hickam Air Base, Hawaii for three years.

Sgt. Magee served a big chunk of his Air Force career in Texas as he was stationed at Lackland AFB and Randolph Field for a combined total of six years.

CU Participates In Composition Course Study

BOULDER — The University of Colorado this year will be one of five schools participating in an experiment designed to determine if freshman composition courses are really worth the trouble.

Beginning this fall, two matched groups of CU students will undergo two years of intensive testing in English. One group of 325 will take the required six hours of freshman English; the other group of 325 will not.

The two groups will be tested following their first and second semesters and after their sophomore year. Similar experimenting will be done at the other four schools involved.

Director of the five-school project is Ross M. Jewell of the State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls. Director on the CU campus is Prof. Harold Kelling of the Department of English.

Kent State University in Ohio, the State University of Iowa and Northern Illinois University also are participating. The study is being supported by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare which also will provide trained, impartial testing personnel.

The study will attempt to learn if improvement in a student's writing in his first year of college is because of formal instruction or because of writing practice in other classes and maturity gained from a year of college experience. The study also will attempt to determine if any improvement made in first year composition courses lasts through the second year.

Kelling emphasized that participation in the "no English composition" group will not deprive any student of English instruction he desires.

First, voluntary participation was one of the conditions for membership in the group. Second, members of the experimental group — like all other CU students — can go to CU's writing clinic for help any time they wish. The writing clinic is a volunteer instructional program operated by graduate students in English.

Kelling also said that members of the experimental group will be free to take English composition courses after the end of their sophomore year if they wish to. In fact, if testing shows they need such course work they may be required to take it.

W. S. Price Visits Family in Springs

William S. Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sloane Price, visited briefly in Colorado Springs last week from New York City. Price has been in New York since completing his military stint in early summer taking special managerial training and a rapid language course at the Berlitz School of Language there in preparation to taking up his civilian duties with Ingersoll Rand de Peru.

He leaves New York shortly for Lima, Peru to take up his new position. Mrs. Price and their small son, who have been spending the summer in Colorado will join him in Lima in mid-September. Bill is a 1957 graduate of Palmer High School.

Death Follows if Body Loses Too Much Liquid

We can live within only certain conditions on earth. We cannot live much more than five weeks without food, and five days without water and five minutes without air. When our bodies lose 10 quarts, or roughly 20 per cent of its liquid, death follows. Moreover, we cannot survive unprotected for long, depending on the humidity and other factors, at temperatures approaching boiling or much below freezing. We must breathe a relatively pure atmosphere containing oxygen and nitrogen in fixed proportions at certain pressures. We require a diet of relatively pure water and food which must meet definite nutritional requirements.

Any significant departure from environmental conditions which are considered normal for us creates stresses ranging from slight discomfort to illness and to death. Is our environment making it more difficult for us to live without health hazards?

There is a growing question as to whether man can successfully adapt to some of the stresses created by the civilization he himself has developed. Public health scientists are wondering whether man is flexible enough to create means of coping with major environmental problems brought on by his rapidly advancing technology.

The seriousness of the question was underlined by Dr. A. Harry Bliss, professor of public health at the University of California, who says there is increasing concern about the need to investigate and control new hazards of life associated with essential elements of our environment; the water we drink, the food we eat, the air we breathe and the shelter which protects us.

Dr. Bliss states, "Dynamic social change and technological advances influenced by population and economic growth have created environmental hazards requiring new skills, instrumentation and long-range studies. For example, the rapidly expanding and diversified use of radioactivity and its control is a new public health function. Rapidly growing metropolitan areas are associated with the spread of communicable diseases, have created problems in sanitary engineering which call for new criteria and special techniques. Changing social patterns related to urban life have accelerated the need for new theories and concepts of environmental control."

The healthfulness of the environments in which we live have focused attention on the present and potential dangers arising from air pollution, contamination of water supplies, sewage and industrial wastes poured into sewers and streams, radioactive substances released in the air, insecticides and herbicides sprayed by commercial growers and home gardners, contamination of food by chemical and biological agents, and occupational hazards. To health officers, engineers, and many scientists confronted with these dangers, the number, variety and complexity of the problems is appalling.

Emphysema is just one example of the health implications of environment. This is a chronic respiratory disease in which the lungs gradually lose surface due to breakdown of alveolar walls, resulting in ventilatory impairment so that increased effort is required to obtain oxygen and expel waste gases. The causes of emphysema are not known with certainty, but they are believed to be multiple. Air pollution, smoking, infections, aging, genetic predisposition, occupation, and weather conditions have been suggested as possible contributing factors.

The interrelationships and relative importance of these factors in the cause and management of emphysema represent an approach of scientists concerned with environmental health.

Looking into the future in an attempt to solve environmental hazards, before they become rampant, scientists are carrying on vast research projects in their laboratories, massing mountains of information about people who live and work in metropolitan and suburban areas. Many schools of public health and hygiene like those at the University of California in the west, and The Johns Hopkins University in the east coordinate research programs, as well as work with federal, state and local public health authorities in a vast effort to save us from present and future dangers. Scientists need not only our dollars for research, but our understanding and cooperation. Each of us is a vital link in the chain of the fight against environmental hazards.

Army Provost Chief Believes In Dedication

Ft. Carson's new provost marshal, Lt. Col. James F. Kingwell Jr., believes that "you must be dedicated to be a good MP and, most important, you must want to be one."

He became a Military Police Corps member 22 years ago in North Africa after training as an artillery officer. His World War II service continued in the Mediterranean area through the southern France campaign.

After five years as a civilian with Eastman Kodak at Rochester, N. Y., he was recalled to active duty. Since then he has served in New York, Germany, Georgia, Korea and N. Carolina. Col. Kingwell comes to Carson and the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) from Ft. Bragg, N. C.

In Germany he was deputy director of the War Criminal Prison at Landsberg. He has been on the staff of the Provost Marshal General's School and a staff member of the Provost Marshal General Center at Ft. Gordon, Ga.

In Korea he was deputy provost marshal and later provost marshal of I Corps.

Col. Kingwell is concerned with the morale of the men under his command commenting that the MP has "a job with long hours and little compensation," He added "the MP does have the satisfaction of having helped to maintain law and order and contributed to making a soldier's life, on or off a military post, a little more pleasant and safe."

He is impressed with the hospitality and courtesy in the Pikes Peak region both from military and civilians. The Kingwells and their four children live on post.

Former AFA Staff Member Commended

A former staff member has received the Air Force Commendation Medal for meritorious service at the Air Force Academy.

The medal was presented to Capt. Stuart Shadbolt at his new duty station, Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio.

Capt. Shadbolt was cited for providing a continuous in-service training program for approximately 1,000 Air Force Reservists known as Academy Liaison Officers, from Sept. 2, 1960, to July 15, 1964.

His efforts resulted directly in continued improvement of the quality of candidates competing for Academy appointments. The public image of the Academy was greatly enhanced because of the excellence of the captain's relationship with civic, quasi-military, and technically oriented groups.

District Re-2 (J) Schools To Open Tuesday, Sept. 1

With anticipated enrollment of about 1,400 children in School District Re-2(J), school officials this week were making final preparations for opening of schools in the district Tuesday, Sept. 1.

Barto Babitz, superintendent of schools, announced this week the registration schedules, fee slates and general information parents and children need to keep in mind as the long and hot summer nears its end.

Students in the high school will register Friday, Aug. 28, with seniors reporting from 9 to 10:30 a.m.; juniors signing up from 10:30 to 12 noon; sophomores from 1 to 2:30 p.m. and the freshmen from 2:30 to 4 p.m. All new students registering in the high school are asked to report to Frank Morelli.

The tab for high school students will be $9.25, which includes $3 for books, $1.35 for lockers, and $5 for activity tickets.

Students enrolling in Fremont Junior High School, grades seven eight, will also register on Friday, Aug. 28, with students with last names starting with letters A through M enrolling from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and the remainder registering from 1 to 4 p.m. Pupils new to the Fremont school are asked to register on Thursday, Aug. 27 from 1 to 4 p.m.

Fees for junior high will be $3 for books, $1.25 for lockers, and $4 for activity tickets to high school functions, although the tickets are an optional cost.

At Penrose, the junior high school students will register the first day of school, Sept. 1 at 8:30 a.m. Fees include $3 for books and the optional $4 for high school activity tickets.

Registration for Fremont and Penrose grade schools will be Sept. 1 at 8:30 a.m. First graders must be six years of age by Oct. 1, 1964 and those not previously enrolled in the system's kindergarten must present birth certificates.

Fees for grades one through three include $2 for books and $3 for an optional high school activity ticket. Grades four through 6 will require $2.50 for books and the $3 for the optional high school activity ticket.

Registration for kindergarten children will be Sept. 1 at 8:30 a.m. at Fremont school in Florence and at the Penrose school in Penrose. A fee of $2 will be charged for all children in this group. Kindergarten children must be accompanied by an adult and must present a birth certificate.

The school hot lunch program will begin Wednesday, Sept. 2 at both Florence and Penrose cafeterias.

Accident insurance will be available at $3 per year, per child.

Babitz announced that bus routes will be the same as last year until further notice.

School officials also delcared that high school football physicals would be given at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 18 at the old gymnasium at the high school building. Drs. P. J. Gamache and J. V. Buglewicz will be on hand to give examinations to all boys, including freshmen who expect to participate in athletics at FHS during the school year 1964-65.

Pentathlon, Academy Style Tuesday Feature

Olympic officials might have a hard time recognizing it, but the pentathlon (Air Force Academy style) will be one of eight events featured during basic cadet field day Tuesday.

The public is invited to attend field day. All events will be held on the athletic fields immediately north of the Cadet Gym. First contest starts at 8 a.m.

Although the Academy version of the pentathlon and the Olympic event bear a resemblance in name only, they have a similar goal — to test an athlete in a variety of skills.

Basic cadets entered in this event must compete in a 100-yard dash; hop, step, and jump; soccer course; shot put; and 600-yard run.

Four of the contests are more or less standard track and field events, but the soccer course adds something unusual. Contestants must dribble a soccer ball around a flag - marked course. Each entrant has two tries with the best time scored.

Other field day events include distance run, wall climb, sprint relay, obstacle course, push ball, log relay, and tug-of-war.

Points won during field day count toward award of the 81st Fighter Wing Memorial Trophy to the outstanding basic cadet squadron.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

The story this week will be a short one; short because it is sad. When we were small children and my mother and father came home from attending a funeral of one of the friends, they seemed to have so much to talk over, that I almost felt it was too bad not to have funerals oftener. There were no undertakers in those days, morticians, they would like to call themselves; the bodies were cared for in the home, watched over for a night, or two, by loving friends, and then taken to the cemetery. I do not remember of having seen a hearse. I do not remember even how the body was taken to the cemetery; probably in somebody's light wagon. The services were held in the homes and since chairs were scarce and the rooms not too large, only the women sat inside the house, while the men guarded their teams in the yard. There, I think it was, that the men really had the best of it, as they could visit with one another during the services. The long, slow procession to the cemetery was made, of course, with all the friends attending the burial. The cemetery in those days was small with no fence. The older residents were almost always buried over in the older part of the yard, under the big pine trees. There you will find most of them today. We children, of course, were not taken to the funerals, so all I can tell about them is hearsay. Mother told us in detail the hymns that were sung, so that we often played funerals in our playhouses. I remember one song was "Holy Spirit, Faithful Guide," sung during the services of Mr. Charles Carlton, who lived down the road a mile below us.

One Memorial Day my brother and older sisters took us younger children to the G.A.R. services, which were held at the graves in the cemetery. We took our lunch with us and spent a pleasant afternoon in the shade of the big pine trees. Mark unhitched the horses from the light wagon and tied them nearby. The whole thing to me was a very pleasant occasion. I must have been about eight years old. Near us and hanging around a light wagon were several girls and boys, probably in their early teens, who were having a very good time. There was one young girl, in particular, who attracted my attention. She seemed so free and easy with the rest of the crowd and laughed and talked very much. She had a heavy braid of semi-blond hair, which hung far below her waist and curled at the end, not needing a ribbon to hold it in place, all of which was far different from what I knew about our own braids. I remember she had a small, round felt hat, which she had pulled to a peak in front. She was not a pretty girl, having too large a nose. I found out later, that she was a younger sister of Miss Carrie Batcheldor, a milliner in town, who had a shop at 204 E. Pikes Peak Ave. I wondered how a girl could be so friendly and pleasant in a crowd, as having been raised on a ranch, I had no easy manners. She had such an attractive personality, that I have often wondered what became of her.

This is all I know about pioneer funerals, only this, that the men had a pretty good time attending them and depended on the wives to tell them what the preacher had said.

After writing the above: Carl Matthews, I find, did some research work as follows:

"Miss Bacheldor Dies — Well Known Milliner Passes Away After Illness of Three Months. (Gazette, April 10, 1909).

"Miss Carrie A. Bacheldor died early Friday morning at her home, 21 East Kiowa Street, after an illness of nearly three months. The nearest surviving relatives are a sister, Mrs. L. A. West, and a nephew, Robert E. West, both of this city, and a cousin, Mrs. D. R. Benedict of Denver.

"For more than a quarter of a century, Miss Bacheldor conducted a millinery establishment in Colorado Springs and her quiet businesslike methods had won for her the respect of the whole community.

"Funeral services this afternoon in Grace Episcopal Church at 4:30 p.m., by the rector, the Rev. Henry Rutgers Remsen, and friends of the family are invited to be present. The interment will be in Waukegan, Illinois, and the remains will be taken east by Mr. West.

"Eula says that Miss Bacheldor and her sister, Mrs. West, lived at 930 W. Colorado Avenue, when she was a child. You should well remember Robert West who started the Village Inn but was compelled to give it up on account of illness; he and his wife, Ella, now both dead, lived only a few blocks from you."

Had I known, that this interesting woman lived in town, I should have tried to make her acquaintance.

Original AFA Faculty Member To Retire Soon

A member of the original Air Force Academy faculty will retire Sept. 1 after more than 32 years active and reserve service.

Scheduled to retire is Lt. Col. Jean C. Hempstead, associate professor and deputy department head, Department of Mathematics. Col. Hempstead joined the Academy faculty Jan. 21, 1955, one of the first members of the original faculty.

He has served as executive officer of the Basic Science Division, faculty executive officer, and in his present position.

A native of Woden, Iowa, Col. Hempstead graduated from Iowa State College in 1926 with a B.S. in Civil Engineering. In 1930 he received his masters in mathematics from the University of Pennsylvania; in 1942, he earned a professional degree as a civil engineeer from Iowa State.

Col. Hempstead was originally commissioned a second lieutenant July 22, 1926, and held the appointment until July 21, 1936. At the outbreak of World War II he received a direct commission as a first lieutenant and was called to active duty Sept. 19, 1942. From that time until November 1945 the colonel was assisgned as administrative officer, bombardment division, Army Air Corps Technical School, Orlando, Fla.

PRAYER GARDEN — George A. Hasse has built an outdoor Christian shrine at 2404 N. Tejon St. The portrait of Jesus Christ is lighted from dusk until 1 a.m. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Local Man Builds Prayer Shrine For All Faiths

A large picture of Jesus Christ is lighted every night at the entrance to George A. Hasse's Christian Shrine.

Behind the entrance at 2404 N. Tejon St., is an open-roof prayer garden.

To persons who come to pray, Hasse will sell religious literature and pictures at wholesale prices. He said that any profits will be donated to missions and churches.

Literature, including books, come from the Knights of Columbus, the Billy Graham organization and other sources.

Hasse said that the prayer center is open to all faiths, including Catholic and Protestant. No services are conducted.

"Sometimes folks stop to pray," he said. "But I have no way of knowing if it did them any good." He'd like persons to contact him if they receive any benefits from praying in his shrine.

Hasse, who built the shrine about a year and a half ago, said that his church, First Baptist, is having three sermons on his project.

"I'd like to see Christians hang more religious pictures in their homes," he said.

Edward Kennedy May Be Released Soon

BOSTON (AP) — Doctors say Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., should be able to walk out of New England Baptist Hospital in another six months and resume normal activities.

Kennedy's doctors said here he is making remarkable progress and surgery will not be needed for the broken back he suffered in a plane crash June 19. His three broken vertebrae were said to be healing so well that his back will be "stable and painless.

Told of the decision, Kennedy said, "I naturally am very pleased."

Doctors said he will remain in an orthepedic bed another six months and then will be fitted with a steel back brace which he will have to use for about a month.

Congress Caught In Dispute Over Apportionment

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was caught today in a deepening controversy over the Supreme Court's ruling that state legislatures must be reapportioned on a "one-man, one-vote" basis.

In the Senate, opponents of any delay in carrying out the court's ruling threaten drawn-out debate on a delaying proposal that Senate leaders want to attach to the foreign aid bill.

In the house, a tough new bill that would strip the federal courts of any jurisdiction over state reapportionment cases has suddenly been dumped on the speaker's table, where it is ticking like a time bomb.

The House bill, authored by Rep. William M. Tuck, D-Va., was sprung on the unsuspecting supporters of the court by Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., the chairman of the House Rules Committee. He won a 10-4 vote in his committee to send the bill to the House floor before his opponents had time to figure out what was happening.

By the time they did, the Tuck bill was in their laps, and after a close look at it, a lot of them have decided that the Senate proposal looks good.

Worked out by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen in conjunction with the Justice Department, it would permit states to delay reapportionment until Jan. 1, 1966 "in the absence of highly unusual circumstances."

It was the addition of those last seven words to Dirksen's original proposal for an unconditional delay that triggered Smith's action on the Tuck bill.

Smith said they rendered the proposal "a nullity," and he won the support of Rep. William M. McCullouch, R-Ohio, who had joined Dirksen by introducing in the House a bill identical to his original.

Smith said they rendered the proposal "a nullity," and he won the support of Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, who had joined Dirksen by introducing in the House a bill identical to his original Senate proposal.

"They make it nothing more than a pious hope," said McCulloch in testimony before the Rules Committee supporting the Tuck bill.

Tuck's bill, which he called "a simple measure," has only two provisions. One says the Supreme Court shall no longer have the right to review state reapportionment cases coming from many federal court or state supreme court.

The other says the federal district courts shall have no jurisdiction over any state reapportionment cases.

The other says the federal district courts shall have no jurisdiction over any state reapportionment cases.

In sending it to the House floor the Rules Committee resorted to a little-used procedure that permits it to take any bill away from a House legislative committee — in this case the Judiciary Committee.

It was done over cries of "robbery" from Rep. Emanuel Celler, D N.Y., chairman of the Judiciary Committee. "You're riding the Judiciary Committee out on a rail," he protested.

He was even harsher in his appraisal of the Tuck bill. He said it was "absolutely unconstitutional" and that it paved the way for further restrictions on the jurisdiction of the federal courts that could "render them a cipher."

The Dirksen-Mansfield proposal may run into trouble in getting it over to the House. A group of senators, tabbing it "a rotten borough bill" have vowed to talk into next week, if necessary, to keep it from being added to the foreign aid bill.

The net effect of it all is to leave both houses in a highly uncertain state over all pending legislation and in a gloomy condition over the prospects of adjourning before the Democratic National Convention starts in Atlantic City Aug. 24.

AF in Need Of People With Tech Degrees

T. Sgt. Bruce S. Adams, the local Air Force recruiter, announced today that the Air Force has an urgent need for both men and women who have degrees in Science and Engineering.

"An immediate requirement exists for persons with a baccalaureate degree in Astraonautical or aeronautical engineering," stated the Air Force recruiter. "Applicants for this commissioning program must possess at least a bachelors degree, be American citizens, of high moral character, and be between ages 20½ to 29½ at time of application," concluded Sgt. Adams.

Qualified applicants can be assured of immediate selection and will be assigned duties commensurate with their academic backgrounds. The possibility also exists for these young officers to be placed in civilian schools, at Air Force expense, to attain their master of doctorate degrees.

Persons interested in this program may contact Sgt. Adams at his office: Room 219, Post Office Building, his home: 1338 N. El Paso St. — or call him at 633-7478.

PRE-FLIGHT — Air Force Academy Basic Cadets Charles W. Lolas, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lolas, Jackson, Mich., and Robert L. Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie L. Hughes, San Diego, Calif., receive pre-flight instruction from Capt. Donald J. Underwood prior to their orientation flight in a T-29 navigational trainer. Flights in both T-29s and T-33 jet trainers are part of the summer basic training program at the Academy. Capt. Underwood is an instructor in the Department of Navigation. (Air Force Photo)

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Tongue Developing Sores? See Dentist Immediately

"Doctor, my tongue looks like the back of a spotted calf. And sometimes it burns and feels irritated. I'm so worried about it. Do I have cancer?"

On examination, Mrs. B's tongue did indeed look spotted. There were irregular red areas, varying in size from a few millimeters to more than a centimeter, and covering the entire top of the tongue as well as the sides and tip.

No, Mrs. B did not have cancer. She had what's known as geographic tongue. It's called that because it resembles a map. Since the red spots change in size and shape and sometimes even completely disappear, it is also called "wandering rash."

If affects about 2 per cent of the general population and seem to be slightly more prevalent in women than men.

It is a harmless, benign condition that no one knows the cause of, although it is thought by some investigators to be a symptom of a neurologic disturbance. There is a recent report of this lesion clearing up after the use of steroids that were prescribed for an unrelated condition.

There is no specific treatment. However, when the tongue becomes irritated as the tip of Mrs. B's did, mild mouth washes may be used. Sodium bicarbonate in warm water is probably the best.

To help keep a geographic tongue healthy, good mouth hygiene habits are important. Teeth should be kept free of tartar and rough areas around teeth and bridges should be smoothed and polished. The tongue should be cleaned by wiping it gently with your toothbrush after you have brushed your teeth. The brush should be soft enough not to irritate the delicate membranes.

Do not attempt to be your own diagnostician: If you have a tongue lesion, see your dentist.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Russians Won't Force Way Into Conference

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union said today it will not embarrass its Asian and African friends by pressing its claim to a seat at the Bandung conference. But it blasted Communist China for trying to bar the door.

In a statement to African and Asian governments, the Soviets said they felt their participation was "not obligatory."

The statement appeared to be a concession to friendly African and Asian governments which reportedly urged Moscow to give up its attempt to force its way into the forthcoming parley and touch off a threatened Red Chinese walkout.

Estimating Baby's Weight Vital in Cesarean Birth

By The Colorado Medical Society

Does cesarean birth represent an added hazard to the baby?

In general, the answer is no. But there are some special considerations which must be taken into account, and it should be remembered that childbirth by surgery is not to be considered a simple way out for a woman who wishes to avoid labor. It has its dangers, and it should be reserved for cases in which medical conditions dictate its use.

Cesarean deliveries currently amount to between 3 and 5 per cent of total births in most hospitals, and run as high as 10 per cent in some.

There is a big difference between emergency and elective cesareans. When the operation can be planned carefully and timed, the mortality of the ba..es is about 2 per cent, almost the same as for natural deliveries. When the operation must be performed as an emergency measure — as in the case of a raptured uterus — the infant mortality is 10 times that for normal delivery, and the possibility of complications for the mother may run as high as 30 per cent.

One of the difficulties in planning a cesarean lies in the problem of estimating the gestation period and the weight of the unborn baby. There is no way to know with 100 per cent accuracy the weight and size of the baby. Thus, there is always the danger of surgically delivering a baby who is a "preemie" in size — under 5 pounds 8 ounces.

Great efforts are being made these days by physicians to reduce the number of premature births with their attendant physical and mental hazards for the tiny babies. Cesarean prematures present a small factor working against this effort, but they do contribute to the total picture.

The difficulty of accurately estimating the baby's weight led to the practice of giving cesarean babies the same special care given to premature infants in general. It has not been demonstrated that there is any increased danger to the cesarean baby from infection, and there is no difference in the early weight loss. Babies usually lose about 8 per cent of their birth weights during the first 3 to 4 days of life, but gain back to their birth weights in about a week. This pattern is no different for the cesarean baby.

In the case of the diabetic mother, there are usually important reasons why the birth should be by cesarean section. In some hospitals, 66 per cent of diabetic mothers are delivered by cesarean, although this total may be as low as 25 per cent in other places.

There is a definite danger in leaving a diabetic mother's baby in her uterus too long because the chances of the baby's death before birth go up sharply; against these chances must be weighed the known dangers of prematurity, in which the death rate also goes up. The situation demands much skill and experience in the balancing of these and other factors.

Although it does not always occur, respiratory difficulties are anticipated in cesarean babies. Plans are laid for close observation and maximum nursing care. Cesarean babies usually begin breathing just as well as other babies, but they then may encounter difficulties.

Old Doc Experience advises:

1. Too many factors are involved in deciding upon a cesarean delivery for the matter to be left to the wishes of the mother. She should neither demand cesarean delivery, nor resist it if medical indications are that it is needed for the protection of her baby and herself.

2. When the cesarean is to be performed is a decision only the doctor can make. It is a difficult decision at best.

3. A cesarean delivery requires longer hospitalization for mother and baby, averaging 7 days against the usual 4 or 5 days.

4. Any pregnant woman who knows she has diabetes should discuss this with her doctor as early as possible. A pregnant diabetic woman requires special prenatal care and management.

Bad Guy Gets Better Roles On Television

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Ed Nelson was a 26-year-old father of three children when he discovered that crying in front of an audience was great fun. So he decided to become an actor.

In a roundabout way, he arrived in Hollywood where he progressed from No. 5 bad guy in westerns (the one who gets shot in the opening reel) to his present role as Dr. Rossi, one of the regular characters inhabiting "Peyton Place." That's the twice-a-week fall series scheduled to start on ABC-TV Sept. 15 and 17.

As Nelson described his acting rise, he went from No. 5 bad guy "to No. 4 and 3. Then I played the bad guy who gets shot at the end of the show. Somehwere in here they let me get to the point where I could kiss a horse. Then I progressed to bad-guy-who-turns-good roles, then good-guy-who-turns-bad. Finally I got to kiss a girl."

Nelson, a randsome, green-eyed native of New Orleans, has appeared in about 250 television shows and several movies since he arrived in Hollywood in 1956. He is an able actor who can play roles ranging from snivel-ing coward to nobel hero.

In times of personal involvement, he says he is inclined to become so emotional that he becomes tongue-tied. This business of ad libbing his way through some of life's problems strains a lawyer.

"Being a lawyer was something set upon me by those around me. But in practice cases I found myself so anxious to convince judge and jury that my client was innocent, I could hardly talk. I would start out a sentence and become so wrapped up that as I reached the conclusion of the sentence I would repeat what I had already said."

This problem still plagues Nelson. "I remember trying to tell off a director once. Six of us were working in a fight scene in a steamy-hot desert location. And he was so tough we were all mad at him. So that night we made a part that the next guy he hopped on would tell him off. At the hotel that night, I practiced a cutting speech, in case I was the guy.

"The next day we were doing a saloon scene with a lot of people involved. I miscued and touched off a kind of chain reaction where people were pouring coffee before the cups appeared, and all the actors wound up in a pile in the middle of the floor.

"The director jumped another guy. I came forward and said it was my fault. He yelled at me for trying to be a hero, so I decided to use my rehearsed speech. What came out was something like 'I have never before worked with a director like you and I hope I never before work with a director like you.' I'll never forget the way he stepped back and looked at me with his head cocked to one side, like a dog when he is curious."

After Ed gave up law a friend asked him if he wanted to join Le Petite Theatre de Vieux Carre, 600 - year - old membership theater in New Orleans. Ed agreed and wound up playing Biff in "Death of a Salesman."

"That, more than anything else, did it for me. There was one scene in which I was supposed to cry. The director actually made me cry, and it became easy because I really believed the scene. It got so I looked forward to that scene from the time I stopped crying until I started again."

When Nelson arrived in Hollywood he followed the struggling young actor routine by driving cabs, teaching swimming and acting as a lifeguard while looking for work. His first job was in the movie, "The Attack of the Crab Monsters."

"I was the monster, and the only time you saw me was an accidental shot of my feet hanging out the bottom of the crab shell."

Nelson, now the father of six children, lives in Pomona, a 45-mile drive from the 20th Century-Fox studio where "Peyton Place" is filmed. He is a man who likes his privacy, and the chance to be with his family.

"My wife and I talked a bit about the future after I made the "Peyton Place" pilot, and the things that could happen to me if the show is a success. But we refuse to believe that success could destroy our happines Carelessness or indifference destroys happiness, and neither of us plans to be careless or indifferent."

Nikita Fears War on Red China's Side, Analyst Says

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — "If there is anything Nikita Khrushchev fears more than the overthrow of Communists in Russia, it is to become embroiled in a war on Red China's side," the eastern European diplomat said.

In his view, the latest crisis deliberately created by Mao-Tse-tung and his Vietnamese puppet was aimed as much against Russia as the United States.

He gambled dangerously in his efforts to probe for weak sports in the American "paper tiger." But, by creating a war scare in Southeast Asia, he also sought — and this was probably his chief reason — to force Premier Khrushchev to back Peking's policy of revolutonary brinkmanship.

The Soviet premier is currently engaged in organizing support for a Red conclave in October which either will bring Mao to his knees or expel him from the ranks of world communism.

The Chinese leader is well aware that, for the present at least, his side is in a minority. He is, therefore, using every ruse — including brinkmanship — to discredit Khrushchev as an appeaser, a traitor to the cause of Marxism - Leninism and even a lackey of American conference meets.

This, of course, is also the aim of North Viet Nam's Ho Chi Mingh who backs Red China against Moscow. He warned recently in his journal, Hoc Tap, that a conference of the type envisaged by Khruschhev must "be convened on the basis of unanimity" among all Red parties. Otherwise, he added, it will only be a gimmick to underwrite Khrushchev's "revisionism."

"His heat was clearly not in his anti-American diatribe," said the diplomat quoted earlier in this dispatch. "He spoke like a man with his hands tied behind his back."

U.N. veterans also noted that in the past the Russians never were slow in bringing charges against the United States, especially when the conflict involved another Communist nation.

Now they let U.S. Ambassador Adlia Steveson take the diplonatic play away from them. They sat passively while the United States charged Red China and Viet Nam with fomenting war. They merely pleaded for "more facts" and for a chance sent their case in the Security Council.

Specialists on communism see a "historic turning point" in Southeast Asia as a result of the swift retaliatory strike by the U.S. Navy against Red Viet Nam.

It effectively destroyed Mao's myth that America is merely a "paper tiger." It served notice on the Red Chinese and their puppets in Viet Nam, Laos and North Korea that the United States will not "ratify terror" — as President Johnson has warned.

More important, Mao's brinkmanship frightened the Russians, who still have an anti-American military treaty with Red China.

Use of Atom Weapons Ruled Out by LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Johnson specifically ruled out any use of nuclear weapons in orders to the 7th Fleet during last week's Gulf of Tonkin crisis, says a high administration source.

The administration source said the actual orders to the 7th Fleet stipulated use of "conventional ordnance only," a phrase that would eliminate use of nuclear weapons.

The report came Friday as another round in the dispute between the administration and Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee.

Goldwater, in Hershey, Pa., Wednesday, said the public report of Johnson's orders could be interpreted as authorizing commanders in Southeast Asia to use nuclear weapons.

But, he explained Friday, he had not accused the administration of authorizing their use, but only of using imprecise language.

'Portable Typhoon' May Battle Forest Blazes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A young salesman, shocked at the sight of dazed householders fleeing a canyon fire, has invented a powerful air-and-water device which some day might snuff out the wind-whipped infernos.

Roy McBride calls his invention a "portable typhoon machine."

The outfit, which could water the White House lawn in short order, consists of a 250 horsepower surplus army tank engine mounted on a truck-borne tower. It is capable of deluging a fire area with 1,000 gallons of water per minute.

At the big Glendale fire earlier this year, fire officials credited McBride's machine with preventing spread of the fire into several homes. Firemen described the sound of the rig in operation, as it soaked a 20-foot swath extending some 200 feet, as comparable to Los Angeles International Airport at rush hour.

McBride became a full-time researcher after the 1956 Malibu fire. "At Malibu I felt sorry for the people struggling out of their homes, some carrying a book, some a lamp, so confused they didn't know what was happening," he said.

The salesman turned firefighter began observing fires "watching what makes a fire tick, why it behaves the way it does, how it generates so much heat and energy."

The self-schooled engineer decided an airstream would counteract the heat and wind—if applied properly. "An undirected blast of air by itself would be very dangerous in a fire situation," he said. "It could cause the fire to gush back to the direction of the airstream."

McBride quit his sales job, got the backing of some of his friends, and formed Controlled Airstreams Inc. After experimenting with the multitudes of problems confronting a researcher, his machine can now blow a man's hat off a 200 feet without ruffling his eyebrows.

McBride has not received widespread acceptance from professional firefighters. Even his home-saving work in Glendale was free. He hasn t had a paycheck since 1962.

"Firemen are a lot like the medical profession," he said. "Lots of new ideas come forth, some good, some bad. All must be proved and demonstrated before acceptance. "But some day they are going to do people a lot of good."

'Sea Monster' Proves to Be Merely Turtle

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Nelo Seaman obediently threw the "sea monster" he caught back into the Gulf of Mexico.

It turned out the creature of the deep Seaman's shrimp boat had landed was a leatherback sea turtle. His radio message to shore had created quite a stir until the true identity of the catch was learned.

This one had a shell four feet long and weighed about 500 pounds, relatively small for these turtles. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commision said the leatherbacks are in danger of becoming extinct and should be released at once. They are protected by law.

Sea turtles are seldom seen by man except when caught in the trawls of shrimpers in the Gulf of Mexico. They spend their lives at sea and only the females return to land in the spring to lay their eggs.

The leatherback, rarest and most peculiar of the group, has a dark brown shell without scales, and may reach a length of eight feet and weight of three quarters of a ton or more. The young are about three inches long when hatched. Adults, if aggravated on shore, can strike out with their flippers and bite with their sharp jaws.

Humidifier May Make Winter More Pleasant

NEW YORK (UPI) — It's summer and humidity, not the lack of it, is likely to be of concern.

Nevertheless, if you haven't already done so, "now" is the time to pay attention to the humidifier that makes winter living more pleasant.

On many makes of humidifiers, lime deposits accumulated during the winter, if allowed to remain through the summer, can lower performance and even damage a humidifier beyond repair. Engineers for Hamilton Humid-Aire, Chicago, offer the following suggestions for summer care:

Turn off water supply and keep it off during the season.

If possible, remove humidifier from furnace to allow you to reach interior.

If you have an evaporative plate unit, install a new set of plates.

Use steel wool or wire brush to scrape away lime deposits on interior.

Clean water inlet and float valve seat, using solution of vinegar or muriatic acid to remove stubborn deposits.

If unit has a solid atomizing wheel or moving belt, be sure these are free from lime. Be careful in cleaning an atomizing wheel since it usually is batanced delicately and rough handling can throw it out of line.

PASSAGE URGED

DENVER (UPI) Rep. Dan Brotzman, R-Colo., said Friday he hoped the extension of the National Defense Education Act would be approved by Congress. The Colorado congressman said 680,000 loans had been made under the act and only one had been written off as a bad debt. "This program is based on recommendations made by President Eisenhower in 1958 and it has improved the quality and opportunities for education. . ." he said.

U.S. Student Escapes Red Imprisonment

BERLIN (AP) — U.S. authorities are amazed that the East German regime did not imprison a young American college student who says he slugged three Communist border guards in a dispute over money.

The student, James Connor, 19, of Glenside, Pa., told State Department officials Friday that the Reds had detained him three hours. He said he had struck a guard who had said the East German marks he had purchased in West Berlin would be confiscated.

Connor, a junior at Holy Cross College, is hitchhiking through Europe.

DENVER (UPI) — The first two stages of the Air Force Titan 3 were successfully test-fired Friday in the captive firing area at Martin Company's Denver Division. The test was a prelude to first flight of the nation's newest and most versatile space booster later this year. Company officials said the first and second stages were fired side-by-side for 20 seconds each. The rockets will be part of the giant space boosters aboard the Titan 3 to lift payloads ranging up to 25,000 pounds.

Single Vehicle Crashes Cause High Death Toll

One-car non-collision accidents on Colorado's highways continue to take an alarmingly high toll in lives, according to State Patrol Chief G. R. Carrel.

At the present time, fatal accidents involving only one car are exceeding those in which two or more vehicles are involved.

"This is a problem," Carrel says, "that is causing traffic safety officials considerable worry, because progress is very disheartening."

"The Patrol is doing everything possible to keep drivers aware of the fact that avoiding a non-collision accident is strictly a personal responsibility of every individual driver."

"In many of these accidents, particularly where the occupants of the vehicle are killed, we can only speculate on the cause," the Chief says. "However, the evidence usually indicates that the driver was driving too fast to keep control of his vehicle, went to sleep at the wheel, or committed some other careless act."

"In spite of our strict enforcement, use of radar, constant patrolling and broadening of our safety education program, one-car accidents continue, so we ask every driver to take stock of himself, remember that his own destiny lies in his hands when driving, and also if he is involved in a one-car accident and lives to tell about it — there will be no one to blame but himself."

The 1963 airline payload was 2,836,432 passengers — a feat that the Mayflower, remaining constantly under sail, would have needed 5,056 years to accomplish.

Your Outdoors

By MARY SHIRER
For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

FOR PIKES PEAK GROUP OF COLORADO MOUNTAIN CLUB

These days the sightseers go in crowds rather than ones and twos, it really is interesting to watch the people moving here and there all seeking the scenery in our region which is most satisfying. Pikes Peak is perhaps the most popular and we see crowds of people on the highway, in their cars or flocking to cog road station or in busses. We see people flocking to Mt. Manitou incline station to take the car to the top of Mt. Manitou and from there take the many trails or burro trips. As fast as one incline car is filled with people below, another at the top is filled with people coming back. This is the scene all day long. Larger crowds on Sunday. We see people riding horseback on trails in the Garden of Gods, some walking the trails, others enjoying picnic dinners. Cave of Winds is a popular attraction and here again we see crowds going and coming from the cave.

We see people driving and walking through South Cheyenne Canon and visiting Seven Falls. The steps are crowded with people going to top and walking the little trail to Helen Hunt's grave which gives a little taste of mountain climbing. Some enjoy the beauties of North Cheyenne Canon by car or walking, strolling up Cutler Trail on the way and some enjoy the many picnic spots on the way up the canon. Some enjoy climbing the steps at the side of Helen Hunt Falls and look down after reaching the platform at the top.

Crowds have passed through the Pikes Peak region for countless years; the early Indians, the trappers and traders, the prospectors at a time when this was a wild country. All have passed across the stage and stepped into another world. Now, comes the new crowds after beauty and relaxation. The Indians saw God in the clouds, wind and rain. He lived by nature and was prosperous by her guiding hand. The white man has learned many lessons from the red man's faith in nature and her teachings. By viewing nature, in all her wonder and beauty, we are lifted to higher living. If we visit Pikes Peak, we come back with a keener appreciation of the great world in which we live.

Crowds visit the Cheyenne mountain zoo every day and what an interesting place to go to study the wild animals. And it is quite a thrill to ride the little train to the zoo. A great many people follow the mountain road to Will Rogers Shrine and here linger, listening to the music and enjoying the surrounding scenery and watching the sunlight and shadows play hide and seek across the vast expanse below. One is impressed by the quiet and solitude of this beautiful setting on the side of the big mountain. Many go on to the lodge on the summit of Cheyenne to enjoy the fine views.

Pole Wrestling One Feature Of Cadet Day

Although the mighty, but mythical, Paul Bunyan used telephone pole size timbers for tooth picks, most "arm chair athletes" find the prospect of wrestling similarly sized lumber another story.

But to members of the Air Force Academy Class of 1968, toting telephone poles (at a full gallop) is all in a day's work — basic cadet field day, that is.

Tuesday teams from all eight basic training squadrons will match strength and speed in log relay races — just one of eight events open to the public. Competition starts at 8 a.m. on the athletic field north of the Cadet Gym.

In the log relay, teams must hoist 300-pound timbers to their shoulders and race down a 100-yard course. They place the log on the ground where a second squad picks it up and retraces the course.

All heats of the log relays and all finals and finishes of other events except the pentathlon and obstacle course will take place directly in front of the spectator seating area.

Field day is designed to give basics a chance to test their skill, stamina, and physical fitness.

Plaintiff's Mode Of Dress Cause Of 'Hung' Jury

A plaintiff's yellow shoes and "sloppy" appearance caused a hung jury in a $25,000 personal injury lawsuit. This is one instance of how trivial prejudices sway juries.

The remedy for this is as simple as the cause, says Stanley S. Jacobs in "Would You Be Fair on a Jury?"

The root of the flaws in the jury system, Jacobs writes in the September issue of Together magazine, is that "too many individuals shirk jury service." The solution, he adds, is "public-spirited, intelligent jurors."

In a Texas Bar Association's interview-survey of 115,000 citizens who had asked to be spared from jury service, the excuses of the majority were trivial or spurious, Jacobs reports. Only 18,400 were exempted for valid reasons.

"Of those who asked to be excused, more than 82 per cent were in the high-income brackets and 70 per cent were active in community affairs," Jacobs reveals.

Eight out of 10 Texans who had to accept jury duty, he adds, complained that they were losing money by sitting in court.

This attempt to evade jury is nationwide, Jacobs writes.

Nevertheless, he has a cheering note in Together, the Methodist monthly magazine for families.

"Most people who have served on juries," he writes, "would like to do it again."

He quotes Professor Harry Kalven of the University of Chicago law school that 94 per cent of jurors whom he questioned had found their experience interesting and satisfying.

The courts often are handicapped, says Jacobs, in having to rely upon the unemployed, the aged or infirm, busybodies, and morbid hangers-on who "relish sitting in on other people's troubles."

Conscientious jurors are needed especially because of the practice of some attorneys to try to confuse or wear out "those jurymen who may be ill-prepared or ill-suited for their duties," Jacobs asserts.

He quotes Professor Charles Newman of Florida State University:

"The average juror is swayed by the emotion and prejudice steamming from his heredity, background, and training (and, how often, by his breakfast!)."

Among Professor Newman's findings was that jurors "tend to be sympathetic toward defendants charged with violating regulatory statutes" — licensing laws or automobile speed limits. On the other hand, he found that jurors "frequently are unduly hostile toward persons accused or robbery or sex crimes."

Well, who are good jurors?

"Lawyers say that business executives and professional men," Jacobs reports, "are the toughest to convince."

Such individuals tend to dominate other jurymen by their forceful arguments, Jacobs explains. Tough-mindedness is essential for competent jurymen, he adds. It is imperative, he stresses, to use one's critical faculties, to weigh evidence impartially and carefully, to call for explanations and exhibits, and to argue doggedly, "if you think you are right." Above all, he says, a juror should suspend his judgment until all the evidence has been presented by both sides and until after the case has been turned over to the jury.

What is important also, Jacobs adds, is that a juryman have the courage of his convictions, and not be afraid of criticism by fellow jurors.

The September issue of Together lists seven test questions, which anyone may ask himself, to find out whether he would be fair on a jury. The questions were drawn up by Earl Raab, past-president of the California Mental Health Society.

For example, if you believe that "a dishonest person cannot look you in the eye," your qualifications leave something to be desired.

CU Enrollment For Summer Totals 12,594

BOULDER-Summer session enrollment in all divisions of the University of Colorado total 12,594 students, an increase of 709 from last year, David B. Muirhead, director of admissions and records, announced today.

The total includes 7,822 on the Boulder campus, a decrease of 149 from last summer; 3,626 at the Denver Center, an increase of 794; 711 at the Colorado Springs Center, an increase of 28, and 435 at the Medical Center in Denver, an increase of 36.

Muirhead said the figures do not include approximately 11,000 persons who are attending conferences, workshops and institutes on the Boulder campus this summer.

He pointed out that while total enrollment at Boulder was down slightly, the number of summer session students working toward degrees has increased by 29 to 4,373. Non-degree students total 3,449.

CU operates summer sessions of 8 and 10 weeks, plus two additional 5-week sessions. Enrollment in the longer terms increased slightly to 5,056; enrollment in the first 5-weeks dropped slightly to 6,580 and enrollment in the second 5-week rose slightly to 6,298.

The Boulder total includes 4,055 undergraduate students and 3,767 graduate and law students. Breakdown by colleges: Architecture 28, Arts and Sciences 2,897, Business 251, Education 207, Engineering 514, Graduate 3,690, Journalism 12, Law 77, Music 83, Nursing 46, and Pharmacy 17.

(Most journalism students are registered in the College of Arts and Sciences.)

The Denver Center showed sizeable increases in both credit and non-credit students. Credit students increased from 2,466 last summer to 3,071 this year, and non-credit students rose from 366 to 555.

At Colorado Springs, credit students increased from 522 to 579 while non-credit students increased by 1 to 132.

Cop Informer To Get Second Burglary Trial

DENVER (UPI) — Former Denver policeman John Bates, who supplied officers with the information that led to the breaking of the Denver police scandal, will be tried on burglary charges for the second time Jan. 4, 1965.

The Colorado Supreme Court ordered that Bates be tried again.

Bates, 55, was charged with burglary and conspiracy in an unsuccessful safecracking attempt Oct. 5, 1959, at Premium Beverages, Inc.

Dist. Judge Mitchel Johns ordered the charges dismissed in July 1963, because the case was not brought to trial within two terms of court or within one year filing of the criminal information. The Supreme Court reversed the district court decision on the grounds that Bates caused the court delay.

Sam Rayburn (of Texas) served as Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives for 21 years.

Kodak Develops Novel Compact Film Projector

By BART KINCH
United Press International

One of the most compact 8mm movie projectors with a novel flip-top cover was introduced by Kodak last week along with two new still cameras—a Retina Reflex IV and an Instamatic 150.

The new projector is called the Caralux 8 and has been designed for easy operation and versatility. The flip-top cover contains the powered spindles for reels up to 400 feet. Projection speed can be varied from six frames per second (fps) to 18 or 54 fps instantly by turning a single knob.

It also is possible to switch from forward to reverse in any of these speeds and without any loss of light.

The projector also features automtic threading onto the take-up reel. When the flip-top cover is raised, the spindles are positioned for projetcion. Film handling is sprocketless and only a pull-down claw engages the film perforation for automatic threading.

Projection with the Caralux 8 is flickerless. The film speed and direction knob on the control panel facilitates changing from slow motion to normal to fast, forward or reverse, with no loss of light.

The housing and cover of the new projector is of die-cast construction throughout except for the plastic base and handle. The projector measures about 12 inches by 12 by 4 when the flip top is closed.

The Caralux uses a 150-watt dichroic Tru-Beam projection lamp. Dichroic is a coating that reflects visible light and permits infrared rays to be dissipated out the rear of the projector. This results in brighter images on the viewing screen and cooler operating temperatures.

The new Kodak Retina Reflex IV incorporates a number of changes which are said to add to the camera's picture taking ability. For example, focusing on the new camera permits picture taking at closer ranges.

The brightness and accuracy of the viewfinder also have been improved and the exposure control and flash synchronization have been simplified.

The viewing system remains the same as with its predecessor, the Retina III—Penta p reflex viewing which is ararllax free and accurate.

Exposure settings can be varied from "B" for extended time exposures to 1-500th second. The camera can be purchased with either an f-1.9 or an f-2.8 50mm lens. With either lens, both the shutter speed and f-stop are visible in the finder.

The Instamatic 150 is the latest addition to Kodak's popular "all you do is press the button" cameras and features motorized film transport at a budget price —$30.

The camera, which uses Kodapak film cartridges in either color or black-and-white, utilizes a spring motor which will enable the photographer to snap pictures at the rate of one per second.

The motorized film handling automatically positions the first exposure, advances the film automatically after each shot and winds off the film after the last (.2th) exposure.

The camera also has a built-in pop-up flash holder for AG-1 flash bulbs and comes with a carrying case. The shutter is preset for 1-90 second with flash holder in and 1-40 second when flash holder is raised.

The pre-set f-11, 43mm lens is fixed focused from four feet to infinity. Viewing is through an eye-level finder.

Astronauts to Test Lava Wilderness

BEND, Ore. (AP) — An American astronaut will clamber across a vast wilderness of lava rock and hike through dust-choked fields of soft, shifting pumice in central Oregon.

Scientists think he will be on the nearest thing this earth has to the moon's surface. He will be testing his space suit and his ability to hike in it across the moon's rough face.

Hollis Dole, Oregon state geologist, says a big part of earth research into the moon's surface can be done in broad wastelands within a few miles of Bend. These lava fields are so new — perhaps less than 1,000 years — that there has been almost no erosion. The moon's surface, lacking an atmosphere, also has had no erosion.

Jack Green, research geologist for North American Aviation, Inc., one of the companies active in space research, says that if the earth has a place to match the moon, these new, uneroded lava beds likely are it.

Even the myriad little depressions that showed up in the recent moon photographs are duplicated in central Oregon lava.

Air Force Tosses Sky Spy Into Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) —The Air Force launched a satellite—possibly a Samos "sky spy" vehicle — from this West Coast space and missile base.

The brief announcement said only an Atlas Agena booster combination was used for the launch in the bid to put the space vehicle in polar orbit.

Unusual Policies of English Queen Cited by Freedom School President

The hallmark of the Elizabethan Era — an era which put England in the vanguard of the Industrial Revolution and gave brith to the symbols of American freedom — was pecuniosity, delay and single rule.

These three policies of Elizabeth I brought England out of economic desolation and gave strength to the concepts of private property and private enterprise, Robert LeFevre, founder and president of the Freedom School, told a graduating class Friday.

In discussing "Elizabeth I and Her Influence Upon the Future," LeFevre pointed out that Elizabeth ascended the throne of a country which had just gone through two religious civil wars that had wrecked her economy and had deprived England of many of its young men.

When she ascended the throne in 1558, she adopted three rather remarkable policies," LeFevre said.

"One very firm, and I suppose this was the primary policy in her thinking," the speaker continued, "was that she decided that she and she alone would rule. In this sense she was an utter and complete tyrant, a despot without any question."

The second policy was "a very strange policy for any ruling monarch of any time past or present," LeFevre said. This was her decision not to spend money.

"Although she loved jewelry and clothing and fancy things, she was extremely pecunious . . .she was stingy. She did not want to spend money, particularly she did not want to spend public money and this is incredible when you can find a politician with this kind of a real commitment, a real dedication. This is a rarity," LeFevr esaid.

The third policy and perhaps "the most startling of all" was Elizabeth's tendency to delay.

"She was a procrastinator in a truly professional status," LeFevre said. "She made up her mind when she ascended the throne that she would decide nothing today."

The result of the combination of these three policies was that the English people had to stand on their own feet and produce for themselves.

Regarding the first policy of no political rivalries, LeFevre said that this caused the young men of England to forego politcs in favor of business.

"She took the view that if there was the slightest kind of political rivalry, off with their heads. This put the damper on political activity," LeFevre said.

"The young men of that time realized that if they wanted to get ahead — or keep their own — they would have to get into some other line of work and the men of talent and genius and ability went into business and this had a marvelous effect on the economy," he said.

LeFevre said if more young men of brilliance today would "forego the political avenues and pursue something more rewarding," this country's economy would be similarly bolstered.

The penny - pinching policy forced the people of England to rely on themselves rather than the throne for their needs. The result was a spurt along the entire economic strata.

Her third strategy of delay "virtually nullified her office" and "gave the British people a chance to stand on their own feet and they did so." The result was the birth of the "Elizabethan Spirit."

It was the birth of a great literary movement and "some of the all-time great minds of the world" came to the fore because of Elizabeth, who "never really put political pressure on the economy in order to hold it back."

LeFevre said that the condition of England at the time of Elizabeth's ascension to the throne was worse than the current situation. He said that our condition is "nowhere nearly as bad" because the people at that time didn't have our industrial capacity or understanding.

"But because of a change of philosophy the British people emerged as a great people and England put into eclipse other nations of the world which at that time were ahead of it," LeFevre said.

"I am thinking of the enormous potential that exists in a nation when it has the spirit to produce," LeFevre said. He pointed to Western Germany, which was wrecked by the Second World War but has "emerged from the ruble to become a potent force."

LeFevre said that if the spirit is present we have no reason to be discouraged about the present state of affairs or the trend toward socialism. West Germany is an encouraging example of what can be done when the spirit is present and political force is absent.

As an example of Elizabeth's firmness, LeFevre said that if one of her advisors presented a program that was too expensive, but necessary, the man who proposed it was forced to pay for it himself.

"Perhaps if we could install something like that today in Washington, it would have a beneficial effect," LeFever commented.

Elizabeth, who had an excellent business mind, LeFevre said, and who would have made an outstanding senior partner in a stockbroker's firm, made one major economic mistake during her 45-year reign.

During her last years on the throne, Elizabeth "weakened" and approved the poor laws. It was her only principal deviation from spending pubilc monies and the adverse economic effects of it lasted through the 19th century.

But under Elizabeth, the people of England "stood up taller than any people before, at least since the fall of the Roman Empire, have stood. They became free; they became free in spirit, they became free in mind. They were not harassed, taxed, regulated and controlled."

LeFevre said that Elizabeth loved her people "and she let them alone in the main."

"These ideas . . .tend to show one thing that is enormously significant," the speaker said. He continued:

"If you leave people alone, it is remarkable what they can do and this was the central theme of Elizabeth's reign — she let her people alone.

"The country grew rich while she was on the throne. I don't mean that her treasury grew rich, which it did, but this was not the principal benefit. The benefit was that the people themselves grew rich. They grew rich because they could keep what they made. She did not interfere with the economy. Instead, she encouraged people to invest. She invested herself.

"The country became a productive country. It became known as a country of traders and businessmen more interested in making money than in politics. This was a good thing because it brought England to the vanguard in the movement toward the industrial revolution and toward the American symbols of freedom — private property, private enterprise.

"We owe Elizabeth a debt of gratitude. We are fortunate that she did as she did."

4YEAR-OLDS COME INTO OWN

CHICAGO (AP) — Four-year-old harness horses, once forgotten in the sport's economy and deprived of rich racing opportunities, have gained equal status in the sport.

As a result of races like the Harness Tracks of America championship series, the American-National Maturities and the Realization stakes, 4-year-olds moved onto a virtual level with 3-year-olds in 1963.

Of 27 races worth $50,000 or more in harness racing in 1963, eight were for 3-year-olds, seven for 4-year-olds and 11 open to older horses. Only one of the 27 events was for 2-year-olds.

Army Will Request For 6,600 Draftees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army announced Friday it will need 6,600 draftees in October, 400 more than September's call.

The smallest quota for the year was the 3,300 requested for August and the highest January's 16,000.

To shape up more young men to military standards, President Johnson asked Congress Friday for $16,375,000.

Stock Market Posts Advance After Slowdown

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market this week posted its first weekly advance in four weeks as fears quited about involvement in a Southeast Asia military confrontation.

But the volume of 19,324,510 shares was the lightest for any five-day trading week since the week ended Aug. 10, 1963, when 18,042,010 shares changed hands. It compared with 21,931,659 last week.

The dull trading, analysts said, reflected continued doubt about the world situation — which included crisis in Cyprus and the Congo as well as Viet Nam — and also some hesitation about the Presidential election.

The economic news, however, continued to be good on capital spending plans by industry, industrial production, steel output and auto sales.

The Dow Jones Industrial Average this week rose 9.65 to 838.81.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 2.2 to 316.5.

Of 1,507 issues traded on the New York Stock Echange, 884 advanced and 470 declined.

The market dragged its heels again on Monday and Tuesday but rallied in fairly brisk fashion on Wednesday. Lack of news — bad international news — rather than good news was cited as a main factor in the return of confidence.

The market advance resumed on Thursday, and continued until mid session Friday before a week-ending fadeout.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were:

Chrysler, up 3⅛ at 53⅞ on 352,400 shares; Studebaker, off ¾ at 7; Sunshine Mining, up 1⅜ at 24½; Texas Gulf Sulphur, up 1⅜ at 53⅜; and Pan American World Airways, up ⅜ at 32⅛.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were:

Magellan Petroleum, up 1⅛ at 3⅛ on 330,000 shares; Seaboard World Airlines, up ¼ at 7⅝; New Idria Mining, up ¼ at 1⅛; National Petroleum, up 13-16 at 3 13-16; and Campbell-Chibougamau, up ⅜ at 4⅜.

Bizup Talks to Reporters Before His Execution

John Bizup, 30, was tense Friday afternoon, and smoked a continuous string of cigarettes as he talked to a group of reporters in a room adjacent to the death row of the Colorado State Penitentiary in Canon City.

Bizup said he planned to spend the last few hours before his planned execution Friday night with the Rev. Justin McKernan, Catholic chaplain of penitentiary. Bizup told reporters the priest was the man whom he felt most close to in his remaining hours before the execution.

Bizup, who had been in the penitentiary's death row since November 1960 for the slaying of a Pueblo taxicab driver, said he had given up hope as far as a commutation of his sentence from the governor was concerned.

He had been informed by Warden Harry Tinsley that his last writ to Gov. John Love had been denied.

The young man, described by prison officials and Father Justin as a model prisoner, one who had been a good example for other inmates, said he wanted to get into heaven. "You can call that keeping up hope," he said.

Bizup said he felt he had grown closer to God during his time in death row, and indicated that he believed it was God's will that he would be executed in the state's gas chamber. He said he was a practicing Catholic.

The condemned man said he had no messages to leave behind. "It's a little late to say anything now. And anyway, what could I say? Once in a while a guy comes up and says something. But it really doesn't mean anything, does it?"

Bizup said he had no real bitterness toward anyone, although his manner indicated an underlying bitter attitude toward the law.

"Only a minority of people decide the law. People who don't believe in the death penalty have no voice in it. You can't get them on a jury," Bizup noted.

"Gov. Love said he couldn't change the will of the people in commuting my sentence, because the change in the law has to come from the will of the people," the condemned man added. "I know that is what he said, but I understand that he can commute sentences if he wants to."

Bizup said he believed the capital punishment law would be abolished someday, but he did not speculate on whether his execution would have any influence in that direction.

Bizup pointed out that some persons were serving time for the same type of crime that he was being executed for.

"The law must be unfair," he said. "It should be the same for everyone."

He said the last meal he had eaten was at 4 p.m. Thursday, and stated that he would not order a final meal. "It would be too like a celebration, and I do not think this is a celebration. I couldn't eat it anyway, and the other fellows (on death row) wouldn't want it if I tried to give it away."

Bizup received a letter from his wife Friday. His wife, Coral, lives in Sacramento, Calif., and has not seen him. He commented that he had written to her recently, but was not certain if he clearly told her which day had been set for his execution.

His mother and older sister from Toledo, Ohio, had visited him the first time about two weeks ago. He said he had not wanted to see them before, because he thought the experience would be too "hard on them."

Concerning his crime, Bizup said he was traveling from California to Ohio, and stopped over in Pueblo. He said he did not plan to shoot a taxicab driver he had held up, explaining he had done it on "impulse."

Bizup has been a witness of three executions during his time in death row. Asked how the men in death row feel after one of them had gone to the gas chamber, Bizup said, "They don't say much. Most of us keep our thoughts to ourselves."

Schoolboys Conduct Unusual Experiment

KENSINGTON, Md. (AP) — Two schoolboys who decided to test people's reactions in an unusual experiment came up with some unexpected results.

Martin Sures, 13, and Ronald Silver, 12, copied the Bill of Rights — the first 10 amendments to the Constitution—in longhand. Then, without identifying their material, they went from door to door asking people to sign their "petition."

In 101 interviews, this is how they made out: 15 people recognized the "petition" as the Bill of Rights and signed it; seven recognized it but declined to sign; 21 signed it but did not appear to recognize what it was; 58 didn't recognize it and refused to sign.

State Medicare Plan Extension To Be Sought

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Welfare Board has tabled a plan that would extend benefits to recipients of the new Medical Assistance for the Aged program.

There was no apparent opposition to the proposal at a meeting of the board Friday and approval was expected at the September board meeting.

A recommendation that the board approve limited physician services in the homes of MAA recipients was made by the State Welfare Department staff and concurred in by the board's medicare subcommittee.

As recommended, the addition to the MAA program would provide physician services in the home for post-surgical care for 30 days after discharge from a hospital.

Welfare Department officials have estimated that such a plan, which would become effective on Oct. 1, will cost about $84,000 a year.

Charles Bloedorn, director of the National Annuity League, criticized plans for only a limited program of physician home services.

"This falls far short of what the people were promised," he said. "You can't call this a medicare program because all you have is hospitalization and nursing home care."

The MAA program is designed for nonpensioners of 65 and older with monthly incomes of less than $114. They cannot have assets over $1,000 other than the value of a home.

Negro Finance Firm Success in Florida

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Florida's first and only savings and loan association operated entirely by Negroes opened in April 1963 with assets of $400,000. A little more than a year later the assets have reached the $950,000 mark and continue to climb.

The President of the Washington Shores Federal Savings and Loan, Dr. James R. Smith, says, "We now have over 2,300 accounts, most of which represent savings by many who have never saved before, on a dollar or two every payday basis."

Former Chief of Cuban Air Force Sees Surface Change in Red Cuba

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Fidel Castro will be toppled and an apparent democratic government, secretly controlled by the communists, will be installed prior to the November general elections.

This is the opinion of Maj. Pedro L. Diaz Lanz, former commander-in-chief of Castro's Cuban Air Force who is now under death sentence in his native Havana.

Lanz refers to the communist plan to replace Castro with an apparent pro-western democratic government as the "Judas Operation" and said it is designed to avoid conflict between the U. S. and Russia and to perpetuate the present administration and its policies.

The former airline pilot, who fought with Castro in the hills of Cuba during the revolution is currently lecturing at Billy James Hargis's Christian Crusade Anti-Communist Youth University at The Summit in Manitou Springs. He will speak at a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Lanz charged that the coup would be led by men "imposed" on the counterrevolutionaries by the current administration — men he said who were known communists.

"The system will remain the same. Only Castro will be removed. It will be a change of individuals, not a change of the present system," Lanz said.

"How effective can an anti-communist movement be when its leaders are communist themselves?" asked the man who spent three days with his wife and brother in a sailboat making his escape from Castro. "It just won't work."

Lanz, a good-looking man of 37, joined the revolutionary movement in 1956 but did not meet Castro himself until much later. He said he only heard of Castro through the reports of his raids on Batista troops. Later the pilot began flying arms and ammunition to the guerrillas in the hills and spent three months in the hills himself, fighting for what he thought was independence.

When Castro marched triumphantly into Havana Jan. 8, 1959, Lanz was with him and became commander in chief of the air Force. His first doubts about Castro and his intentions came the next day.

"I overheard a conversation between Castro and Che Guevera. They were saying that they must get rid of religion. That gave me the first clue Castro was a communist," Lanz said.

During the next five months Lanz said he conducted an investigation into Castro's background. He learned, he said, that the Cuban leader had been "indoctrinated in communism" at the University of Havana and had taken part in Red uprisings in Columbia in 1948.

On July 1, 1959, Lanz made his move. He wrote a letter of resignation stating his reasons for leaving the service. These were headed by Castro's communism. Copies of the letter were sent first to Cuba's news media which hadn't been censored yet.

"The first Castro heard of it was over the radio. It was too late for him to do anything then. It was all over the street in big headlines. The formal resignation, I sent to him by messenter," Lanz said. He was already in hiding at this time.

He said Castro's only answer was to attack Lanz as a traitor and a Judas. Lanz had five methods of escape planned. He tried four and they failed. The fifth was by boat and his brother, who was in Miami, was able to obtain only the sailboat.

"We just made it," Lanz said. "I was being hunted all over like a rat, like a beast, by the same people I was trying to alert who were taken in by Castro's lies."

On July 14, 1959, Lanz appeared before the Senate Internal Security Sub-committee and denounced Castro as a Communist. He also warned, he said, that Russia was building bases in Cuba already.

Later that year, in an obsolete B-25 which he owned, Lanz flew over Havana dropping copies of an open letter to the people of Cuba warning them of Castro's plans and what would happen to them under his regime.

"Castro accused me of bombing Havana and strafing civilians," Lanz said. "If people were killed it was from Castro's own gunners; his own anti-aircraft people who were shooting at me. The shells were dropping into the city. I was flying low."

On his return to Miami, the plane was confiscated, Lanz jailed and he was condemned to death in his absence in Cuba. He spent a few anxious weeks when Castro tried to extradite him. This failed. Later, Castro admitted that Lanz had dropped only leaflets.

But the pilot was fined $2,000 and restrictions were placed on his freedom. When his plane was finally returned to him it was useless since it had not been cared for.

Lanz said that he warned President Kennedy, the FBI and other government agencies in a letter that the Bay of Pigs Invasion would fail. He said he sent the letter about a month before the invasion.

"I warned them that they should investigate every agency involved, including the State Department and the CIA and some leaders of the administration who had communist backgrounds," Lanz said. "Of course, I never got a reply."

He accused Artime Buesa, leader of the Bay of Pigs Invasion, and Manual Ray, now touted as the head of the next invasion, of being communists. He said Ray has already stated that he was in sympathy with the way things were being run by Castro, he just wanted to replace Castro.

Lanz said he has been working for the past five years to help the underground overthrow Castro and his communist regime.

"We have accomplished a little despite the fact that the U.S. administration has concentrated their efforts to stop us," the freedom fighter said.

As a result of his efforts, he said the U.S. has placed further restrictions on his freedom. Lanz said if he wanders outside of the U.S. territorial limits, he can be arrested and subject to a fine of $5,000 and-or five years in prison.

He charged that the U.S. is protecting Cuba with the Coast Guard, Air Force and the Navy.

"They are stopping any help we might be able to give to the underground or to bring them supplies," Lanz said. "There is no doubt in our minds that the present administration is helping and has been helping in a very effective way, the communist countries all over the world. We can point to the fact they are doing it. They are helping by sending them wheat, money, airplanes and almost every strategic material such as machinery and steel.

"We hope that the American people will retire in the next election these specific people who are helping the international communist conspiracy," Lanz continued. "Then and only then, we know that Cuba or any other country suffering under the tyranny of Communism might have the slightest chance of being liberated."

In predicting the overthrow of Castro by the communists themselves, Lanz said the action would be taken to lull the Free World into a false sense of security. The reason he said is that Castro is given the sole blame for the communists in Cuba and that he has been given the responsibility of communist uprisings in South America.

"He is the blame for all, the people think. Get rid of Castro and you get rid of the communists is the feeling. The communists will do this before the November election. Castro will be killed. His body will be displayed and the administration can say that they have rid this hemisphere of the communist influence," Lanz said.

But the new government will be controlled by the communists and will continue the same policies.

Lawyer Sees Jack Ruby In Consultation

DALLAS (UPI)—Melvin Belli the colorful San Francisco lawyer who failed to save President Kennedy's self-appointed avenger from a death sentence, is going to file a brief he hopes will help save his former client from the electric chair.

Belli slipped into the Dallas-Fort Worth area under an assumed name Friday night and visited Jack Ruby, his former client, in Dallas County jail. Belli returned to San Francisco Saturday.

He stayed overnight in the Western Hills Motel in Fort Worth as "Harry Cobden." He said he used an assumed name and put up in Fort Worth rather than Dallas "to avoid kicking up any stink."

Ruby fired Belli last March a few days after a jury found Ruby guilty of murdering Lee Harvey Oswald. Belli denounced Dallas a "little bit of Russia in the United States," and charged that his client was railroaded.

Belli said only that he had not been asked to reenter the Ruby case and would refuse if asked.

College Student Loan Increase Being Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House approved an increase in funds for college student loans Friday in passing a bill extending and broadening the National Defense Education Act.

In it the House also extended for one year the impacted-areas program of federal grants to school districts swollen by government facilities.

As approved and sent to the Senate, the bill extended the Defense Education Act until June 30, 1967. It was originally passed in 1958— the year after the Russians had launched their sputnik — as a means of improving the teaching of science and mathematics.

Insanity Board Is Opposed by Psychiatrists

DENVER (AP) — Two leading psychiatrists said Saturday they oppose a suggested plan for a special board set up by the governor to examine criminal defendants who plead innocent by reason of insanity.

Dr. John Macdonald of Colorado Psychopathic Hospital said such a board would "impair the training program" for resident doctors at the hospital who assist in the examinations.

Both Macdonald and Dr. Bradford Murphey, a Denver psychiatrist, said the present system of examination shared by private and institutional doctors should be continued.

A governor would not be qualified to select such a board whose political makeup would be suspect, Dr. Murphey said. He added that it would wind up with "men who like to go to court" rather than the best qualified.

A Sterling district judge, Francis L. Shellenberg, said he agreed. "The people (judge and attorneys) who are closest to a case, those who must live with it, should select the psychiatrists," he said.

The board idea is one of several suggestions raided for discussion at a meeting of Gov. John A. Love's committee studying possible revision of state insanity laws.

The group also will consider whether defendants pleading innocent by reason of insanity should be allowed freedom on bond and whether the burden of proof in an insanity case should be placed on the defendant rather than the district attorney.

A closed-door meeting of the group is scheduled Sept. 19.

Sea Cows Are Used To Clean Out Canals

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The manatee, or sea cow, is being used to wage war on the hyacinths in Florida's rivers and canals.

Hyacinths block some 1500 miles of canal, thus making it difficult to regulate water levels. Sea cows, which weigh up to 2000 pounds and consume 100 pounds of weeds daily, are believed to be cheaper than other methods of destroying the weeds.

The hyacinth has been a problem since Mrs. W. F. Fuller tossed some into the St. John's River in 1890. Within 10 years one million acres of Florida's rivers and canals were thick with the plants. Mrs. Fuller saw the hyacinth at the New Orleans Cotton Exposition and liked the colors so much that she brought three plants to her St. Augustine estate for her fish-pond. All went well until she tossed the plants into the river.

Kitten on the Keys Found in California

THREE RIVERS, Calif. (AP) —Mrs. Carolyn Hines' cat is really a Kitten on the Keys.

Precat, short for Pretty Cat, has a weak voice and often her meows asking to be let out of the house went unheard. One day the startled family heard piano notes and found their pet walking on the keyboard. She jumped down and meowed to be let out.

Since then, when Precat wants to attract attention, she hops up on the piano. "She never does it unless she wants something," Mrs. Hines reports.

Reorganization Is Planned by Viet Nam Chief

By MALCOLM M. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Khanh is expected to announce a major reorganization of his government Sunday with perhaps a change in his own title.

The impending Cabinet shakeup apparently is aimed partly at weeding out defeatist elements in the regime.

Khanh, a major general, met with most of his Cabinet Friday at the seaside resort of Cap St. Jacques, 40 miles from Saigon. U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and other American officials were present.

Sources said there was "no major change in grand strategy anticipated." Khanh will retain as much control as before, they said, but perhaps under a new and more impressive title.

Bible Is Translated For Florida Indians

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Bible Translators David and Virginia West have been spending much of their time since 1955 in the Big Cypress struggling to translate the Bible into Mikasuki.

The task is a difficult one for the Wests, who are with Wycliff Bible Translators, Inc., because Mikasuki is a spoken language only and they find it necessary to develop first an alphabet compatible with English. Work has not developed much beyond that point.

Like some Oriental languages, Mikasuki is a complex tongue. There are three tone levels and a glide tone. The way a word is spoken alters its meaning, like from man to husband. There he, she and it, is the same with the voice tone making the distinction. Nouns have no plural; the modifier expresses the plural; thus "five white cats" becomes "five whites cat."

Bears are fond of honey and will rip beehives apart to get at it.

City Handled 71 Juvenile Cases in July

The Juvenile Bureau of the Colorado Springs police department handled 71 juveniles last month, which was 17 less than for the same month in 1963.

Police Chief Cecil J. McKissick said 60 of the juveniles were boys ranging in age from 8 through 17 while 11 were girls whose ages ranged from 14 through 17.

In the 25 case reports cleared, offenses involved included assault, auto theft, burglary, burglary of motor vehicle, disorderly conduct, grand larceny, malicious mishief and petit larceny.

The police chief said 29 juveniles were referred to the juvenile court and probation office, four were referred to the state juvenile parole officer, 32 were released to their parents and six were held for other agencies.

TEAM PLAY — Airman 3.C. Raymond R. Toler (left) smiles ruefully as his roommate Airman 2.C. Herman C. Travis beats him at a domestic version of the old sandlot method of deciding a controversy. Although it's Airman Toler's turn to sweep the room this time, you can bet that it took a team effort for them to win 4600th Transportation Squadron's Room of the Month competition from their barracksmates. Toler and Travis will receive recognition for their neatness at the motormen's August Commander's Call. The two airmen will each receive a pen and pencil set, lighter, flight bag, coffee cup and a pocket notebook for their conscientiousness. (U. S. Air Force Photo)

Love Has No Plans for Truck Tax Changes

DENVER (AP) — Colorado Gov. John A. Love says he has "no present plans" to push for a change in the method of taxing trucks.

The present tax is on a ton-mile basis and has been opposed by truckers since its inception. A special committee studying the question was given a preliminary report last week on a different plan — the incremental cost theory.

A set of five examples worked out for reporters showed the incremental cost plan would increase the cost to automobile owners while decreasing it for truckers.

Love, asked at a news conference Friday afternoon about the truck tax, said he hopes to remain open minded on the question until he sees what the committee recommends. Love said he always has urged that a simpler way be found to collect truck taxes and said he thinks there should be a study of exemptions given to farm trucks and trucks operating exclusively within metropolitan areas.

Women More Interested In Furnishings of Boat

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

To a woman eyeing a boat, it's what's inside that counts.

The distaff side usually is content to leave such things as construction methods and hull shapes to the males. It's when it comes to interiors that the female influence dominates.

One of the most impressive interior designs seen recently was aboard a Newporter, a 40-foot sailing auxiliary that was designed specifically for family off-shore cruising.

On this particular boat, the decorator chose a consistently fresh, bright and airy scheme. The color choice, apparently influenced by sea and sky, was shades of blue and white, with touches of red. The color was set off against the rich accents provided throughout the boat by highly polished mahogany trim.

To make the cabins appear as spacious as possible, the bulkheads and ceiling coverings were painted a soft white. The floor area throughout was vinyl tile done in a spatter design.

In the main cabin, the two six-feet, four-inch bunks were covered with navy, cherry red and white plaid blankets, accented with puffy pillows. The windows were done in a cafe type heavy white hopsacking curtain, trimmed in a matching blue. The forward cabin followed the same decorative treatment of blanketing and curtains.

One of the standard features of the main cabin of a Newporter is a fireplace which resembles an old colonial stove. Set on a mahogany base and underwriters approved, it burns charcoal, wood and brickettes.

The galley contained a double door ice-box and electric refrigerator, propane gas stove, and full length sink, with disa storage compartments.

Sturdy cookware and an antique peppermill in the galley were placed amidst blue and white cups and saucers, dish towels, and again, the hopsacking curtains in white with a touch of blue trim.

The head boasted electric toilet, sink and hot watershower. Towels in red, white and blue, colored soaps and a white hopsacking cafe curtain on the window gave it a bright touch.

The dinette area was spacious, with seating units covered in a vinyl fabric of cobalt blue. The formica top table was done in a rich wood grain, with polished mahogany finish.

A table setting of pewter was arranged on cherry red place mats and set off with a centerpiece of fruits and vegetables. The windows were covered with fine matchstick bamboo curtains.

Probably one of the most famous Newporters every built was owned by the late actor Tyrone Power who bought the 11 - ton, ketch rigged craft in 1958 and called her the Black Swan in honor of a pirate film he made based on Rafael Sabatini's novel.

Late in 1958, Power shipped the Black Swan aboard a freighter from California to Port of Palma on the Mediterranean Island of Majorca. He planned to use the boat while working on a movie, "Solomon and Sheba" in Spain. But Power suffered a fatal heart attack on Nov. 15, 1958, while on the film set.

The Black Swan later was sailed by a new owner to Barbados, in the West Indies, where she operated under charter for a number of years. Several years ago the craft was purchased by a New York executive and now sails out of a Long Island port.

Liberal Party Will Support Robert Kennedy

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) Alex Rose, vice chairman of the Liberal party, says the party will support Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as Democratic candidate for New York's U.S. Senate seat and predicts Mayor Robert F. Wagner will endorse Kennedy, possibly next week.

Rose said Friday that the Liberal party, which usually gets about 400,000 votes, which could swing an election, will back Kennedy if he is nominated at the State Democratic Convention Sept. 1.

Rose said he was basing predicted support by Wagner of the attorney general on an "educated guess."

Wagner, several hours after Rose had made his statement, said he would make no decision until he had seen Kennedy, which he is expected to do next week. Wagner has said Kennedy would make a good candidate but has withheld formal endorsement. Kennedy has said he will not make the race without the mayor's "express approval."

An authoritative Washington source said Kennedy had not consulted President Johnson about any plans to run for the Senate. The source further said that Johnson feels it is entirely up to Kennedy and the people of New York.

Dissenters to Kennedy's candidacy are not lacking. Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, an undeclared candidate for the seat held by Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, has been busy rounding up convention delegates. He has said he will challenge any Kennedy nomination in the courts on grounds that he is not a New York resident.

Kennedy resides in Virginia and votes in Massachusetts. He is expected to attend the Democratic National Convention as a delegate from the Bay State.

Healthy Fear Of Lightning Quite Normal

By MARGERY MCELHENY

CHICAGO (UPI) — Do you have astrophobia?

Most people do, and a healthy amount of it is beneficial. You are typical, too, if you don't know offhand that astrophobia is fear of lightning.

All the civilizations of man have had it. Ancient Greeks believed lightning to be the weapon of Zeus, father of the Gods. Today, the eagle on the back of a dollar bill clasps ancient Greek lightning arrows in its claws.

The following quiz prepared by the Lightning Protection Institute was designed to test the most common misconceptions about lightning and lightning protection.

1. A lightning bolt can strike "out of the blue."

True. The period of peak danger is just before the rain; clouds may still be miles away.

2. An average square mile receives 40-80 lightning strikes a year.

True. The average American community has 40 thunderstorm days per year, and from one to two lightning strikes to ground per storm.

3. An adjacent tall tree will protect your house against lightning.

False. An Institute survey showed that 10.1 per cent of the bolts that damanged houses first struck a tall tree, then jumped to the house.

4. A grounded television antenna functions as a lightning rod.

False. The average television antenna is a target rather than protection. It should have a lightning arrester and be tied into a complete lightning protection system. Television antennas were struck in 29.2 per cent of the home loss cases studied.

5. Modern houses are more vulnerable to lightning damage than houses 30 years old.

True. Today's houses are larger and contain more metal; and more of them are located in exposed areas.

6. Houses in cities are safe from lightning.

False. A house has some protection if located near high towers, smokestacks and skyscrapers but, as cities spread, this protection is lost.

7. Does a lightning bolt travel upward, downward, or in both directions?

The downward - reaching "leader stroke" is followed by the destructive "return stroke."

8. Does lightening strike buildings because building materials are better electrical conductors than air? Because they are inflammable? Because they interrupt air currents during a storm?

A building provides a ladder for an upward climb of ground charges.

9. Is the purpose of lightning protection to: Prevent lightning from striking? Drain off static electricty? Convey a lightning bolt safely to ground?

Air terminals (rods) are located to assume any lightning bolt, and a heavy conductor cable carries the stroke to ground rods, which convey it into moist earth where the charge dissipates.

10. Do most causalties from lightning occur: On the golf course? In the home? On the beach?

In the home, when you count injuries and deaths.

11. The number of fires to buildings in the United States caused by lightning bolts in an average year are: 35,000; 50,000; 1 million?

35,000, or about 11 per cent of all fires; in outlying areas, a third or more.

12. A home lightning protection system is recognized as proper if: It carries a U-L Master label? It has a manufacturer's warranty? It is approved by your fire insurance company?

Underwriters Laboratories quality check system is backed by both manufacturers and fire insurance underwriters. A U-L master label assures a proper installation as well as proper materials.

About half of the campgrounds in national parks have good acces roads, parking, drinking water and sanitary facilities. About half are in remote areas. A few are reserved for use by organized groups.

44 Negroes Lose Job as Owner Closes Cafe

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) Forty-four Negroes lost their jobs in the federal government's first crackdown on a restaurant whose owner refused to comply with an integration order from a federal court.

The owner, Lester Maddox, who closed his business rather than serve Negroes, promised to take care of his Negro employes and some white workers "as long as there is a dime in my checkbook."

But he said he was not in a hurry to find jobs for those idled by the closing.

"I don't want my crew to get away from me," he said, "because I am confident justice will come at Supreme Court time."

He referred to his intention to contest the constitutionality of the civil rights law "to the bitter end."

Maddox said the Pickrick restaurant was his only source of regular income. But he said he had received several thousand dollars in letters from all parts of the nation and is adding to his defense fund by selling souvenirs outside his closed business.

He said he would need $70,000 or more in legal fees and money to help support his workers until the Supreme Court acts on his appeal.

RETURNS TO JAIL

BRISTOL, England (UIP) — Sid Lewis, 44,escaped from the prison ward of the Royal Infirmary in May and went back last week to get a job there. He was given an application form before someone recognized him and called the police.

Advice Issued On Football Gear to Buy

CHICAGO — Advice was offered today to parents and school officials who purchase football equipment.

In a statement prepared for athletic and school officials, the American Medical Association Committee on the Medical Aspects of Sports and the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations said the selection of protective equipment is a major factor in safeguarding the health of the athlete.

Specifically, the two groups recommended:

For the head — a helmet of shock-absorbing material encased in a rigid palstic shell. Snug fit and protection from "bottoming" of the helmet onto the head must be assured. A face mask, rigid with internal cushioning, not to protrude farther than 1¼ inch from the nose which can prevent elbow contact with the eyes. Also, a dentist-fitted mouthpiece.

For the body — All pads should incorporate shock-absorbing material, and cover the intended area properly. The fit of the pants must assure effective positioning of the thigh and knee pads.

For the ankles and feet — All players should have their ankles routinely wrapped with nonelastic 2½ to 3 inch width bandage. Cleats should be kept short; rubber heels without cleats may be preferred.

The basic guiding principles to the selection of protective equipment for football or other sports of any age group are:

— The best available equipment should be purchased

— Equipment should be carefully fitted

— Equipment should be conscientiously maintained

— Equipment should be worn at all appropriate times, in practice or in games.

The statement added two notes of caution.

"Inferior equipment gives the wearer a false sense of security and puts him in jeopardy of serious injury.

"Coaching that utilizes protective equipment as a weapon is indefensible, and can produce injury to both the aggressor and the opponent."

The AMA committee added words of warning to parents who intend to purchase a football helmet for young players.

Recent tests prove that low priced helmets sold as toys are not suitable for real play, the committee said.

A sample of such helmets failed to withstand the lowest impact level of standard tests. In addition, edges of these helmets were found to be sufficiently sharp to cause lacerations.

Moreoever, the suspension or internal padding provided literally no protection on impact. Helmets to be used in actual play should possess the same protective qualities as those for varsity football. Otherwise, the safety of the wearer can be in serious jeopardy.

'Grandeur' of de Gaulle Results in High Price

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

NEW YORK (NEA) — What price "La Grandeur?" French President Charles de Gaulle, whose austere profile successfully pierced the billows of France's postwar troubles, is now running into stormy political weather.

The anti - Gaullist squalls are coming from several points on the compass:

Bonn's Chancellor Erhard is determined to resist Le Grand Charles' efforts to divert West Germans from their pro-American and NATO-oriented policies. He will not risk Bonn's security to feed De Gaulle's illusion if an "independent " Europe led by a "great" Frane.

The French president's go-it-alone policy in Southeast Asia is also a failure. President Johnson has already rejected his proposal that the United States get out of Viet Nam and Laos. The President made it clear that the United States will not "ratify terror" by surrendering Southeast Asia to the Reds.

However, it is De Gaulle's foreign commitments that have begun to stir doubts in France. Ordinary Frenchmen are beginning to realize that the country cannot afford the huge cost of playing the role of a great power.

De Gaulle's vision of "la grandeur" appeals to the French, despite the strain it imposes on NATO. But they are, above all, a practical people. As they see it, it is a wonderful thing to have France's Napoleonic greatness restored — provided, of course, it does not dig too deep into the Frenchman's pocket.

This is the theme of a provoking series of articles by the noted journalist Raymond Cartier. "Attention, France is squandering her money," he recently wrote in the popular magazine Paris Match.

Cartier claims that France, to feed De Gaulle's ambitions, has assumed too heavy a burden in the assistance of developing countries in Africa and Latin America. This expenditure jeopardizes the country's economic future.

For in back of quaint village streets and gaudy tourist meccas lie some distrubing realities. For example, 3 per cent of France's gross national product is spent by De Gaulle on aid to developing countries. Yet 8 million Frenchmen at home still get their water from wells because rural communities lack water mains.

About 78 per cent of the houses in villages have no modern plumbing facilities. Even in towns, some 2 million homes are without bathrooms or running water.

France has not enough money for housing, hospitals and universities. At the Sorbonne the station during rush hours. Students overflow the lecture room laboratories and libraries.

Only 5.1 per cent of France's population has telephones—six times less than in Sweden. And while France's schools are badly in need of more teachers, some 30,000 are teaching French in Africa.

These annoying statistics, rather than De Gaulle's pose of splendid isolation, will be the main issue in the 1965 French presidential election.

Can the president's opponents convince enough people that the price they are paying for France's mythical grandeur is too high?

According to a recent French public opinion poll, De Gaulle's famed popularity is no longer overwhelming. Only 12 per cent of those polled were "very satisfied" with him, while 43 per cent were "rather satisfied."

Another indication that De Gaulle's popularity is on the decline is the fact that more responsible French leaders are now willing to run against him in the 1965 election.

Speical significance is attached to the candidacy of Senator Andre Cornu, one of France's outstanding moderate political figures. A former cabinet minister, Cornu has a long record of public service, including combat duty in World War I.

Unlike De Gaulle, Senator Cornu is a firm supporter if NATO. He also believes in a united Europe and European collaboration with the United States.

Boundaries of Air Service Are Defined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board defined the boundaries of its new study of air service between the Pacific Northwest and the Southwest here.

In this proceeding, largest to be ordered in recent years, the Northwest will be considered to consist of Washington, Oregon Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, and that part of Colorado northwest of Denver, New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, and the cities of Kansas City and St. Louis, Mo.

The board named four groups of major cities to serve as focal points in the study. They are:

Group I — Seattle and Portland, Ore.

Group II — Denver and Salt Lake City.

Ground III — St. Louis and Kansas City.

Group IV — Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and New Orleans.

The board said if the investigation demonstrates a need for long-haul service by an airline between the areas, the proceeding will be subject to these conditions:

— No flight may originate or end in the cities named in Group II.

—At least one city in at least two groups must be served on all flights, except that no new direct service will be permitted between Groups III and IV.

The board added that the proceeding would consider the feasibility of discontinuing the interchanges among airlines, in effect now between the Northwest and the Southwest, and replacing them with single-airline service.

The interchange agreements involved are between Continental Airlines and United Air Lines for a route between Seattle and Tulsa, Okla., by way of Denver; between Continental and Braniff Airways for a St. Louis-Denver route, by way of Kansas City; and between Braniff and United for a Dallas-Seattle service, by way of Denver.

The board noted that the two large sections of the country represented the one remaining major service area lacking single-airline service, and said:

"We believe that the time is now ripe for a full exploration of the long haul air transportation needs of the Pacific Northwest-Southwest service area.

"At the present time, a large amount of Pacific Northwest-west traffic is compelled to use circuitous routings to reach its destination."

"We see no need at this time to consider issues of new or improved service between the Southwest area and the cities of St. Louis and Kansas City, nor do we find it necessary to consider issues of new Denver turnaround service," the board said.

The board noted that several airline applications already filed in the proceeding include requests for additional authority between the Northwest and Miami, Fla.

Observing that Northwest Airlines is authorized to provide service between Portland, Ore., Seattle, Wash., and Miami, the board said it felt that current traffic demand could be met by that airline.

Accordingly, the CAB omitted from the investigation the issue of new single airline service between the Pacific Northwest and Florida.

Government to Buy Quantities of Beef

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to keep buying large quantities of beef even if prices continue to rise.

The Agriculture Department beef purchase program was started in March—a time when cattle prices were continuing a long downturn and cattlemen were demanding legislative action to restrict imports. Many blamed foreign countries for the declining prices.

The beef obtained by the department is donated to needy persons and the school lunch program. By late this week, purchases totaled 174 million pounds and had cost $98.8 million. The buying program had as its main objective an improvement in cattle prices.

Cattle markets began turning upward in July and by the middle of this week had climbed to the highest level in Chicago in 13 months. Prices the government paid for frozen choice grade beef ranged from 60.45 cents to 62.99 cents a pound compared with 55.94 to 56.24 cents two months ago.

Most of the beef buying has been centered on the choice grade. But beginning next week, offers will be entertained for quantities of good grade beef, one grade below choice. In asking for bids on good grade beef, the department said prices of good grade cattle have not advanced as much as have those for the choice grade.

Robbery to End Poverty

Those who imagine that we can cure poverty by taxing those who have saved in order to give those savings to those who have saved nothing, are fooling themselves. All that we are doing is preventing the savings and investments that would otherwise occur.

Take a primitive situation. A man is engaged in making a stone axe. He has hunted for many days to acquire just the right stone for that axe. They are not easy to find but he has finally found just the right stone.

Also, he has saved the sinews of a deer that he killed two weeks ago. And he has found a tough hickory bough and is engaged in scraping it and shaping it to just the right weight, thickness and length. He plans to tie it to the stone.

Let us suppose there is a big chief who now appears before our primitive man.

He says: "Og, son of Drago, is also trying to make a stone axe. He has been unable to find the right kind of stone. I see that you have the right kind of stone. You are rich. Og is poor. Og doesn't even have the sinew by means of which to bind the stone to a bough. Also, he does not even have the bough. You have all these things. Og has none of them.

"Therefore, I will take your stone from you. I will give it to Og. That way, you remain rich in sinew and bough and Og will become rich for he will have the stone."

Let us suppose that the chief is big enough to carry out his threat.

Now, how many stone axes can be made? Or let us suppose that the chief takes stone and sinew and bough from our primitive producer. Let us suppose that he gives them to Og. Og can now make a stone axe. But our primitive producer cannot.

Has wealth been increased? Not one bit. Og may go ahead to make a stone axe, but our primitive is back where he started. The end result at best can be but one stone axe. But now, Og will have the benefit of an axe which he did not earn, and our producer will have been robbed of the means that he had painfully acquired to make a stone axe.

Thus, the productive one has been robbed so that his wealth was given to another. But the sum total of wealth, assuming Og can make a decent stone axe, remains what it would have been without interference.

With this one exception: Our producer is now discouraged. He knows how hard it is to get these materials together. He has worked long and hard to do it and Og, he noticed, usually went fishing instead of hunting for the necessary items.

Will the producer go out bravely to find more materials and to carry on with his interrupted labor? Why should he? What will guarantee to him that the chief will not appear again and steal what he has gathered? He knows that there are others in the tribe who also are "poor." They are the ones who do not work. The chief may very well appear to steal from him again. And those who do not work will be rewarded.

This is what the legislation against poverty will accomplish. It will steal from the productive, the thrifty, the investors, so that those who have not produced can be benefited.

He will reason this way: "The unproductive are benefited by my labor. But I am injured because I am a producer. Hence, it is foolish for me to produce. I will become unproductive. That way, the chief can steal from others to benefit me. The less I have, the more I will be benefited.

"I will now contend that my leg pains me and I cannot walk too well. I will say that I am old and no longer of any use. I will argue that the tribe 'owes' me a living. That way, I can be benefited. For it does me no good to try to benefit myself. I am merely the victim of the chief when I become successful. So, I, too, will go fishing. I will lazy around, enjoying the company of others, the way Og has done."

The end result of legislation against poverty is as set forth above. The productive are robbed in an effort to alleviate the poverty of others. But not one shred of additional production occurs by this process. The wealth is merely redistributed so that nonproducers can consume in comfort.

This will impoverish the tribe or the nation. It will not help anyone in the final analysis.

Stock Exchange Favors Socialism

There is one overriding reason why this nation is heading into socialism and away from free enterprise. That reason is that the people in the nation want socialism. If they really wanted something else, that would be what we would be getting. The climate of business and enterprise reflects the wishes of the people.

Now, we quite understand that the folks who call themselves anti-socialists or even anti-communists, THINK they are opposing socialism or communism. And, in the main they are quite sincere about it, when they think of Russia, or of strangers, or of people who have different views from theirs.

But socialism and communism are not Russian in origin and don't have anything necessarily to do with strangers or with people who have ideas contrary to yours.

The whole idea of socialism is that property is to be taken over by the state and then redistributed on the basis of need.

One of the most clearly socialist programs of all is called urban renewal. This is absolutely socialistic as Karl Marx would have seen. It is a government-backed program in which property the government covets for uses which are different from those to which the property is presently committed, is taken from the rightful owners by force. Then, the government turns around and distributes this property to others who agree to put up the kind of building or convert the property to some kind of use that the government favors. This is full-circle socialism. From each according to what he owns; to each according to what he promises to do with it.

Who would you imagine as being the persons backing urban renewal? Naturally, you'd expect government people to back it and you'd be right. Government people are naturally socialistic. The use of force is normal to them and the employment of force in relation to groups for the "benefit" of the social "whole" is their ordinary employment.

But outside of government who would want it? Strangely, the principal people in favor or urban renewal are the businessmen and the industrialists themselves. Men who for a long time have coveted certain properties but have despaired of getting them because others owned them, now league up with government and use force to obtain the land area they want. And they act collusively with government, agreeing in advance how the land is to be used if they can get their hands on it.

You think this is too harsh?

The Wall Street Journal of August 5 reports that the New York Stock Exchange, that bastion of free enterprise, is about to make use of urban renewal in order to enlarge its quarters. We quote:

"The exchange still plans to acquire a 239,000 square foot site about 460 yards south of its present headquarters with the help of the city. It has earmarked $14 million of the $89 million for land acquisition and related costs, more than its $12 million original estimate. According to the city's urban renewal plans, the land would be seized from its present owners, who are suing to prevent the move, through condemnation proceedings and then resold by the city to the exchange. The exchange said its $14 million cost estimate is based on a consensus of estimates of the city and two real estate appraisers."

Thus, the stock exchange itself, built squarely upon the idea of a free and uninhibited market, is moving into socialistic practice in order to wrest, by force, certain property which the exchange management covets. Of course the government will assist in the unholy procedure. But what about the rights of the property owners who do not want to be treated this way?

We are reminded of the shrewd observation of Lenin, who opined that the capitalists would bid against each other in an effort to provide the rope that would be employed in their hanging. This is the very lack of principle upon which socialism depends. Men of principle wouldn't behave in this fashion.

And, quite frankly, we are dismayed that the brokers who are usually so punctilious in their management of funds and credits, and who rely so completely on a free enterprise system, would stoop to this kind of behavior.

But it helps to prove our point. The people in this nation, including those who pretend to oppose socialism and communism, really want what they pretend to oppose. And they are doing all that is necessary to get it, too.

A Tour of Mining Camps

By RUFUS L. PORTER

The history of mining in Colorado begins in 1859 in Cherry Creek and the Platte River in Denver; in Gregory Gulch in Central City; in Idaho Springs and Black Hawk. And it was also in 1859 that gold was discovered at Leadville, called Oro (Spanish for gold) until the second (silver) boom in 1876. The black sand the placer miners had been cursing because it was so hard to separate from the gold turned out to be lead carbonate crystals rich in silver.

Close upon the heels of the original discoveries, many other mining camps were soon located and gold and silver production zoomed to record heights in the '60s and '70s. From the San Juan district in the southwest to Hahn's Peak in the extreme north, from one end of the Colorado Rockies to the other and from east to west, the hard-rock camps and placer diggings sprang to life. The lives of some of the camps were short, but many of them are still with us after more than 100 years.

What really put Colorado on the map as a gold producer, of course, was the discovery of the Cripple Creek-Victor district. "The World's Greatest Gold Camp," Colorado had been nicknamed the "Silver State" long before that. But it was gold that lured the prospectors to the state and it was gold that held them here. Colorado's gold production before the Cripple Creek discovery was certainly no negligible amount. The Camp Bird mine in Ouray and the Little Johnnie mine in Leadville were two of the richest gold mines ever found, and they were in production when Cripple Creek was no more than the dream of a "locoed cowpuncher." The Camp Bird, by the way, is still operating. It has been shut down a few times in its long history, but never for any great length of time. The Camp Bird ore contains many metals, gold being one of them.

Chief among the earlier, though not the pioneer, gold camps were Fairplay and Alma in South Park. Father to this district was Buckskin Joe, who founded the camp of Buckskin Joe and located the first veins of rich ore on Buckskin Mountain.

In a short while it was discovered that the greatest values were in the great placer fields, beginning in Montgomery Gulch and extending down river through Alma and Fairplay and beyond. There are still millions of ounces of placer gold to be unearthed in that area, when and if gold mining, placer or hardrock, ever becomes profitable again — and it will.

We will begin this tour in Colorado City (the original one), now called West Side Colorado Springs. Colorado City was also founded in 1859 by the hopefuls who never found the gold they sought near Pikes Peak, although it was there, on the southwest slopes, as Bob Womack, the locoed cowboy, was to prove later. However, Colorado City became a convenient jumping off place for the long trek to Leadville and other camps farther up in the mountains. Ute Pass was a busy thoroughfare more than 100 years ago.

We will stay west on Highway 24 through Divide and Florissant, another ancient town by Colorado standards, and drive on over Wilkerson Pass to South Park, turning north at Hartsel to Fairplay (1862), and Alma (1861). Buckskin Joe (1860) is no more, nor is Park City (1860), which has been moved bodily to make a tourist attraction, and an imposing one, at Fairplay.

Either of these early mining towns, which are still very much alive, are worth a day or two's time to get the feel of them, to become acquainted with the citizens and taste their heartwarming friendliness and hospitality.

I spent some time mining in that district in the 1930's, but that is a story in itself. You will find first-class accommodations in either place and from Alma some good trails are available for mountain hiking or horse back riding, with horses on hand for the renting. These two towns are steeped in history and it is easily soaked up by engaging in conversation with the second and third generation old timers.

Between Hartsel and Fairplay, somewhere there is a fine, weathered old log ranch house with the date 1862 over the front door. Those folks must have literally moved in with the Indians. And they must have gotten along with them. The mining camps were different, they were filled with fighting men. A lone rancher, squatting way out in the middle of that vast Indian hunting ground was certainly taking his chances. He had courage. But then, courage was not lacking among the pioneers. If it had been, the story of the American West would make a different kind of reading.

We may be able to complete this tour in another column.

Towards Better Understanding

By GEORGE BOARDMAN

As we move forward towards a condition in which freedom prevails, the cultivation of understanding seems more and more important. The first step in the cultivation of understanding, logically, involves listening and observing. Obviously, it is possible to listen and resist understanding at the same time—an unfortunate situation.

I suspect that a rather high percentage of the people who believe they approve of the freedom philosophy, envision a free society which will conform with their own private ideas of a free society. In several instances my suspicions have become certainty as I've observed and listened. Possibly the situation under consideration stems from the merciless and stupid group think blasting to which we've been subjected for too many years. If respect for individualism is not a correlative aspect of the freedom philosophy, the word "freedom" should be forgotten while an understanding of the philosophy of individualism is developed.

An unfortunately high percentage of the letters we receive include expressions of criticism about the way of life which is preferable to my wife and to me. This puzzles me when the letter writers pretend to an understanding and sympathy with the freedom philosophy. I've been accused of everything from trying to run away from it all to an addiction for a spartan-like existence and from there to a preference for self-imposed martrdom. This is because the letter writers refuse to understand.

It just so happens that my wife and I are comfortable when we are together and that this compatibility encourages us to prefer our own company. We also enjoy the company of our kids and grandkids. We have a few friends with whom we are comfortable and happy — a few people who also seem to enjoy the art of conversation and discussion.

Now, if we were to force ourselves to behave in conformity with the preferences of those who are uncomfortable unless surrounded by several people, we would be martyrs to conformity — the conformity of others, and we are not inclined towards martrdom.

At no time, since we moved to Arizona have we begged people to visit us to assuage our loneliness for the very obvious reason we are not lonely. If we were, we'd move to a more populated area. We do not suggest that others change their way of life and move away from the crowds they seem to enjoy unless they complain about the way they live, in which case it seems silly to continue to put up with that kind of martyrdom.

It seems to me that a condition of freedom will include a massive understanding and tolerance for individualism. My wife and I have discussed this at length and frequently, and we've discovered that we are completely unconcerned with the way other people wish to live as long as they are trying not to add their weight to the burdens which plague us. While we may personally feel a little pity for those who live amidst crowds and confusion, we have absolutely no desire to get them to change their way of life. Towards the men or women who spend every working moment in search of another dollar and towards those who bend their energies towards finding ways and means to use other people, we have no ill will and our tolerance will continue, even beyond hoping for a better understanding from them.

A tendency towards authoritarianism and regimentation never bothers us as long as those involved do not attempt to impose their wills upon us. We do not attempt to force our nonconformist ideas upon others. I only try to explain those ideas while respecting the ideas of others.

Am I not here and now, writing about freedom itself — the right of each individual to be himself or herself? My right to live my own life? There is a lady in Odessa, Texas, who does not believe I have the right to live my own life and there are quite a few others who seem to feel they must attempt to change my ideas, while I try only to understand theirs. I believe a better understanding of the freedom philosophy will lead to better understanding between individuals as they remain individual.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

To The Point

The Northern Riots

By RUSSELL KIRK

Almost overnight, Northerners are ceasing to be Pharisees. No longer do they declare smugly, to the citizens of Mississippi and Alabama, "We are holier than thou." It has become perfectly clear — what this commentator has been saying for a long time — that the gravest racial problems today are in the Northern industrial centers, not in the South.

This is only one valuable lesson from the grim riots of New York and Rochester and other cities. I venture to suggest that we ought to learn the following hard truths from these recent troubles.

First, formal legislation concerning abstract rights is not going to help much in bringing racial harmony. The rioters in New York and Rochester enjoyed at least as many rights as did their white neighbors: integrated schooling, open occupancy, freedom to enter hotels and restaurants, guaranteed equality in employment opportunities, and all that. The law and the courts can do little more to make these people equal to everybody else. Only improvement of material conditions, and their own efforts, can help the distressed and disorderly part of our colored population.

Second, mere showering of "relief" money upon the Negro ghettoes may make conditions worse, not better. Idleness and boredom and appetite for mischief, not lack of food and shelter, were the immediate causes of these disorders. Men do not grow virtuous upon the dole — even though it may be a very generous dole.

Third, sudden flooding of voters' rolls with the registration of millions of colored people, North or South, who never have voted, is not going to usher in the earthly paradise. The Northern rioters already have the ballot — when they care to bother with it. But how will they use it? How do they use it now? Why, to send Adam Clayton Powell to Congress. As a Long Island priest commented in a sermon, "How can second-class citizens expect to become first-class citizens by acting like third-class citizens?"

Fourth, the rule of law and order clearly takes precedence over "bleeding heart" notions of the right of every "demonstrator," colored or white, to do what he pleases. For months, sentimental television and radio commentators, and some newspapermen, have shown American police as a set of brutes, bothering poor innocent civil-rights enthusiasts. The hard look induced by the Northern riots reveals that the police generally have leaned over backward not to antagonize colored groups. In Rochester, it seems, the comparative feebleness of the police encouraged the violent to become more violent.

Even the sentimental or demagogic gentlemen among the judges may have to think twice. When Governor Bryant of Florida, for instance, temporarily banned night demonstrations — very sensibly — in riot-torn St. Augustine, a federal judge held the governor in violation of the federal Constitution! If even a governor cannot take moderate measures to preserve order, who can?

Finally, the adulation of any agitator who claims to favor "civil rights" has received some check. A number of the Negro "leaders," it turned out during the riots, have no control whatsoever over the people they profess to lead; others arrogantly demand what no one can give them — such as disarming the police and exclusive employment of colored policemen in colored districts; some have been dupes or allies of the Communists. Among both colored and white people, the pretensions of such demagogues are healthily diminished.

So perhaps we Americans will begin to pay less attention to Utopian political sloganeering, in racial matters, and more to the Sermon on the Mount.

Economist Gives Advice to Barry

By OSCAR COOLEY
Professor of Economics
Ohio Northern University

Sen. Barry Goldwater's chief economic adviser is said to be Professor Milton Friedman, professor of economics at University of Chicago (he will teach at Columbia University during the coming year). In view of Goldwater's possible election to the presidency, the nation should become better acquainted with Friedman.

Milton Friedman is leader of the so-called "Chicago School" of economics, which stands for individualism and freedom of enterprise and has quite thoroughly demolished the theories of John Maynard Keynes. Thus, the Chicago school is pitted against the Harvard school, led by Professors Alvin Hansen and Seymour Harris, which out-Keynes Keynes in their ardor for economic planning.

Friedman, however, is no extremist. Although he prefers to see consumers satisfy their wants through private enterprise, he holds that some things are best done by government. His views are well expressed in "Capitalism and Freedom," published by University of Chicago Press in 1962.

Friedman's specialty is money. If he becomes chief of the president's economic advisers, some changes in the government's monetary policies may be expected.

The federal government has long manipulated the dollar, presumably with a view to stabilizing its value. Through his intensive study of the monetary history of the United States, reported in a thick book which he co-authored with Anna Schwartz, Friedman has come to the conclusion that this manipulation has been a gigantic failure.

Not only has the dollar lost much of its pristine value, but the monetary policies of the government, according to Friedman, have aggravated the loss. At times, when an inflationary boom needed to be curbed the government has provided "easy money," feeding the fires of inflation. At other times, when the economy has been declining, the government has made bad matters worse by contracting the money supply. Whether from intent or error, its monetary actions have been poorly timed.

For example, he relates that from 1929 to 1933 the government reduced the money supply by one-third. This converted a mere stock market panic into a world depression that lasted a decade. Says Friedman: "The Great Depression in the United States, far from being a sign of the inherent instability of the private enterprise system, is a testament to how much harm can be done by mistakes on the part of a few men when they wield vast power over the monetary system of a country."

Hence, he concludes, the government should quit trying to manipulate the money. Since a little more money is needed yearly to perform the additional transactions necessitated by a growing population and a rising level of living, the government should increase the money supply a little — he suggests 3 to 5 per cent — each year, without regard to whether we are booming, receding, or cruising at an even speed.

Friedman maintains that if the government had followed this policy during our history, keeping the money faucet turned on a little all the time instead of trying to flood the country with money during apparent droughts and then pumping money out of circulation when we seemed water-logged, the result would have a far better stabilization of the dollar than has been achieved.

This does not sound like a radical proposal, and yet, if it came before Congress, you may be sure the screams of the economic planners would rend the air, because as Friedman says "this rule would drastically curtail the discretionary power of the monetary authorities."

This proposal is a direct denial of the whole Keynesian theory that the economy cannot be depended on to run by itself—laissez faire fashion — but must be carefully controlled at every moment by experts appointed to the job. Friedman says the experts have been given a fair trial, over 1½ centuries, and have failed. The trial period has been amply long, he thinks, and the results have been plainly bad. Conclusion: economic management has not worked. Try freedom.

Friedman gives ample evidence that freedom does work. He cites the history of periods during which our money and banking system enjoyed relative freedom. The dollar then was relatively stable.

Since the Federal Reserve System was established by Congress in 1913, money management has been intensified. This, Friedman thinks, was a mistake. We have moved in the wrong direction.

And we are still doing so. In an article in The Wall Street Journal of July 21, Friedman pointed out that the Federal Reserve board of governors is now following an inflationary policy, and this during a period of booming business. They are stepping on the gas when they should be bearing down on the brake.

If a President Goldwater were to call Milton Friedman to Washington, it would be a major step toward sanity in our monetary and fiscal affairs.

NEAR TRAGEDY

To the Editor:

A small seven-year-old boy was chasing a girl of about 14 around a light colored four-door Ford '57 or '58 sedan that had stopped at Costilla and Lake Front Drive on Sunday, August 9, at 3:45 p.m. The girl, wearing a green-colored bathing suit, jumped into the rear seat of the car; the boy, Frankie B. Lee, jumped onto the top left front fender of the car in plain view of the driver, who was either a woman or girl. The driver started the car with a jerk, knocking the boy off her car and into the path of oncoming traffic, while she turned left onto Costilla and right onto Hancock against an amber light.

I could not get the Colorado license number but I did bring the boy into my home and gave him first aid. Apparently, the boy was not under parental control at the time; however, this does not relieve the driver, who it appeared was deliberately trying to hurt or maim this boy.

This driver must be a nut and should she read this, I would like to ask her how well she would have slept on the night of August 9 or even after that had the boy been killed through her deliberate act.

I thank God, through no fault of her own, the boy wasn't killed. Woman or girl driver — whoever you are—did you ever kill anyone? You, whoever you are, are an unsafe driver and a menace to others; however, it is too much to hope for that you voluntarily turn in your driver's license, if you have one.

PAY RAISE

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a letter which might lead to a little more understanding of how the military feel about their latest handout (?) from the government. Sure, I will be happy to get another $4 or $5 a month — anything helps — but it still isn't nearly enough. The ones who really deserve a big raise are getting nothing, however. I mean the enlisted men with less than two years' service. Do you know how much they draw now? $78 a month as E-1, and IF he is promoted to E-3 within his first two years he goes to a glorious $99.37 a month. The civil service doesn't even use the grade of 6S-1 any more, even though starting pay for that grade is almost three times that of E-3.

Enlisted men under two years received the same $78 a month in 1952. Since then, other military pay has increased an average of 39 per cent; civil service pay, 51 per cent and civilian factory wages, 44 per cent.

I ask everyone who reads this to think about it very carefully and ask yourselves if you really think it is the right way to treat the men who are defending your country. I'm sure you will agree it isn't. The best way everyone can help is to write to your representatives in Washington.

came a hero to many of the good people of the North.

Lloyd Garrison, Horace Greeley, and similar editors spread hatred, distrust and fear throughout the land. Last but not least, the ministers of the Gospel and a radical like Beecher joined in the cause of the abolitionists. Result, so noted historians say: a war of four years costing 600,000 casualties and ten years of tyranny and robbers in the South and no Marshall Plan. This price to eliminate slavery, which although a constitutional right would have died an economic death.

Now the same class of do-gooders, Freedom Riders, and cowardly vote-counting politicians, perhaps forgetting a white businessman can resent his liberty taken from him, has made it a federal crime for the white businessman, who alone is responsible for his payroll, taxes and profit, to run his own business as his best judgment tell him.

What a victory for tyranny, distrust, hatred and fear. And maybe a surprise when the votes are counted in November, with a showing of resentment at loss of liberty of the white businessman.

Congress tried it once before with a loss of liberty by prohibition, which proved a calamity and a failure.

Goldwater is our hope for a country that Thomas Jefferson hoped for.

'PENNSYLVANIA SALL'

To the Editor:

No need to tell you, I guess, that Stanley Sall has much company throughout the nation. The first "Stanley Sall" that I thought of while reading about the real Stanley Sall was a "Pennsylvania" type Stanley Sall.

"Pennsylvania Sall" operates a coal stripping corporation. Now, when "Pennsylvania Sall" locates land which contains coal that can be stripped, he must put up a four thousand dollar bond in order to insure back filling and pine tree-grass planting after stripping is completed.

To use the state-owned roadway, "Pennsylvania Sall" was required to put up another four thousand dollar bond in case the roadway was damaged.

That totals $8,000 which the State of Pennsylvania wrung out of "Pennsylvania Sall's" pocket on top of fifteen hundred dollars which "Pennsylvania Sall" pays for truck license fees per year. Besides paying gasoline (road) tax, and various other taxs too numerous to mention, "Pennsylvania Sall" needed to pay for all his heavy (not cheap) equipment and the upkeep.

What happened? Well, good old Pennsylvania closed up the roadway to "Pennsylvania Sall" and he can no longer transport coal to the railroad loading tipple.

In their greed, the Pennsylvania politicians are causing loss of work for numerous employees of the coal company, for the railroad, and others on down the line.

The politicians, beside causing "Pennsylvania Sall" to be "Pennsylvania Sall," are causing me and others who would benefit from the coal stripping to be Pennsylvania's answer to Stanley Sall, also.

And with the politicians' desire to break "Pennsylvania Sall" (he isn't through yet), the land which we hoped to build back up for farming is just a mess because of Pennsylvania's political mess.

There is not much I can do by myself to help fight "big business government with perpetual nose trouble," but Stanley Sall — good luck, and I hope that you, "Pennsylvania Sall" and all the "part peoples" can somehow rise above the "long arm."

WORK MONOPOLIES

To the Editor:

Just because they give lip-service to the problems of empolyment, is that any reason to assume the heads of our huge monopoly unions are actually concerned about unemployment beyond that which affects their own union members?

The big union monopoly heads are not running charitable or civic organizations for humanitarian ends. They run big power - pressure organizations, to serve their own interests, the interests of their organizations, and finally those of the members.

The fact is union restrictions keep millions from getting jobs. Restrictions on race are finally being removed, but other requirements for membership are equally restricting. Union work requirements eliminate many potential jobs by making them too expensive. Not that some requirements which insure safe working conditions and healthguards aren't to be applauded.

Now the union bosses want shorter work-weeks, with higher premiums for overtime. No doubt this might open up more union jobs and give their members more pay for less work, but what would it do for the rest of us?

With shorter hours more of these employed members would seek and find moonlighting jobs, taking work away from the unemployed. Employers' costs would be increased, with more people on the payrolls all getting higher wage rates and this would do as much or more to reduce business than would the higher pay to the employees increase business.

The way to reduce unemployment is to find and correct the restrictions which keep people from getting any job at all, and the subsidies and handouts which some find preferable and more secure than work and employment. The union leaders are doing their job and that is seeking to increase union employment; they are the last who would want to see non-union employment increased and unemployment of non-union people reduced. It is not to their advantage nor to the advantage of many union members.

The right to work is a prime civil right, for from this comes the wherewithal to advance and enjoy all our other rights.

RELATIONSHIPS

To the Editor:

Existence is relationships. In order for an observer to grasp a fifth dimension it is necessary for him to relate it into his understanding. A cow lives in a third dimension. A man lives in a fourth dimension to the extent of understanding and use of same. Relationships exist and we cannot know so until we can relate them to the dimension in which we perceive, or vice versa.

Our senses can show us a fourth dimension. Our reasoning can give us the relationships based on sensory observation. The next logical dimension would be called the fifth. A fifth exists because all that is contained has relationships with each and totally gives an observation point viewing all of it or any of it. To grasp it, is to do just this.

From a fourth dimension view the world is different than perceived from a third, so a fifth will necessarily be different from a fourth. Each is a view of certain relationships that exist. When enough relationships of the fourth dimension are grasped, their total significance can be condensed to give a comprehension of them. The beginning of understanding is when one realizes that only relationships of energy exist—that it cannot occupy space. This at first glance does not coincide with our fourth dimension concepts. If relationships are what exist, then our bodies, mind, earth and etc., are just this. What we view from our senses would give an appearance of having solidity. This is so, as we are constructed from relationships of energy called matter as are the things we perceive. We cannot see (directly) sound waves and we cannot hear (directly) light. Does this mean we cannot see or hear? Of course not. It only means each is composed of relationships of energy to perceive their respective view.

One might say the fifth dimension isn't necessary to living. Look at the advances made by mankind through the use of the fourth. The fifth through its understanding and use will answer the contradictions of the fourth. It can give mankind the impetus to stop the trouble and strife in the world through the use of objective reasoning. Surely, if one understands the relations existing from views at every level of conception, he will have little contradiction between his philosophy and the living of each day of his life. In fact he will have a concrete direction and platform to guide him in his responsibilities of life.

I would venture to say that each day many utilize concepts which are relationships existing in the plane of the fifth dimension. One doesn't have to consciously know he is doing so. I, also, would say it would help the individual to know when he is, so as to find more ways to put it to good use. It can be developed by use as an understanding of the time space continuum can be increased.

In all of civilization, that which relates to the most relationships exists and grow. That which does little relating withers. The individual that acts in freedom is the individual that relates relationships of energy more than one who is restricted. This is where we can see the law of nature. This is where freedom and responsibility begins. In this view it can be seen that a system of energy called a man is alone and unique, and is responsible and free to act in accord to his conception of existing relationships.

If just one individual requires an understanding of concepts which are not available, he is warranted in his quest. Not to continue his search is a crime against his nature. To gain a pinnacle is to view another and then strive to gain it. The gains of science must be related into human direction. The thirst of motivation must be quenched with a satisfaction of gains, not only to make an easier life but, also, a fuller and richer life through understanding and practice of this understanding. This is a man, searching and grasping to gain a glimpse of that which made him — to know himself.

By the use of the word individual, one denotes freedom and responsible actions. What distortions have been conceived in relation to simple self-control. Must we revert to a third dimension existence — because we are too lazy to live on a plane we are designed to live?

The word progress now means regress. I see man now living in a world before Christ and steadily regressing. Soon we will again be cave men. This is modern? It's like seeing a play over and over. Do we want to live as a dog? If the master wishes to kill us, feed us, or kick us, it is at his discretion. It doesn't sound pleasant to me. Each man is different and separate from all others. The same laws of nature apply to each. This being true, how by any stretch of the imagination can our political governments apply external self-control for an individual?

Force and threat of force sold in terms of parental benevolence necessarily must take freedom to exist. This is not in line with the laws of nature.

Freedom is the law of the universe. An infringement on this right is immoral. It is wrong. Governments rise and fall, this is so, as they are not in line with the law of nature. The most important lesson to be learned from history is this fact. If a man infringes upon the rights of any other, he is immoral in his actions.

If a man wishes, he can still think and act physically in the realm of the freedom philosophy.

OVER 30 YEARS

To the Editor:

Your editorial, "Comment on Voting," was read with much interest as we passed through your attractive city.

I can agree with you that no one should force things on someone else, that they do not want, SO LONG as they do not have things forced on you that you do not want.

Since the days of Franklin Roosevelt, these things have been forced on me that I don't want:

1. An unmanageable national debt.
2. Reckless spending in excess of income.
3. A Supreme Court whose decisions are out of line with the mass of the state supreme court judges.
4. Engagement in three wars.
5. A State Department that has GUESSED (or worse) wrong in all of its vital decisions.
6. A tragically weak conduct in the Cuban situation by the president.
7. An overriding of states' rights in contradiction to the Constitution and a concentration of power in the federal government beyond state control.
8. Interference in private business, profession and agriculture in violation of our Constitution.
9. The beginnings of the creation of a socialistic state.
10. Untold waste of public money by the federal government.
11. Lack of frankness, and cover-ups by the heads of the administration.

There are more —

I know some of the people high in government circles and I believe the surge towards Mr. Goldwater to be a protest against these conditions that have been going on for over 30 years.

How can you in Colorado expect to avoid involvement in these matters? And what do you think can happen to you?

With assurances of my high regards.

WILLIAM A. RABORG
Box 103
Laredo, Texas

Editor's note: Tourist William Raborg has listed only some of the problems we all face. We agree with his list and could add a number of points ourselves. And we do not expect to escape involvement; that would be too happy a solution to anticipate in this politically minded world.

But what Mr. Raborg may not quite see is that all the points he has listed and the others that remain unlisted have occurred with political participation. The "reformers" who have appeared from time to time have not "reformed." They have joined in the chorus.

True, we haven't had much in the way of a political reformer at presidential level. But we've had lots of them at state and local level, and also at the level of the national Congress. And the end result is always the same. The reformers not only join in with the current trend, they often lead the way in demanding more power and more money to do what they think should be done.

We have not tried to intimate here that the results we are getting come from the machinations of evil men. They do not. They come from the employment of the political tool. Reformer or otherwise, when the political tool is used, collectivism and taxation are the result. Each new incumbent wants a little more power so he can do what HE feels he should do. The points listed are not the product of Democrats with Republicans loyally opposing right down the line. On the contrary, the points emerge from bi-partisan efforts in which even the reformers have joined to some degree.

We want no part in this enormously cruel and costly process of enslaving our fellow man.

Wit and Whimsy

At the Pentagon a general went to the automatic data processing room in search of important information. He toyed with the largest and most sophisticated electronic machine and received several routine answers from it.

The general then asked the big question: "What about World War III?"

The machine clanged, lights flashed on, bells clanged and it spit out this one-word: "Yes!"

His curiosity aroused, the general could hardly wait to ask the machine: "Yes, what?"

The machine promptly answered: "Yes, SIR!"

Asked to define "medieval," a college freshman wrote, "Partly bad."

The ideas won't work unless you do.

These Days

Both Sides Use Boomerangs

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

This is going to be the darndest political campaign to dope. The cross-overs seem already to have begun on a large, though numerically uncertain, scale. A poll in Meriden, Conn., a town which sometimes elects a Republican mayor, shows Johnson leading Goldwater by seven to one. But in West Texas, some 40,000 persons on the poll tax list in nineteen counties have indicated to Republican Congressman Ed Foreman that they are 53.5 per cent for Goldwater and 30.1 per cent for Johnson, with others wishing they could be for someone else.

No polls can be taken as indicative of a final result at this date, for there will be backlashes against backlashes, and backlashes against the backlashes to the backlashes. "Farley's Law," which holds that campaigns are decided by Labor Day, will not hold for this year.

The uncertainties will be compounded by the fact that high-placed politicians in both camps keep feeding issues to their enemies. Take Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, for one example. Almost everything that Goldwater stands for must be anathema to Morse, but the Oregonian rebel ploughs ahead nonetheless with attacks on the Democratic administration's foreign aid bill in a way that must delight Republicans. "Foreign aid," says Wayne Morse, "is unproductive because much of it goes for uses that neither build nor develop; and it is misrepresented because in spite of all the official hand-wringing pleas that we help the underprivileged and deprived people of the world, not more than forty per cent of it goes for that purpose." Morse's criticism of the way Dictator Sukarno of Indonesia has flouted the U.S. after accepting its aid will surely turn up this autumn in more than one Republican campaign speech.

SEATO

Then there is Democratic Senator Tom Dodd's criticism of our failure to make use of the Asiatic members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) in the effort to keep Red China from seizing the Southeast Asian rice bowl. SEATO was formed in 1954 under Secretary of State J. Foster Dulles, who hoped that the members — the U.S., Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, the Philippines, Pakistan, and Thailand — would all contribute their share of force to prevent Communist infiltration and take-over of free countries. But, says Tom Dodd, "Our own primacy in SEATO was used as a brake to prevent the Asian members from taking the measures of collective self-defense which they considered essential."

The result is that in South Vietnam we have been going it alone, fighting what often seems a "white man's war" when that is the last thing that we have intended to do. Republicans will certainly use Tom Dodd's words against his own administration if the war in Southeast Asia is widened without any help coming from other SEATO members.

On the other hand, Republicans have fed the Democrats with the issue of Goldwater's alleged "trigger happiness." The phony issue of White House control of tactical nuclear weapons was hashed and rehashed at San Francisco without any regard to elementary logic. Clearly, no commander-in-chief in the White House can function as a commander-in-chief if he is prevented from deputizing his authority to cover certain absolutely compelling contingencies. Neither Christian Herter nor Bill Scranton nor anybody else who raised the question of tactical nuclear control bothered to consider what might be the fate of a NATO force in central Europe if the Russians chose to attack with their own tactical atomic weapons without warning. A NATO commander who had been deprived of authority to reply immediately in kind might lose his entire army during the short period required to conduct a hot-line discussion with Washington. It must not be forgotten that atomic weapons, even of the tactical kind, take effect within minutes. And in any event, it is silly to advertise to your opponent what you intend to do if war comes. The enemy should always be left to guess.

Democratic Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has already seized upon the Cow Palace debate over the tactical nuclear issue as an excuse to attack Goldwater as a trigger-happy character. This clearly foreshadows one line the Democratic campaign strategy will take. The fact that it makes no sense at a time when President Johnson, acting with Goldwater-style promptness, has ordered the U.S. Seventh fleet in Asiatic waters to "reply in kind" to enemy attacks is quite beside the point. Nobody can blame Hubert Humphrey for taking Republicans at their own word in a campaign year.

Question Box

Question No. 568: "Can most of the savings for tools needed for more and better jobs come from those with large incomes?"

Answer: We do not believe they can come from the man with large income because there are so very few who have large incomes after taxes are paid. Very few men or women have incomes of over $100,000 a year after taxes. Remember, taxes have been up to 92 per cent in the higher brackets. Those in the top brackets had to earn $100 to be able to put $8 into tools. The new top tax rates have now been reduced.

The men with the higher earnings brackets are the ones who should buy the new improvements when they are in an experimental stage and are expensive — just as the men with the larger incomes bought automobiles, televisions, and radios when they were in the process of being developed. They thus furnished the capital for expansion and pointed out the need for improvement so that they could be improved and thus become a necessity like the automobile today.

If a rich man wants to go to the moon and has the capital to do it, then let him spend his money instead of having the government tax the people for it. Eighty per cent of the income tax comes from those with less than $20,000 a year income.

In a recent article of the American Institute for Economic Research, it was pointed out why West Germany had such a rapid comeback. It was observed that reinvesting in tools gave the rich a lower tax rate. A high consumer tax tended to encourage the working man to curtail and thus accumulate capital.

The United States is doing the exact opposite from what Germany has been doing.

Questions are limited to general human relations, questions that will improve the well being of all mankind on this earth.

The American Way

A Is A

By HARRY BROWNE

Aristotle made the simple declaration that A is for A, and that it always will be — the wishes of men to the contary.

In Ayn Rand's best-selling novel, "Atlas Shrugged," the story is told of what will happen to America if people continue to try to wish reality away. Miss Rand brilliantly carried our present trend to its logical conclusion, and foresaw a nation of chaos, violence and slavery.

Today, conservatives, libertarians, anti-communists and others are looking for a way out of the mess we're in. They seek some sort of guiding principle that underlies truth —looking for an anchor to sustain their faith in freedom and to use as a code to decipher the issues and turmoil of the day.

There is such a code. It is that A is A. The standard of value is reality. Not the reality that there are evil men, or that there are crooks in the world, or that there is treason in the land.

Yes, these things exist. But they exist because the men involved try to avoid reality. They believe that they can have things that have never been produced — that they can spend money that doesn't exist — that they can achieve the unearned.

NATURE'S LAWS

The reality that must be our guide is the immutable working of the laws of nature. For example, when man discovered the law of gravity, he didn't create it — he simply discovered that it had always existed.

From that point forward, man learned to use the law of gravity to the advantage of all. Had men tried to go against it or say that it was not right, there would merely have been a rash of deaths by falling.

Every rock that is thrown in the air must come down. It does no good to say — while the rock is still climbing — that this is proof that it won't come down. For it will.

In the same way, every irrational act will be paid for eventually. It does no good to say that we are temporarily coming out ahead by ignoring reality.

And where is unreality today? It is all around us. As the government attempts to spend money that does not exist, as regulations are created telling people they are different than they are, as men attempt to establish moral codes that are unworkable — these are simply attempts to deny reality, to say that the laws of nature do not exist.

SOURCE OF HAPPINESS

The man who is willing to face himself, then face the truth of nature around him, then live his life according to reality, is the only man capable of finding happiness or contentment in the world. While the irrational people appear to get their way, they are only postponing the day of reckoning —and making the eventual awakening more painful.

The rock that is thrown in the air will come down. The money that is spent that never existed will bring about a crash. The man who lives his life flaunting the laws of nature will meet disaster.

The only thing that can save us is reality. And the recognition of reality begins with each individual. It requires a soul-searching that can shake one to the core. But it is worth it. It is the price of survival.

It's Up to You

'Easy Credit'

By H. E. KERSHNER, L.H.D.

We have been immersed in a sea of federal, state, municipal, corporate and installment debt so long that many people are beginning to consider the situation normal and possibly even desirable. One cannot listen to the radio long without being urged to borrow money. We are told that we can get a much larger mortgage on our home and use the money in any way we wish. We are told how easy it is to get credit from a finance company or a bank.

The headline of an advertisement by a large bank reads, "Is there anything bad about borrowing money?" If one protests that he does not wish to borrow because he would have to pay it back, the ad says, "...That's more amusing than accurate." What is less amusing or more accurate than to have to pay off a loan? To see a bank speak of the repayment of a loan as hardly accurate and in any way amusing is almost unbelievable. Surely, banks are not seeking to create the impression that it is not always necessary to repay a loan.

The ad continues, "A generation ago, folks thought they shouldn't make a purchase of any kind, unless it was with cash." That's still very sound advice and had it been followed, business would be on a firm foundation., there would be no inflation and all of us would enjoy more goods and services than we have under a wild credit economy.

Conservative credit is justifiable to own a home, to purchase a car one needs in his business or other equipment used productively, but it is very questionable to go into debt for the purpose of enjoying consumer goods. It costs more to buy anything on the installment plan. Interest now eats up a considerable part of the income of most Americans. About 12 per cent of the federal budget must go for interest.

By paying cash, one can buy merchandise cheaper and he avoids heavy interest charges. In the long run, he will have much more if he waits to make a purchase until he can pay cash. Of course, if we postponed all purchasing until our debts were paid, there would be a long period of business depression, but if these debts had never been incurred and we had not been required to pay interest and the other costs of credit, we would have had, all the way along, much more money to spend for goods than has been and is now the case when a considerable part of our total expenditures must go to pay interest and the other expenses in connection with living in a credit economy. It frequently requires more money to pay interest on long term indebtedness than the principal itself.

Let it be repeated that when one incurs debts for equipment that will increase his production or for an education that will increase his ability and earning power, he is using credit constructively and beneficially. Debt for other purposes except for emergencies is highly questionable and the banks should be the last among those who urge it.

More than 150 skaters in the show have performed for audiences since opening night with the fast paced, highly professional staging of the ice extravaganza. Georgeous costumes, imaginative stage props and a high degree of skating skill add up to two and a half hours of top flight entertainment.

Six elaborate production numbers, sprinkled liberally with solo performances by amateur champions, and a generous helping of comedy acts make up the will rounded show.

Six Olympic skaters are stars of the show and audiences are privileged to see a concentration of skill that can only be seen in World or Olympic competition. These six skaters provide a preview of the exciting World Figure Skating Championships which are slated for the Broadmoor World Arena in March of 1965.

Italian Reds Face Leadership Crisis

ROME (AP) — Palmiro Togliatti's stroke left Italian Reds in the throes of a major leadership crisis today. The search for a successor may split open the West's largest Communist party.

Togliatti, boss of the Italian Communist party for 38 years, is reported gravely ill in the Crimea, where he suffered a stroke Thursday while vacationing in the Soviet Union.

Togliatti is 71, and the question of a successor can't be dodged. The Rome newspaper Paese Sera said the stroke had apparently left him partially paralyzed.

Sergeant Likes Rescue Work; Joins Firemen

Rescue work has real appeal for Sgt. Hollis Scott, one of Ft. Carson's military mountaineers. He has joined the Stratton Meadows Volunteer Fire Department rescue squad.

Scott is likely to be seen around the Meadows at fires or on rescue runs in off-duty hours. At other times he's an instructor at Carson's Leadership and Mountain Training School and can be seen on the rocks in North Cheyene Canon each Tuesday and Thursday at 10:30 a.m. through the Labor Day closing show.

This young soldier isn't sure but admits his boyhood membership in the Boy Scouts in Baltimore, Md., may have influenced his interest in helping his fellow men, while working with the Carson Mountain Rescue Team.

Scott enlisted six years ago and was a rifle company squad leader in Berlin for more than four years. He came to the Pikes Peak region with his wife, Hannelore who is a Berliner, and their daughter, Susan, last year.

The Scott family lives at 1136 Norwood Ave. in Stratton Meadows.

84 Youths Lose Passports After Cuba Trip

By HILMI TOROS

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Department has "tentatively withdrawn" the passports of 84 American youths who visited Cuba in defiance of a U.S. ban.

On their return Friday night at Kennedy Airport, three of the youths were summoned to appear Sept. 3 before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

William T. McConarty, chief of the Immigration and Naturalization Service unit at the airport, said the 84 passports were stamped for admission to the United States, but were not stamped revoked.

Notices of withdrawal were given the youths, and they were told to turn in their passports.

Some 40 young men and women, cheering and waving placards, met the planes as they arrived from Paris. The group had traveled via Paris and Prague to Cuba.

One of those summoned to testify before the House committee, Edward Lemansky, 24, of New York shouted: "I proudly proclaim that I'm a Communist. I'm an American or Brooklyn Communist."

Soon after their arrival the travelers issued a staement bearing 84 names and demanding that all of them be called before the House committee.

As they cleared Customs immigration officers handed them letters from the State Department informing them of the passport suspension. Many openly tore up the letters.

Titan 3 Passes Test Firing

DENVER (UPI) — The fast-paced Air Force Titan 3 program passed another milestone Friday when the first two stages of the space launch vehicle were test-fired in the captive firing area at Martin Co.'s Denver division.

The test, called a sequenced compatibility firing, was a prelude to the first flight of the nation's newest and most versatile space booster later this year from Cape Kennedy, Fla.

All air- borne systems were operated in sequence and in conjunction with ground equipment during the test simulating an actual flight.

Test objectives were met during the 42nd firing. The test involved a Titan 3A, one of two configurations in which the giant space boosters will be flown to boost payloads ranging from 5,000 to 25,000 pounds into orbit.

The first and second stages were fired side-by-side for 20 seconds each.

Two Ex-Coloradoans Killed in Shootings

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — Two former Colorado men died in separate shootings in this city near the Mexican border.

Officers said Herbert Campbell, 53, was killed by police bullets Thursday when he raced from an apartment building.

In his apartment, officers said they found Albert D. Clark, 53, who was dead of a bullet wound.

A coroner's jury ruled that Campbell had shot Clark while intoxicated. It ruled Campbell was slain by officers shooting in self-defense while carrying out their duties.

Clark was reported to have formerly lived in Denver but Campbell's former Colorado address was not immediately known, officers said.

'Family Style' Entertainment Offered at Fair

"Family Style" entertainment at the Colorado State Fair has been further emphasized with the announcement by fair manager Clyde P. Fugate of reduced admission prices for family groups to the premiere performance of the "Star Studded Revue" grandstand variety show.

Fugate said that a limited number of reserved seats are available for the Aug. 24 performance, at $2 and box seats for $2.50. Family tickets may be purchased at the grandstand box office the night of the performance, or in advance at downtown ticket offices, or by mail order.

Headlining the cast of the three evening performances of the variety spectacular will be accordionist Myron Floren, the Harmonicats, the Wong Troupe of acrobats, the Goetschl Brothers musical-comedy team, and the hilarious comic-emcee, Harry "King" Cole.

Grandstand matinee performances the opening three days of the fair will provide the thrills of championship auto racing featuring late model stock cars, "Indianapolis type", and super modified jet coupes.

Top cowpokes and tough rodeo stock will battle it out in six matinee and evening performances of championship rodeo the closing three days of the exposition. Doc Adams and Festus Haggen of "Gunsmoke", Jimmy Murphy's daring feats of horsemanship, and Jay Sisler with his educated dogs, will provide entertainment between rodeo events.

Classic Brogues Back in Fashion In Shoe Styles

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—In shoes, the classic brogue is back this Fall in lighter-than-ever weights without losing any of its rugged appearance. But the big news is in stadium boots, fleece - lined for zero weather and plain for an ordinary Fall afternoon.

Brushed pigskin is far and away the leading candidate in the boot line in a range of colors spread from black through brown, copper, fawn, gray bleached chino and loden green usually with lightweight black crepe soles.

The unlined boot, for informal city wear and such country chores as raking leaves or burning hamburgers on a patio usually comes with a narrow sole and plain toe and often has concealed gorings on the sides for additional comfort.

But the range is almost unlimited. There are chukkha boots, Wellingtons, half - Wellingtons, strapped gaucho boots, lower slipon boots, moccasin toe boots that lace on the side.

The emphasis at a preview at the Leather Industries of America was on slimmed leather brogues, boots ad high risers, all ounces lighter because of new tanning processes and in a variety of finishes that included smooth, brushed, waxy, suede, antiqued and a variety of grains.

Abundant use of perforations, pinking and the wing tip maintained the brawn of the fall 1964 brogue. Stitching effects in single, double and triple rows were used as trim. Prominent were deep pebbly scotch grains.

Not all the brogues were lightweight—there were the authentic classics with double soles and heavy stitching for campus and country weekends. These ranged through modified lightweights with a single sole to very conservative styles for business wear.

At the National Shoe Institute everybody went wild in boots with Hush Puppies providing some of the more spectacular innovations — a wide range of color and styles and a new line of brushed pigskin casins, chukkhas, lined and unsporting look. There were moc-Tyrolean hats for the complete and unlined. Colors ranged from black through loden, houn' dawg, gunsmoke, sagebrush and flint gray.

Thom McAn showed a rugged after-ski boot in saddlehide—bright red Orlon acrylic lining for the black and natural orlon pile for the brown. There also was a bright red lining for a brushed pigskin two-tie boot, a zippered boot and, for the teenagers, the Voodo with tapered heel, pull strap and topline angled high on the foot. Fairly high heels.

John Lucey showed a fleece-lined two-tie brown calf boot with a composition sole. Oomphies showed an Alaskan boot in a chukkha height with black compo sole, a two - tie leather thong and moccasin toe. Renegade showed a half Wellington height slipon in brown leather with ribbed sole.

Craddock-Terry showed a real Wellington in black calf with shearling lining. Renegade showed an unlined semi-chukkha with hidden ties in walnut leather with foam rubber sole. Endicott Johnson showed a two-tie chukkha in brown with black compo soles and black trim.

Some miscellaneous stand-outs: Nettleton showed a black wing tip with green brushed suede upper. Mr. Capezio had an indoor-outdoor plain unlined slipon in olive green with a squarish heel. Weyenberg showed an alligator print grain in a two gore high slipon.

Near Quarter Million Found in Apartment

NEW YORK (AP)—Two metal boxes were found in the cluttered apartment of the late Dr. Samuel A. Klein, neatly packed with $231,650 in cash.

Bills ranging from $10 to $500, stuffed in 50 bank envelopes, and uncashed checks, stocks and bonds of undetermined value were in the boxes.

Klein, 71, a semi-retired dentist, had lived alone in the eight-room duplex apartment on Fifth Avenue. Upon his death July 30, police sealed the apartment until relatives could be found.

A sister, niece and two nephews were located and accompanied a court clerk and a state tax agent Friday to the apartment.

British 'Peace Corps' Works On Shoe String

By TOM A. CULLEN

LONDON (NEA)—Is the job of aiding underdeveloped nations one for an amateur or a professional? The British believe that the amateurs can do it.

A little - publicized organization, similar in purpose to the U.S. Peace Corps, is the British Voluntary Service Overseas (VSO). It operates on a shoestring budget in more than 50 developing countries.

While the Peace Corps represents hard-nosed American professionalism, the VSO is run along the "inspired amateur lines of which the British are so fond. The rumors here are that the American volunteers would be lost in Africa without their air conditioners, vitamin pills and cleansing tissues.

The Spartan, dedicated youth of the VSO, on the other hand, are prepared to travel anywhere with only a toothbrush—or so some proud Englishmen here would have you believe.

Currently, however, the "inspired amateurism" of the British is taking some hard knocks, not from the Americans, but from VSO volunteers in the field.

These Spartan British youths, it seems, have been sponging off their American rivals in the Peace Corps.

"Without the Americans," writes 19-year-old Anthony Barnett, a VSO volunteer now in Sierra Leone, "I would have had neither mosquito net, water filter nor refrigerator, which are essential to my efficiency.

"The Peace Corps is well-equipped, mobile and purposeful," he adds. "VSO is ill-equipped, static and an extension of the boy scouts." The young Barnett goes on to cite the "exciting and progressive work" which the Peace Corps is doing in the fields of teaching and rural development.

Another VSO volunter, Jan Finch, contrasts her 44 - pound luggage allowance with the equipment of the Amercian Peace Corps girl on the same teaching staff of a grammar school in Western Nigeria.

The American's equipment included two trunkloads of books and kitchenware, a china service for six, and even a lavatory seat cover. The British girl, who was teaching health science, barely managed to squeeze a couple of books on tropical hygiene in her luggage allowance.

Although both organizations are doing volunteer work in developing countries, there is little basis for a comparison between them, in the opinion of most observers.

The Peace Corps is mostly government - sponosred, whereas VSO is an independent organization which is partly financed by the British government and partly by industry and educational trusts.

VSO has 500 volunteers in the field at the moment and aims at increasing this number to 1,000 by 1965. The Peace Corps aims to have 11,000 volunteers in the field by the end of August. Its current budget is $115 million as compared to the VSO's paltry $500,000.

But it is in the quality of the volunteers they attract that the difference between the two organizations is most striking.

Most Peace Corps volunteers are college graduates and highly-skilled in their field. In accepting their services, the governments of the developing countries agree to pay them a salary and to provide them with housing. In addition, the United States government deposits $75 per month to the account of the volunteer, to be drawn upon completion of his two years of service.

The majority of VSO volunteers, on the other hand, have only the equivalent of a high school diploma. They work overseas for their board, lodging and pocket money, provided by the host country.

They are sent overseas after a one-week orientation course, whereas Peace Corps volunters undergo 4½ months of basic training.

The difference between the two types of volunteer is summed up by Mrs. Yvonne Reed, who, as principal of a girls' grammar school in Western Nigeria, has dealt with both.

"The Peace Corps graduates, committed to two years' service, come fully trained, fully equipped and fully supported by an efficient organization," says British-born Mrs. Reed.

"All we had to do was to provide her with a house and basic furniture. She was thus able to get on with the job she had come to do, undistracted by domestic worries.

"The VSO offered an inexperienced girl, without equipment, for nine to 12 months' service in return for board, lodging and a little pocket money.

"Naturally, when given the choice between these two teachers, I chose a Peace Corps volunteer. She was a success as an individual, as a colleague and, above all, as a teacher."

Dixie Governors Meet to Discuss Demo Strategy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) Governors of five Southern states huddled behind closed doors here Friday in a surprise session to discuss civil rights and apparently map strategy for the Democratic National Convention.

"We believe that our meeting has been beneficial, and we may have additional meetings in the future," said Louisiana Gov. John J. McKeithen, host for the session and spokesman for himself, Mississippi Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Florida's Gov. Farris Bryant, who left the session an hour earlier than the other chief executives, said he had to rush back to Tallahassee, his capital, because of state problems.

In Tallahassee Bryant said: "We met for an exchange of views on mutual problems. A wide range of subjects was discussed, but no plans for concerted action were arrived at. Those Southern governors attending the National Democratic Convention expect to review their conversations there."

The convention opens Aug. 24 at Atlantic City, N.J.

Gov. Johnson says he won't attend the national convention. The other governors are expected to go, although McKeithen has said he hasn't made up his mind about attending.

"They wanted to keep it confidential, and I will respect their wishes," McKeithen told newsmen after the session, called so quickly that Faubus didn't know the site of the meeting when he left Little Rock to fly to New Orleans.

McKeithen said: "Perhaps most of our time was spent discussing civil rights legislation. ...With this new civil-rights legislation we do have many problems. With schools opening we do face problems we haven't had before."

The Alabama governor, who pulled out of the presidential race, said he would attend the national convention and appear before the Platform Committee.

Asked if he would back the Democratic or Republican candidate for president, Wallace replied: "No, we'll just let the people make up their minds for themselves."

All five governors are Democratic executives in states where there is presently strong sentiment for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee.

Hum on Hi Fi Seen as Sign Of Trouble

By PRESTON McGRAW
United Press International

The most common symptom of trouble in high fidelity components — if they don't quit working all together—is hum.

The hum comes in two varieties — 60 cycle and 120 cycle. The 60 cycle kind comes from raw house current and the 120 cycle from the power supply of the various components.

A common and easily remedied cause of hum is cables—also known as patch cords or signal patches—working loose.

When hum shows up, it is a good idea to check and reseat the cables. Sometimes crimping the cuffs slightly with pliers helps to insure good ground contact.

Some magnetic cartridges are prone to hum, particularly if their internal impedance is relatively high and they are poorly shielded.

There is not much that can be done about hum inherent in a cartridge. It is more noticeable when lifting the pickup arm to or from a record and subsides during the actual playing of the record.

It is not a good idea to have a turntable or changer directly over or under or beside an amplifier. The result may be hum.

If the cable from turnable or record changer gets too close to the amplifier the result also may be hum. This can be corrected by moving the cable away until the hum stops and tying the cable down.

Sometimes changers and—or turntables create hum through the motors in them. Such hum can be stopped or substantially reduced by grounding the motor boards to the chassis of the amplifier.

When hum shows up and none of the simple measures help, its source can be run down. Disconnect the tuner. If the hum persists, the tuner is not responsible.

Disconnect tape deck, record player or turntable. If disconnecting them does not stop the hum, it is in the amplifier. It may be corrected in some cases by changing tubes.

If all else fails, take the amplifier or offending component to the repair shop.

When components start operating quietly and hum begins in few seconds or minutes and gradually builds up, the trouble is more likely to be internal than if the hum started the moment the components were turned on.

House Members Hike Expense Accounts

WASHINGTON (AP) — House members have increased their expense accounts by $600 a year and voted themselves funds to hire an additional clerk apiece.

Both actions Friday were taken on voice votes on which there had been no advance notice and did not require Senate concurrence.

Epton Expelled From Negro Labor Council

NEW YORK (UPI) — Self-proclaimed Communist William Epton, 32, recently indicted by the New York grand jury on charges of criminal anarchy, has been expelled from the Negro American Labor Council, it was announced here.

A. Phillip Randolph, president of the NALC, issued a statement announcing the expulsion of Epton, chairman of the Progressive Labor Movement, and avowed disciple of the Chinese Communists.

Epton was indicted by a New York grand jury following the radical rioting in New York. He was arrested after a demonstration during which he allegedly made remarks calling for the overthrow of the government. His $10,000 bail was posted by the son of a Texas oil millionaire, and he pleaded innocent.

Randolph, in his statement, said Epton would be expelled immediately from membership in NALC because he is a "self-proclaimed Communist."

Brotzman Asks Federal Aid To Education

BOULDER (AP) — Rep. Don Brotzman, R-Colo., Friday urged approval of the National Defense Act extension.

This program is based on recommendations made by President Eisenhower in 1958," Brotzman said in a statement issued here. "It has improved the quality and opportunities for education, particularly as related to our long term defense and foreign policy capabilities."

Brotzman said that deserving students who had received loans under the act were paying them off at a rate five times faster than required by law.

"Approximately 680,000 loans have been made and only one has been written off as a bad debt," he said.

He added that federal assistance also is needed in areas where the impact of federal programs is heavy.

America Offers Unusual, Off-Beat Dining Places

If it was once a deserted mining camp, a turn - of - the - century jail, or a famed author's home, some enterprising American today will transform it into a successful resort - restaurant.

And, if in addition to offering fine food it also is rather difficult to reach, even more of his fellow countrymen will strive to get there and sample the fare.

Scores of interesting, off-beat, hostelries, from the house where Harriet Beecher Stowe wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin," to a replica of a 1900 railroad station recently have been visited by inspectors compiling data for the Mobil Travel Guide.

They found, for example, that inaccessibility seems to lend added charm to such places as Anderson's Gwan-At-Chi-Wan Island Lodge, International Falls, Minn., located on an island, and reachable only by boat. The same is true of Ludlow's Island Lodge, Cook, Minn., even though the latter, having a ramp, also receives seaplane visitors.

If you like a litereary atmosphere, The Stowe House in Brunswick, Me., is now an inn and restaurant. And Longfellow's Wayside Inn, in Sudbury, Mass., a restoration of the orignal built in 1686, is the oldest operating inn in the United States. For fans of Tollhouse cookies, the 1709 Toll House in Whitman, Mass., where they were invented is still going strong.

The Amador Hotel in Las Cruces, N.M., built in 1850 when the West was wild and not yet won, has a lobby where court once was held, and a kitchen which served as a jail for those who lost there. Haag's Hotel, in Shartlesville, Pa., a Pennsylvania Dutch family-style eating place, serves seven sweets and seven sours with every meal.

The Sanitary Fish Market and Restaurant in Morehead City, N.C., draws a loyal clientele despite its startling name, and it is in Peoria, Ill., that Vonachens Junction offers a replica of a 1900 railroad station, complete with an authentic private car of a railroad president on a siding which serves as a dining annex.

In Cameron, Ariz., the Cameron, situated at the oldest trading post on the Navajo Reservation offers a variety of accomodations where one might be surprised to find a 1964 tepee. And the Mine House, in Amador City, Calif., is an eight-room, two-story motel in a converted mining company headquarters in the Mother Lode country.

You can pan for gold at the Coffee Creek Ranch in Weaverville, Calif., if you push 42 miles up into the Trinity Alps Wilderness area, and there's a very nice motel with three rooms in a remodeled 100-year-old smokehouse at Sugar Loaf, Virginia City, Nev.

A lighthouse off the beaten path may be an added starter any day.

Crystal Hills Annual Show Slated Tuesday

Postage Stamps Subject to Some Use Regulations

"Most everybody knows that postage stamps are useable forever," says Postmaster R. H. Wardwell. "But not everyone knows that airmail stamps cannot be used on ordinary mail."

The supposition that postage stamps of all types and all denominations are useable under any circumstance at the discretion of the mailer is logical on first impression, but there are good reasons why certain restrictions must be applied. For example, if use of airmail stamps in place of ordinary postage were to be permitted, the postal employees into whose hands the item in question came would not know what kind of service the mailer wanted and was willing to pay for. Since rates on air and surface mails are calculated differently, a questioin would immediately arise as to whether or not the mailer know what he was doing. The amount of postage applied to the item might indicate surface transportation, whereas the special nature of the stamps by air. If the latter interpretation were chosen, then postage due at the point of delivery would need to be collected. Such collections often result in antagonisms and embarrassments, and they also sometimes result in payment of a greater total amount of postage than would ordinarily be required.

So Postmaster Wardwell reminds us that we can promote our own best interests in the use of the Postal Service by learning and applying the following basic rules:

1. Airmail postage and-or airmail envelopes may be used for airmail ONLY.
2. Airmail stamps may be used to pay fees for special services (special handling, special delivery, insurance, etc.) on airmail articles.
3. Any stamp partly concealed by an overlapping stamp may not be counted as postage.
4. Postal employees, other than rural carrieers, are not required to affix stamps to mail matter.
5. Postage Stamps with deficient mucilage cannot be stuck on with Scotch tape.

Further information about postage stamps and their proper use can be quickly obtained by calling 632-8841.

Python Returns Home After Long Wandering

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The nervous ladies from Northside Richmond can stop calling the police now. Mickey the snake is back home.

Mickey is a 9½-foot python. Six days ago, he slithered out of a zippered satchel in which he was kept by his owner, Donald Parsley, 18, and vanished.

That's when the phone calls to the police began. Parsley said comfortingly that Mickey was harmless. The ladies of the area were not convinced. Nobody saw him, though.

Friday, Mickey got tired of wandering and came home. Parsley found him in the front yard of his home.

Humphrey Can't Tell About LBJ's Choice

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., said Friday night he can not predict who President Johnson will choose as his running mate in November.

"The only prediction I can make," said Humphrey, "is that whomever the President selects, he will be the next vice president of the United States."

Humphrey, widely regarded as a top prospect for the second spot on the Democratic ticket, spoke at a dinner at the Fort Douglas Country Club in honor of Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who is seeking re-election to a second term in November.

Approximately 250 persons paid $100 apiece to hear the Minnesota senator.

Asked if President Johnson had ever told Humphrey he would like him as a running mate, the senator replied:

"The President has always given me encouragment, but we've never talked about that."

Looking at Hollywood

SUCCESS OF DISNEYLAND PRODS HOLLYW'D MOGULS

HOLLYWOOD,— For years I've been howling for the studios to do something for millions of tourists who come to our town expecting to see how pictures are made. Visitors have had to content themselves by looking at a bunch of footprints in concrete. Unless you know somebody important inside a studio you haven't a Chinaman's chance to crash those big iron gates. It needn't have taken a giant brain to know that giving a movie fan a look inside never-never land could be a money making proposition and also generate good will for an industry that needs it . . . . Our moguls sat on their minds and hands. All, that is, except Walt Disney, who up and built himself a Disneyland that turned out to be one of the greatest tourist attractions in the world. It must have given Jules Stein food for thought. Soon after he bought Universal, the greatest bargain in the world, he put a studio tour on the planning boards. It went into operation a few days ago, already is selling out 10 days in advance. For $2.50 (adults) and $1.25 (kids), you climb aboard a pink and white tram with fringe on top, and get a two hour guided tour of the 410 acres. The only thing you can't see is a picture actually being filmed, and researchers are hard at work trying to figure out how to give the fans a look-see without interfering with production.

I took the tour meself and must admit it's well done. Among the 65 people on the tram, I found my favorite fitter from Saks in Beverly Hills—she'd never been inside a studio. There were people from all over the United States, and they were permitted to photograph anything they liked. The only restriction was that the pictures couldn't be used later for commercial purposes. . . . As everybody piled out to go thru Doris Day's lush dressing room (she wasn't there), I remember how much the studio has changed since the old days when I worked there in silent pictures. It used to be an old barn of a rat trap—in fact, a death trap for one wonderful character actress. The day we finished a picture I asked if I could drive her home. She said she wanted to rest a while in her dressing room. The next morning I picked up the paper and read that she was found dead—from the fumes of a defective gas heater.

Today a skyscraper is going up to house the executives. The new commissary opened this week—it's a giant restaurant decorated with illuminated pictures of the stars, and a collage of old theater posters that go all the way back to "The Spoilers," with Marlene Dietrich, Randolph Scott, and John Wayne. In one section the seats are directors' chairs with the names of all the stars that worked at Universal. In the lobby is a display of antique cameras—the one that filmed "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" in 1909, and a 1916 Akeley that shot the airplane footage of "All Quiet on the Western Front. . . . The back lot, with its many streets (Western, New York, Mexican), where so many pictures have been shot, drew ohs and ahs, especially when visitors finally got to look at what's behind all those store fronts—nothing.

The tour ends in the basement of the commissary where one tourist, who draws the lucky number from a glass bowl, gets a full make-up and hairdo from one of the Westmore brothers. She sits in a gold chair with a gold cloth around her neck and gets the works while the rest of the passengers watch how it's done. . . . In June of 1965 tourists will be able to catch trams at five minute intervals, entering thru a special area where there'll be plenty of parking, two restaurants, a castle which will house film displays, a picnic area, a park. They expect to handle a half million people a year. Now you get your pencil and figure out how much they're going to make—more than they'll gross for some of their pictures.

Sen. Fulbright Claims Goldwater is Risky

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said here that GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater is conservative but has "an unruly conscience" that could bring "risky changes in our national life."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and an old critic of Goldwater's views, ridiculed in a prepared Senate speech statements the Republican nominee has made onmajor issues.

Quoting liberally from Goldwater's book, "Conscience of a Conservative," Fulbright said the Arizona senator could be "counted on to follow the dictates of his conscience even though it sometimes dictates things that even he must find alarming."

Canon Policemen Attend FBI Talks in Pueblo

Three officers of the Canon City Police department attended a conference meeting held by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at the Pueblo Police Department Thursday.

Chief Ken Owens, Capt. Doyle Orndorff, and Sgt. Neal McGee attended the all - day session led by Scott J. Werner, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Denver.

The conference, one of six held in Colorado and Wyoming, took up officers' responsibilities in the new Civil Rights Act, and a review of the old Fugitive Felon Act.

About 50 law enforcement officers from southern Colorado attended the conference.

RANGOON — Burmese lumber men are travelling abroad to drum up more export sales.

Restaurant Explosion Is Blamed on Gas

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An explosion apparently caused by leaking gas blew up a restaurant in suburban Glenside today, killing at least one person and seriously injuring seven or more.

The blast, heard for miles, shattered windows in more than 50 houses and shops in the area.

The dead man was identified as Duke George Jr., of North Hills, another suburb.

MARY: It was fun being with you for lunch at the Broadmoor's Main Dining Room Buffet. Those two hours over the pate, crab, baked Virginia ham, oysters, anchovy salad, sirloin steak, glazed salmon, Thailand chop suey, fresh strawberries and French pastries, were beautiful. You were great on seconds too. John. adv.

Humphrey Faces McCarthy for Veep Nomination

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—By an unusual twist, two long-time political comrades-in-arms and personal friends have been thrown into the roles of front-runners for the Democratic vice presidential nomination.

Minnesota's Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, 53, and Eugene J. McCarthy, 48, may find the roles a bit uncomfortable but they are carrying them through with good humor and grace as the time for a choice nears.

President Johnson, who will select the man for the No. 2 spot on the ticket, has not pointed a finger at either Minnesotan.

His choice may turn out to be someone else.

But Johnson's high regard for Humphrey and McCarthy has been voiced so often that speculation inevitably centered on them once the President eliminated Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and several other possibilities.

The two senators remain on the best of terms and continue to match their votes on almost every issue as the 1964 session grinds to an end.

Both will be delegates from Minnesota to the Atlantic City convention which opens Aug. 24.

They even are able to kid about their predicament, as they did at a fund-raising dinner for McCarthy earlier in the year. McCarthy is a candidate for re-election to the Senate this fall.

Humphrey served as chairman for the dinner, which attracted Johnson and an unusual number of other top figures in the party.

Humphrey recalled there had been discussion in Congress of a constitutional amendment to provide for two vice presidents, and said that McCarthy had told him "Hubert, don't be so downcast. When that constitutional amendment comes up taking care of Adlai (Stevenson) and me, we're going to amend it to provide for three vice presidents. We think there should be somebody who just travels around and has a good time."

"I want you to know, Gene, I accept," Humphrey replied.

At that dinner, incidentally, Johnson termed McCarthy "one of the greatest men in public life." But he was generous in praise of Humphrey then and on occasions.

Humphrey and McCarthy began to build their political careers as youthful idealists after World War II in the battle to mold a new liberal party in Minnesota from Democratic and Farm-Labor elements. Both entered politics from college teaching. Humphrey became mayor of Minneapolis.

In 1948, both defeated Republicans to win places in Congress and came to Washington, Humphrey as a senator and McCarthy as a House member.

When McCarthy decided to move over to the Senate in 1958, Humphrey campaigned for him all over the state. McCarthy has reciprocated in Humphrey's races.

Both senators are alike in their views on political questions and both are excellent speakers, although they differ sharply in style.

Humphrey is bouncy, vibrant, full of his subject, and his range of subjects is inexhaustible. McCarthy is much quieter, apt to use wit and irony, but he can be powerful, as his impressive nominating speech for Stevenson at the 1960 Los Angeles Democratic convention showed.

Senate friends of the two men size up their chances in the vice presidential contest this way:

Humphrey is better known nationally and to Democratic politicians. He appears to have support of more party leaders and stands far higher in polls.

Johnson might well select him for this standing, for his broad knowledge of public affairs, his energy and zest, and his proven ability as a campaigner.

McCarthy is a bit more of a Johnson protege, a graceful and attractive figure whose Roman Catholic faith might strengthen the ticket among some ethnic groups. He has more Southern support.

Johnson might decide he would prefer a running mate not quite so apt to be bursting with ideas and so ebullient.

Togliatti Reported Suffering Stroke

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist sources said today Italian Communist party leader Palmiro Togliatti suffered a stroke in Yalta Thursday. His condition was described as grave.

Soviet specialists were reported to have been called to the Communist leader's bedside. Togliatti, 71, arrived in Moscow Monday and left immediately for Yalta, a Black Sea resort.

Extremes Are Lethal, Adlai Says in Speech

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson says Red China's "strident calls" for class war "sometimes have strange undertones and overtones of language that we hear nearer at home."

Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said last week that this is not surprising since "the two ends of the political spectrum often vibrate in harmony."

"Both extremes in international politics are lethal," he said.

In a speech to the American Bar Association, Stevenson said: "I have heard that the object of the exercise — from one side at least — is to offer the voter a 'clear choice' of leadership. Although the trumpet gave forth a less certain sound from Hershey Wednesday, If I correctly interpret the words that came to us from San Francisco, there will, indeed, be a conspicuous choice available."

Stevenson, twice the unsuccessful Democratic nominee for President, was referring to the Republican "unity" meeting at Hershey, Pa. Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential candidate, was nominated at the San Francisco convention.

Stevenson said the United States has learned that "bluff is dangerous, bluster cheap, that recklessness can be fatal."

"Now, however," he said, "this tacit understanding between the two great nuclear powers is under violent attack. In the first place, the critics complain, it is miserable appeasement to accept a world partly under hostile ideological control. The enemy must be made to disgorge people groaning under the heel of exploitation and despotism.

"He must be threatened right up to the brink of war with the menace of nuclear punishment. All this negotiating, all this talk, all these 'hot lines' from White House to Kremlin are simply capitulation to the sworn opponent.

"I have, of course, been referring to the Chinese Communists' deadly attack upon Mr. Khrushchev's policies.

"If these strident calls sometimes have strange undertones and overtones of language that we hear nearer at home, do not be deceived — or even surprised. The two ends of the political spectrum, like the two ends of the tuning fork, often vibrate in harmony."

Rancher Faces Jail For Not Paying Fine

SAN LUIS, Colo. (AP) — Rancher Jack T. Taylor, 39, central figure in a dispute with long-time settlers in Costilla County, faces a jail term for non-payment of a court fine.

District Court officials said they issued an order Friday for Taylor's arrest along with the foreman of his 77,000-acre ranch, Purvis Raley, and a former ranch employe, Alfred Randolph.

The three were convicted in a trial last year of assaulting three Spanish American cowboys who said they were gathering wood on the Taylor ranch. Spanish Americans in the area have claimed access rights to Taylor's property under an old Spanish land grant.

Taylor and his two employes were fined $300 each and assessed costs of $297 each. Court officials said nothing has been paid on the assessments.

Taylor was reported to be vacationing at his home in New Bern, N.C. Randolph was last reported working near Gallup, N.M.

Raley is still foreman at the ranch.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) — Leaders among retired officers may come up with a "role and mission" package of needed clarification and changes in pay of both active and retired personnel, laws governing post-retirement employment, equality in retirement rights and benefits between retired Regular and Reserve officers. Included may be a definite program for new benefits for retirees and their families.

The major items may well be equal retired pay for all officers retiring for identical years of active duty and in time required for retirement in grade, and all career officers and enlisted men who serve for 30 years unless retired for disability, whose death occurs while they are in retirement status would have their death considered to be service-connected. This would qualify their widows and other eligible dependents for survivors benefits.

Right now the proposal is merely in a talking or think status. With Congressman L. Mendel Rivers taking over as the new chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, on the retirement of Congressman Carl Vinson, a definite program may be expected in 1965.

Right now the program has not been presented to any organizaton for sponsorship. The recent unexpected success of the Association of the U. S. Army and the Air Force Association in getting prompt action on the 1964 pay bill may well cause the retired officers backing the total program to ask these two organizations to sponsor the program. The anticipated re-vitalization of the Retired Officers Association, following its 1964 convention, may also spark the movement.

According to retired leaders the election of either President Johnson or Senator Barry Goldwater is expected to bring White House support to the consideration of the new "look see" at retirement laws. Both have military backgrounds and are reported well informed on the need for up-dating the retirement program.

Rear Adm. Robert E. M. Ward, now with Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Group, will take over in October the Naval Reserve Training Command with headquarters at Omaha, Nebraska.

Air Force non-regular officers with between 7 and 8 years of active duty are soon to be eligible for regular Air Force appointments.

A new publication, The Retiree Journal, is edited for the military retiree. The news magazine will appear monthly with a subscription rate of $1 a year. Offices are 827 Kennedy St. N. W. Wasington, D. C. and the editor is W. Drayton Calhoun. While the editorial policy is to present the news holding major interest for the retiree, the magazine is expected to take the lead in fighting the battle in behalf of retired officers and men.

According to Army directive (DA Message 976560) recruits that show outstanding ability may now be promoted to the next pay grade, E-2, in half of the time previously required. While these men are not included in the 1964 pay bill since they have less than two years of service, such a promotion would give them a monthly pay increase of $7.80 which is more than the minimum pay increase given enlisted men with two years of service.

Special Forces enlisted men now going to Vietnam will serve 12 months in place of the 6-months TDY tours. The change in tour time may mean a reduction in per diem.

Army retired Brig. Gen. Royal Reynolds of the well known Army family and a former assistant commandant of the Infantry School, is succeeding Army Retired Reserve Brig. Gen. Henry C. Newton, as director of the Military Assistance. Institute at Arlington, Va.

Excepting Reserve and National Guardsmen retiring under Title III of PL 810, entitlement to retired pay is effective on the date specified in the retirement orders, regardless of the date the orders are delivered to the officer or enlisted man retiring. This is the latest ruling of the Comptroller General. This means that if the retiree has had retirement orders issued but dies prior to his expiration of any accumulated leave, his dependents are entitled to their benefits!

A Reserve officer in retirement status but who has not actually received his first retired pay check prior to his death will not leave entitlement to his widow. The next session of Congress is expected to consider a proposal that would eliminate this discrimination.

Employment in 11 shipyards expected to be closed out, will be frozen temporarily by orders of the White House. The freeze is expected to stay until after the 1964 elections. Net results may be larger cut back in jobs.

Just about everyone on the Federal payroll, including those to receive an increase in their social security benefits, will receive an increase this year (or early in 1965;) excepting retired Federal employes and the military retirees. These two groups are suppose to have an increase in pay whenever the cost of living index is up by three per cent. This is not expected to take place for several years so Congress may consider an increase 1964-65 for the retired Federal employes. So far nothing has been heard about an increase for the 500,000 retired military men.

As Lt. Gen. Al Watson left command of the 3d Army at Fort McPherson to take over from Gen. Paul W. Caraway, as High Commissioner to the Ryukyus Islands, the Governor of Georgia gave him a most unusual send-off. The 15th of July was proclaimed "General Al Watson Day" throughout the State of Georgia. When time comes for Watson to leave Okinawa the honors are expected to be repeated.

Three officers serving in key billets with the Joint Chiefs of Staff, have been nominated for their third star. They are: Rear Admiral Lloyd M. Mustin, Director of Operations of the JCS; Army Major Gen. Richard D. Meyer, Director of Logistics; and Air Force Major Gen. Paul S. Emrick, Director for Plans and Policy.

Labor Discounts Reports of Slip In English Poll

LONDON (UPI) — Labor party leaders discounted two polls indicating the Laborite lead in public opinion has nearly faded away. A general election is scheduled this October.

But bookmakers shortened their odds on a Labor victory. A poll in the London Daily Express said labor, once leading by 14 per cent over the Conservatives, now was only 2 per cent ahead.

The London Daily Mail said Labor was only .06 per cent ahead and that with gerrymandering, the Conservatives would win a 30-seat majority in the House of Commons if the election were held Saturday.

But a third poll showed Labor still 6.5 per cent ahead. Labor party leaders noted that the Mail and Express both support the Conservatives.

14 Rescued From Ditching

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — A U.S. Army Caribou transport plane ditched in the ocean six miles off Puerto Rico Friday. All 14 persons uboard were rescued by U.S. Navy helicopters.

The twin-engined plane sent out a distress call when it had to "feather" one of its engines on a flight from St. Thomas, V. I., to the Roosevelt Roads military base in Puerto Rico. The plane continued to lose altitude and ditched about 4 p.m. EDT while in sight of Puerto Rico.

The plane settled into the ocean and a Coast Guard plane answering the distress call dropped a life raft. The men scrambled aboard and were picked up by the helicopters.

Industries Set Expansion Plans

NEW YORK — Optimism over the future of business was reflected in large expansion programs initiated by Kaiser Steel and Union Bag-Cap Paper. Kaiser said it will spend $119 million chiefly to expand and improve its steel finishing facilities, principally at its main mill at Fonatana, Calif., near Los Angeles. Union Bag projected an outlay of $106 million including a new $43 million pulp and paperboard mill in the South.

Biloxi Planning Integration of Schools Quietly

By GAVIN SCOTT

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — With one crisis past, this resort city hoped today to make its school desegregation so quiet the tourists won't know anything unusual is afoot.

Registration of Negroes at previously all-white elementary schools took place Friday with strict policing insuring quiet.

The next test — the opening of classes — comes Aug. 31.

"We don't anticipate one bit of trouble," said R. D. Brown., city school superintendent, who was plainly pleased by the tranquil proceedings.

Only 17 Negroes were among the 742 who signed up for first-grade classes at the 10 schools, but it was a historic occasion — Mississippi's first crack in classroom racial barriers below the college level.

There were no incidents, no visible tension.

In each school area police kept traffic moving, including newsmen. FBI agents watched from parked cars. Athletic coaches and other male teachers were at the main entrances at most schools.

The first grades were desegregated under a federal court order that also applies to Jackson, the state capital, and rural Leake County.

In the Delta, Clarksdale is under similar orders to start desegregation this fall.

Secret Service Protection for Barry Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret Service protection for Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater and all future presidential candidates of major political parties was proposed Friday by Sen. Milward Simpson, R-Wyo.

The bill is similar to one introduced in the House. It would extend protection to nominees until the election is completed and for the defeated nominee, at his request, for a reasonable time after the election.

"It is well known that Sen. Goldwater has received a number of threats on his life, and it is conceivable that some of those threats came from people twisted enough to attempt to carry them out," Simpson explained, adding:

"One of the two men now at the head of his party will be the next president of the United States. It is folly to assume that only one of them needs to be protected from attack by the demented or twisted people who frequently threaten the lives of public officials."

Kennecott Reaches Union Agreement

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The Kennecott Copper Corp. reached agreement with 21 small unions Friday, thus moving nearer to a resumption of operations which have been stalled since early in July.

Some 10,000 persons in Utah, Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico have been idled by the strike.

Earlier this week, the largest of the unions, the International Union of Mine-Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) came to terms on a new, three-year contract.

Friday's settlement with the 21 organizations, bargaining as the Kennecott Cooperative Council, covered craft, clerical and railroad unions.

A spokesman for Kennecott said the agreement was similar to that reached with Mine-Mill, revealed until all locals concerned have ratified them..

Milton Doxford, coordinator for the cooperative council, said he expected no problems in winning approval from the council's member locals.

A spokesman for Kennecott said the pact covers wage hikes, an income security program, health and welfare benefits, additional vacations and sick leave benefits.

The agreement left Kennecott at odds only with the United Steelworkers and several smaller unions. All affect only Arizona and Utah.

Mine-Mill is the only union on strike in New Mexico and Nevada.

SIGN TRADE AGREEMENT

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union and Finland have signed a new five-year agreement calling for a 20 per cent increase in trade, it was announced Friday.

The official news agency Tass said the Soviet Union will sell Finland electrical and power equipment, machine tools, cars, tractors and fuel, and buy ships and machinery in return. It said the agreement covers 1966-70.

Former Residents Visit Taiwan With Flying Tigers

The famous, intrepid Flying Tigers held their 22nd annual reunion at Taipei, Taiwan, last month at the invitation of Chiang Kai-shek, president of the Republic of Nationalist China. Some 100 Flying Tigers and their wives attended, including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Layher, formerly of Colorado Springs.

The flying tigers fought the Japanese when they attacked the Chinese Mainland before World War II, then under the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Under the command of the late Gen. Claire Chennault, the American Volunteer Group worked with the Chinese National Airways Corp., flying supplies in old, open cockpit planes, from India to China, in 1941-42. Mrs. Chennault attended the reunion.

The travelers chartered a plane, flying from Los Angeles and San Francisco, first to Alaska and then to Tokyo and on to Taipei, Taiwan. They were state guests of the republic of China, and as such were entertained royally, with all activities sponsored by officials of the government.

There was a memorial service for Gen. Chennault, and a tour of the Taiwan air bases and facilities, and at the Taiwan "West Point of The Air" they saw the Flying Tiger Room dedicated to the heroes of the campaign.

The Fliers and their wives also visited the Hua Hsing Children's home, an orphanage for children of Nationalist China Air Force men. The home is sponsored by Madam Chiang, and is partially supported by contributions from the flying Tigers.

"There are more than 400 children in the orphanage," Mr. Layer said. "It was an inspiring sight to see how they are cared for.

"Everyone was most impressed with what the Nationalist Chinese Government has done with American financial aid. The economy is healthy, there is no hunger nor poverty, and the people are busy, and building. We brought back a very favorable picture of the situation.

"The Nationalist Chinese have no doubt that they will some day return to the Mainland and put an end to Communist rule. How they expect to do this, I can't see, but they are confident. A banner at one of the dinners read 'Next Flying Tiger Reunion Will Be in Nanking' (on the mainland)."

President Chaing Kai-Shek and Madame Chiang were present at a special banquet given at the Grand Hotel by Gen. C.J. Chow.

Many special events were arranged for the ladies including teas given by officials of the government.

The group spent a week in Hong Kong as tourists, and were hosted by Shing Lung, son of the former Governor of Yunan Province, China, which was the headquarters for the Flying Tigers during their daring campaign. Shing Lung was a teenager when the fliers were fighting the Japs.

"Hong Kong is the glamour city of the Orient," said Mrs. Layher. "It was a shopping paradise for the ladies."

Mr. and Mrs. Layher have been visiting Mrs. Layher's mother, Mrs. H. W. Aley, and her sister and family, Dr. and Mrs. F. Rodman Landon and children. Former Colorado Springs residents, the Layhers now live in Hays, Kan., and will return home this week.

RETURN FROM TAIWAN — Flying Tiger, Robert Layher, and Mrs. Layher, formerly of Colorado Springs, now of Hays, Kan. have returned from Taipei, Taiwan (Formosa) where they attended a reunion of the Flying Tigers held in early July. The word barbecue comes from the Spanish word "barbacoa," reports the Poultry and Egg National Board. "Barbacoa" means a wood frame used as a drying rack or cooking grill. Probably the Pilgrims were first to barbecue when they split - roasted turkey over an open fire.

On the Rise

NEW YORK (UPI) — Temperature is important in baking with yeast. Yeast likes warm surroundings. Active dry yeast or compressed yeast dissolve more quickly in warm water—105 to 115 degrees Fahrenheit. Test the warmth of the water as you would test milk for a baby's bottle—a drop of the water placed on the inner side of the wrist should feel warm, not hot.

TANGY TUNA SPREAD

Tuna spread for sandwiches takes a tangy turn when you add ¼ cup chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish, 2 tablespoons lemon or lime juice, and 3 tablespoons mayonnaise. Combine these with 1 can (6½ oz.) tuna, drained. Serve on buttered pumpernickel. Serves 4.

Eddy Sings Short'nin' Bread And Knows How to Make It!

Unique in the ranks of hobbyist and collectors is Nelson Eddy.

The blonde baritone believes he now possesses the largest recipe collection in the country for one single dish — short 'nin' bread.

You may hear him sing that old Southern ditty all this week at the Broadmoor International Theatre where he is appearing Monday night through next Sunday.

Today he receives more requests for the song than any other in his repertoire. And furthermore, his admirers throughout the contry have forwarded to him a steady stream of recipes for the dish.

While scanning these culinary formulas recently, Nelson noted that scarcely two of them were alike, indicating that there is a wide variance in opinion on just what "Short'nin' Bread" is.

However, he has conjured up a basic recipe which he calls "Short'nin' Bread-Nelson Eddy Style." To satisfy his own curiosity, Nelson recently "kitchen-tested" the formula in his own home — with very gratifying results.

"SHORT'NIN' BREAD"
NELSON EDDY STYLE

4 cups sifted flour
1 cup light brown sugar
2 cups butter or other shortening
½ teaspoon salt

Mix the flour, sugar and salt. Work in butter and press on a floured board and pat to a half-inch thickness. Cut to desired shape and bake in a moserate oven, 325 to 350 degrees, 20 to 25 minutes. Makes three dozen.

Ladybug

Why do girls wear LADYBUGS to school?

Well . . .
a Ladybug® looks so intelligent, so confident, so alert, that studying isn't necessary at all.

A girl just sits there in her Ladybug® and gets an A.

We are shocked by this irresponsible and decadent approach to education.

(Besides, it gives girls an unfair advantage over boys.)

But if you really ARE intelligent, alert, etc., and not just pretending, see the new semester's Ladybugs at your nearest shopkeeper.

Shifts and shirtdresses, shirts and jumpers, sweaters both classic and frivolous, even skirts.

But promise that you'll study too.

Only the unscrupulous would take advantage of a Ladybug® to get an undeserved, unearned, unfair A.

GENTLE
The softer shirtdress. Long cuffed sleeves, lapels, and a swash of sash that reverses to a different color. Fortrel polyester and cotton, in Navy, Blue, or Red. 5-15. $26

UNEXPECTED
Unexpected place to find a ruffle . . . on businesslike wool herringbone. High of neck. Long of sleeve. And ruffled. Black, Brown, or Brick. 5-15. $30

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Food for Thought!

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy any more. I have always brought my girl friends to my house to watch television or just talk, or make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up.

I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that, too. But if he keeps grumbling about the TV program we're watching instead of going to watch the other TV, he'll make my friends self-conscious and they won't come back, and I won't stay home evenings either.

We live in a small town and except for movies, where can we go that doesn't cost a lot more than kids our age have to spend? Most of my friends have the same trouble with their folks. They say we make too much noise, our dances are silly, our ideas are kooky. They criticize our hair, and clothes and our choice of friends. No wonder kids want cars! They want to get as far away from home as possible.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come and have fun and act like teen - agers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car because, if you keep driving, you get to speeding just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had these same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together, and home is our favorite spot, if only we were made to feel welcome. —SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy who is very mature for my age and look much older. There is a divorced lady who lives on the corner near me. Every time she sees me she tells me what a nice looking young fellow I am and she asks me when I am coming over to visit her. She says she is lonesome. Should I tell my father? SONNY

DEAR SONNY: No. Tell your mother.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in regard to the letter signed "DISAPPOINTED IN DOCTORS." The writer claimed her mother was ill and was ordered to bed by her doctor. When the mother worsened, the daughter phoned the doctor, who said, "There is nothing I can do. What do you expect from a 73-year-old woman?" He refused to make a house call and the mother died the next day.

This is hard to believe. What probably happened was this: When the doctor first saw the patient, he advised the daughter to put her in a hospital for a thorough examination and tests. The daughter refused and attempted to care for her mother at home. When the mother grew worse, the daughter called the doctor and he probably said, "Since you did not let me give her a thorough examination, what do you expect from a 73-year-old woman who has not been properly cared for?"

Abby, the image of rich, country - club, golf playing doctors is a myth. Doctors as a group are dedicated. What other professionals are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week? Tell "DISAPPOINTED" to look to her own conscience regarding her mother. Blaming the doctor will not absolve her guilt for neglecting her mother. —DOCTOR'S WIFE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Low quality or tough cuts of beef will not barbecue well, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. For outdoor cooking, select tender cuts of top quality. Any cut of meal which you normally would roast or broil indoors is fine for the outdoor grill.

Machinery Is Causing Boredom, Docs Say

LONDON (AP) — The British Medical Association says machinery is afflicting workers with anxiety and boredom.

The association issued a report Thursday which says anxiety comes primarily from two sources: fear that the machines may be dangerous to life and limb, and that they may cause tunemployment.

Boredom, said the report, is caused by the monotonous nature of machine-associated jobs.

For a different party for the teenage crowd, entertain them with a "shipwreck" party.

Corpus Christi Church Is Scene of Babich-Hull Rites

Escorted to the altar by her father, Miss Nancy Jean Hull became the bride of Joseph A. Babich at noon Saturday, July 18, in Corpus Christi Church. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Anthony G. Elzi officiated at the nuptial mass. Mrs. Muriel White, organist, played the processional and recessional and accompanied her daughter, Rita, who sang "Ave Maria," "Oh Lord I Am Not Worthy," and "On This Day." Church decorations were baskets of white gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris E. Hull, 118 E. Madison St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Babich, 602 E. Cheyenne Rd.

The bride chose a full length gown of white satin peau de soie styled with an A-line skirt and detachable chapel train of lace edged with peau de soie. Over the sleeveless, scooped neckline bodice, she wore a lace jacket with elbow length sleeves. A ballerina length veil of silk illusion was caught to a bow of lace which, along with the jacket and train, was heavily embroidered with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Cathy Bromstead was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sandy Gersbach, the bride's cousin, Linda Strauch and Judy Dummer. Maureen Hull and Michelle Hull, sisters of the bride, were Junior bridesmaids and flower girl, respectively. All wore street length gowns fashioned like that of the bride in soft willow green crystal peau de soie with matching lace jackets. Their colonial bouquets were of Ester Reed daisies.

Modern Bride magazine reports that the average newlyweds receive a minimum of 100 gifts or checks and the average gift for all brackets range from $10 to $15.

Bridal Business Hits Billions

NEW YORK—The bridal business is billion dollar business.

The bridal market now accounts for $5.161 billion or 16.5 per cent of the total retail sales, reports "Modern Bride" magazine.

The publication says the $5 billion plus total is exclusive of the cost of such items as transportation and lodging for wedding guests, food and beverages served in connection with engagement and wedding entertainment, invitations, announcements of the engagement and wedding, housing, cars, insurance, bank loans and miscellaneous honeymoon expenses such as camera, film, and decorative items for the first home. Nor does it include purchases by friends and relatives which add substantially to the overall total.

The magazine said there were 1.651 million weddings in 1963; in 1964, 1.7 million are anticipated; by 1970, the market will have grown to an estimated 2.110 million marriages. The average bride represents about $3,000 in retail spending, said the publication.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Gals:

Those of you who paper your own kitchens of have them papered . . . always buy an extra roll (you can also save the scraps after papering) and keep it on hand to cover the shelves. It matches your walls and is darling.

After helping a friend paper her kitchen last week, we covered all the shelves and the insides of the drawers to match. We covered the paper in the drawers with plastic so that she can wipe them with damp sponge.

On the selves, we put waxed paper over the wall paper. It was cheaper and the paper just happened to fit the shelves. We used pinking scissors to make an edge. Darling.

When the cabinet is opened or a drawer is pulled out . . . everything matches.

My friend then went out and bought an extra roll of paper just to have on hand when it becomes necessary to replace the shelf and drawer liners.

Wall paper is not only attractive and practical, but is cheaper than most shelf paper —HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

Here is one of my best time-saving hints: (I suppose I must have them by the dozen or I don't think I'd get through the day sometimes with my six children!)

Instead of having salt and pepper in separate shakers, I have one shaker where I have mixed up salt and pepper (any proportion one perfers).

This way, in seasoning hamburger or any such food, it goes on in one shake. Time saving, eh? —Joe "Babbie"

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

To get rid of the sediment (mineral deposit) in the bottom of your empty tea kettle, simply put the tea kettle in your freezer overnight. This causes the metal to contract, breaking the mineral deposits off without the danger of hurting or discoloring the metal finish! — Mrs. F. E. Mitler

MR. AND MRS. PAUL EUGENE SMITH

* * * * * *

Paul Eugene Smith Weds Patricia Ann Widmoyer

Miss Patricia Ann Widmoyer and Paul Eugene Smith were united in marriage at 11 a.m. Saturday, August 1, in the Divine Redeemer Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Duane Theobald in a setting of white gladili, pink and green carnations and white bows which marked each pew. Mrs. Crandall, organist, accompanied Mr. Rogers as he sang "Ave Maria" and "Immaculate Mary."

Parents of the bride are Mr and Mrs. Kenneth A. Widmoyer, 2917 W. Colorado Ave. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Garold D. Smith, 2709 E. St. Vrain St.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white gown of silk crystalette over taffeta with a fitted bodice of Alencon lace and elbow length sleeves. A wide panel of Alencon lace enhanced the bouffant skirt which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and English ivy.

Diane Widmoyer, the bride's sister, was maid of honor. She wore a street length gown of rose-bud satin styled with a full pleated skirt and back waistline bow. Her accessories matched her gown and she carried a puff-ball of green carnations.

Flower girl Carolyn Roth, the bride's niece, wore a yellow organdy frock with a scalloped overskirt and large bow at the back waistline. Her headdress was yellow net and she carried a white basket of green carnations.

Paul Francis, ring bearer, carried the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

Robert L. Smith served as best man. Ushers were Garold Smith Jr., and Larry Lammey.

A reception followed the ceremony. Assisting were Ruth Roth, Charlann Widmoyer, and Jeannine Wright, who attended the guest book. All wore green carnation corsages.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a pink organza dress with matching accessories and a green carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother chose a white and floral print dress with matching accessories and a pink carnation corsage.

The bride's traveling costume was a white and pink two piece ensemble and a green carnation corsage. The couple will honeymoon in Nevada and Utah.

Guests from out of town included Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Nielsen from Whittier, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed McKay and family from Boone; Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Kinney Jr. from Golden; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Goettel and family from Limon; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sopko Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sopko Sr. from Yoder.

England Getting Supermarkets

LONDON (UPI)—Plans were announced Friday to dot England with as many as 50 American - style super -supermarkets, with the first one already set to open in Nottingham Nov. 7.

The announcement for the supermarts, involving shopping space of almost two acres each and parking lots for 1,000 cars, was made by Robert L. Wolfson, 47-year-old head of the GEM International Stores Group of America.

The markets are designed, Wolfson said, "to make one-stop shopping a reality" in England.

In addition to the store at Nottingham, firm plans are going forward for two others to be opened next year at Leeds and Bournemouth, Wolfson said.

Wolfson said the ultimate goal is about 50 such supermarkets.

Coiffure Come-on: The Flirt Curl!

—NEW YORK—The "flirt curl" is the hairdressing industry's newest addition to fall and winter hairstyles.

The curl is a lock of a woman's hair saved over from a new haircut, perfumed with her favorite scent and tied with a small ribbon bow.

"Wear the curl at the center of the neckline at the back of your head, or wherever," said the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

"Then, give it to your favorite beau to wear in his lapel. He's pinned!"

The hair fashion committee of the association said many curls should not be given away, however. In short, hair for the new season will be shorter than in many years and with a "softness of curl and wave."

Wave lines are layered and have a decided feeling of roundness, said the association. Hair is cut in curves, disc-like, with full ends at the sides and through the crown area. Finger waves of yesteryear are back, but with molded "S" curves. For day, ears will be covered. For evening, ears usually are exposed, accented with a touch of rouge and with outsize ornaments. Evening coiffures will have hair pieces added, either placed on top of the head or low at the nape of the neck.

Most fall styles are parted. And the clean forehead is in, with bangs used only to correct hairlines when needed.

Opening lead: King of ◇

The popularity of jingles in the early days of bridge has left its mark on the playing habits of many players of the old school. I recall such old badges as "lead through strength and up to weakness," and others. But today there comes to mind the one that reads, "Holding high cards of a suit in both hands, lead first from the hand containing two of the high cards." Observe its effect in the lay of the hand currently shown.

West opened the king of diamonds and continued the suit until declarer took the third round with the ace. Since the bidding marked West with the ace of hearts, it was quite clear that declarer must run nine tricks without relinquishing the lead. This meant that he must bring in the entire club suit. Resorting to the much followed old practice of playing first an honor from the hand containing two, declarer played the king from his own hand and, when West showed out, it became clear that he could bring in only four club tricks, for he had remaining in dummy only one small card with which to finesse.

Proper management of this combination of cards would have led to picking up all five club tricks. The correct play is low to the queen. When West shows out a low club is returned and declarer finesses the eight. He reenters dummy with a spade, and the subsequent finesse of the ten of clubs picks up the suit.

The play of the king of clubs first gains nothing for, if East shows out, declarer is helpless to pick up the suit. It may be contended that, if East has four clubs to the jack, the play of the king first, followed by a low card to the queen, will expose the situation and permit declarer to finesse the ten on the return. But, in that case, declarer has gained nothing by playing the king first. He would have obtained the same information by playing low to the queen. On the return he plays the king and West shows out. He then crosses to dummy with a spade and takes the proven finesse.

Most varieties of cantaloupe are best if the netting is thick and close. Ripeness is indicated by a smooth, not gouged, stem scar, with color a yellowish buff or gray, and a fruity odor. Honeydews are ripe when the rind has creamy to yellowish color and the blossom end has softened slightly.

Usual Wastebasket-Bound Items Will Load Summertime With Fun

By MARGERY McELHENY
United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Household containers that normally wind up in the wastebasket can be used as summertime activities for children.

With a minimum of expense, you can come up with a new idea every time the proverbial "there's nothing to do" complaint is heard.

A box filled with discarded items is the source of materials, so begin by saving: plastic bleach and detergent bottles, coffee cans, milk and cottage cheese cartons, fruit juice cans, empty spools of thread, assorted boxes and other containers.

The makers of Spray Pla and Pla decorative enamel say that all the children need to transform the bottles, cartons, and cans into imaginative playthings are enamels, brushes and some household glue.

Suggested uses include:

—Pails for beach or sandbox from plastic bleach bottles. The bottles need only to be cut down somewhat on one side, preserving the handle, and can be spray enameled and personalized with drawings or names.

—Vases from plastic detergent bottles (cut off the top) or from juice cans.

— Personalized banks from coffee cans with plastic lids or from plastic detergent bottles.

—Pencil holders from juice cans or a cut-down detergent bottle, to be decorated to match children's rooms.

—Jewel boxes or special containers for "secret" items from any box with a lid, cardboard or wooden. These can be lined with scraps of material and painted.

—An entire zoo of one-of-a-kind animals from empty thread spools. Glue on scraps of material or cardboard for ears, tails; brush-on features.

—A cardboard train or a fantasy castle from milk cartons, cereal boxes, and assorted empty containers, cut to shape and sprayed.

— Personalized stationery made by cutting stencils from brown paper, then enameling designs on plain paper.

REDUCE PRICES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Enjay Chemical Co., a division of Humble Oil & Refining Co., reduced its prices on five plasticizers and five related chemicals by one to four cents per pound. Some of the reductions matched similar cuts made earlier by competitors.

Cigarette cases can be spray enameled and become decorative new holders to accent a lady's boudoir, for bobby pins or hair clips, extra lipsticks, earrings, or powder puffs.

Three or four small ash trays, transformed with color, can be labeled for paper clips, stamps, and rubber bands.

Major Loop Uprise Against N.Y. Sale

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Opposition to the sale of the New York Yankees to the Columbia Broadcasting System continued to mushroom Saturday from all points on the baseball map while the American League acknowledged it had received a telegraphed request asking for a meeting to consider the transaction.

In Boston, an American League spokesman said that a telegraphed request to league President Joe Cronin asking for a meeting had been received from Arthur Allyn, owner of the Chicago White Sox who contends the vote of club owners approving the sale was contrary to the league's constitution.

In Houston, the Colts became the first National League team to step into the boiling controversy when club President Roy Hofheinz read a scathing statement to newsmen in which he read:

"The day CBS finally acquired the New York Yankees' stock will be a darker day for baseball than the day of the Black Sox scandal."

Acknowledgement of Allyn's telegram was made by AL publicity director Joe McKennedy, who said he had telephoned the message to the vacationing Cronin on Cape Cod. McKennedy said Cronin had asked for a copy of the telegram to study over the weekend, before making a decision.

McKennedy said a meeting could be arranged two days: 1, Cronin can call it as requested, or 2, Allyn can call for a meeting by getting two other club owners to join the demand.

The second possibility seemed unlikely since the telegraphic vote taken on the sale of the Yankees was approved by an 8-2 margin, with only Allyn and Charles Finley of the Kansas City Athletics against the move.

Allyn protested in his telegram to Cronin that the vote violates the league's constitution. Allyn said a unanimous vote was required unless owners had received notice 15 days in advance.

McKennedy said the vote had not been taken until Ben Fiery, the league's attorney, had been consulted.

Hofheinz put the National League into the dispute when he called a news conference to read a statement highly critical of the $11.2 million transaction in which CBS will acquire 80 per cent ownership of the Yankees from Dan Topping and Del Webb.

Hofheinz said the sale, formally announced Friday, "should be stopped by whatever means necesasry" and announced that he had asked Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick "to review the facts and if he thought appropriate to rule the sale not in the best interest of baseball and immediately used his offices to void it."

Hofheinz then surprisingly suggested that if the deal were not voided within baseball, baseball should ask Washington to do something about.

"If the commissioner does not act quickly," he said, "a joint meeting of both leagues should be called to take appropriate action, and if this is not done, then we in baseball should urge that Washington, through the Congress of the United States — both the Senate and the House — do something about it."

Scenery Has Changed

This coming Saturday golfers from a dozen different countries will take their carts across Broadmoor's scenic championship course as the annual Teams Matches of the World Senior Tournament gets underway.

But when Charles (Chick) Evans steps to the first tee in connection with his duties as honorary captain of the United States team, the scene will be a sharp contrast to what he saw of the course no less than 46 years ago.

* * *

CHICK EVANS
In First Foursome

* * *

This comes from the history-book mind of Juan Reid, Dean of Men at Colorado College and probably the most expert in the area at remembering facts from the past as pertaining to Pikes Peak Region sports. Reid is also the golf coach at CC, and thus has always been interested in the links activities of these parts.

Evans has since become a living legend of amateur golfdom, winning just about every title for the play-for-fun boys except this World Tournament at the Broadmoor which was originated in his honor and benefits his Evans-Eisenhower scholarship fund for caddies.

Evans was the reigning U.S. Amateur and Open champion at the time when he was a member of the foursome that opened the Broadmoor course for the first play on July 4, 1918, according to Reid.

Other members of that foursome were "Long Jim" Barnes (Western Open champ and later U.S. Open titlist in 1921), Jock Hutchinson (the leading Scottish player at the time), and Warren Wood (Western Amateur champion).

This quartet was touring the country, playing Red Cross benefits as World War I was still in progress, and a match had been scheduled to be played at the Cheyenne Mountain Country Club's nine-hole course. The Cheyenne Country Club course was being operated by the Broadmoor until its layout gained sufficient maturity for play, Reid said.

At the last minute, the match was changed to the new Broadmoor course at the insistence of Evans.

Evans was quoted in the Colorado Springs Gazette (July 4, 1918) as saying to Barnes, "Jim, we've got to play this match over the new Broadmoor course. This course is going to be one of the finest in the country. Even though it isn't in shape yet, perhaps we'll have a chance to see what a wonderful course it is going to be once the work is completed."

Wood supported Evans when he arrived on the scene, and the cups were sunk for the first time in the new greens the day before the match, said Reid.

At that time, from the heritage of the old Broadmoor Casino which started as a gambling house before the turn of the century, the Calcutta pool was quite popular. But this time an auction was held in conjunction with the match with even clubs, balls, caddy rights, etc., being auctioned off.

There was $12,000 raised for the American Red Cross from that first game of golf. And following the match the Broadmoor Golf Club directors met and decided to keep the course open for regular play.

One of those present at the time, and one who remembers the match vividly is Emmett Killian, currently an engineer with the Colorado State Highway Department. Killian was 16 years old that summer and was honored by being chosen as one of the four caddies assigned to the match. He carried Wood's bag.

"The course wasn't sufficiently mature to permit the match to be played according to regular USGA rules," Killian told Reid. "Because of the newness of the course, preferred lies were allowed to the players.

"Although the greens had a good growth of grass, they were quite bumpy and uneven. The fairway turf was sparse. And it started to rain during the match, and at times it was necessary for the contestant to use mud tees to get a fair lie," Killian said.

This, of course, is in contrast to the velvet-smooth greens that will greet the golfers next weekend and the wide, verdant fairways that make a lush target off the tee.

"Barnes and Hutchinson, the two professionals, won the match, 2 up," Killian continued. "Jim Barnes was then known as one of the longest hitters in the game, and Spencer Penrose (builder of the Broadmoor) hired him as the Broadmoor's first golf professional. Actually, Barnes was professional in name only and James Gullane, his assistant, acted as the club professional."

Eight years later Killian was named as the club professional under Gullane. Killian won the only professional tournament played on the Broadmoor course; the Broadmoor Open in 1926, which consisted of 72 holes of medal play. Killian had a 287 total and he was three strokes better than Abe Espinoza, one of the nationally ranked pros of the period.

As in most fewly formed tournaments like this, one of the most important factors is building fame through noted contestants. And the World Seniors and International Team Matches have a couple of the most famous guys who ever used an over-lapping grip in Bing Crosby and Bob Hope.

Both carry handicaps of eight, which is pretty fair country golf in anybody's book. And those lucky enough to get to the matches are liable to see some fine shots from this pair, known throughout the world for their snappy wit and acts of humanism.

Also scheduled to be on hand for the week-long tournament, but not in the team matches of next weekend, will be Phil Harris, another famous comedian. Unfortunately, the tournament will be closed to the general public, however. There still is a large gallery expected since the hotel guests and Broadmoor Golf Club members will all have admittance badges, as well as contestants.

Fumbles, Penalties Take Toll of Underdog Rebels

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

PUEBLO — A mistake-plagued South All-Star team saw a brief second half lead evaporate in a shower of fourth quarter errors here Saturday night and the favored North made a sweep of the weekend All - State series by pounding out a 27-7 football victory before 11,000 fans at Public School Stadium.

The North, which had turned in a record 100-78 conquest in the basketball game Friday night, found the going much more difficult in Saturday's fracus. But a pair of alert plays by the defense accounted for the touchdown that provided the necessary margin and a final fumble recovery in the dying minutes of the contest set up the insurance score.

The game had been billed as a potentially explosive affair but, with the exception of the South's touchdown drive in the third period, the expected offensive fireworks never materialized. The North scored in the first half on a runback of a loose fumble, got the go ahead tally in the fourth period on a pass interception, and moved the majority of the distance via penalty yardage on its final touchdown march.

As expected, the standout players for the Rebels included the trio that led Pueblo Centennial to the South Central League championship last fall. Quarterback Luther Nava and halfback Bob Armijo teamed for the majority of the yardage in the Rebel's T.D. drive and end Wayne Woodyard got the tally with a magnificant catch in the North end zone.

The North was paced by a pair of hard running backs off Boulder's State Class AAA champions. Dick Anderson and Warren Gillettee. Anderson gained 73 yards, high for the evening, and Gillettee had 71. Nova had the top South total with 36 yards. Overall the North squad had a heavy edge in the statistics column.

Colorado Springs' representatives both turned in fine performances. Roy Gault of Wasson came up with a key fumble recovery for the South in the first half and Cheyenne Mountain's Jack O'Brien was one of the standout defensive players throughout the second half.

The first half story was one of fumbles. A miscue accounted for the lone touchdown and several others yanked the teeth out of threatening drives.

The South opened by marching from its own 23 to the North 38 with the key play being a 17 yard exhibition of jitter-bugging by Pueblo Centennial's Bob Armijo. When the push stalled, a short punt by Jim Richardson of Limon rolled out on the North 27.

The upstaters quickly ripped back downfield, aided by 25-yards in South penalties, but eventually were stopped on fourth down pass play at the Rebel 29.

It was only three plays later that Lamar's L. D. Elarton, in the game for his first series, dropped back to pass only to have the ball jarred loose by Dick Anderson of Boulder. Anderson scooped the loose pigskin at the 18 and romped into the end zone. The etxra point attempt was wide.

With that break in momentum, the North dominated the remainder of he first half, except for a short South drive just before halftime. Another Elarton bobble provided the Northerners with their next opportunity after Roger White of Aurora Central recovered at the Southern 48. From there Anderson, Babbs, Warren Gillettee of Boulder, and Tom Robinson of Regis each ripped off a sizable gain as the upstate club banged to the South's 17.

It was at that point, that Wasson's Gault came up with a life-saving fumble recovery for the Rebels. Another fumble by Anderson mid-way through the second period took the starch out of a second North drive inside the South 20 and still later in the period the Northerners were foiled on three straight pass attempts after pushing to the South 21. A pass interception by Richardson with less than a minute left in the half gave the Rebels one fleeting opportunity to get on the scoreboard but after Elarton completed a pair of tosses that carried to the North 23, the attack fizzled.

Centennial's great offensive starts of 1963 electrified the partisan gathering wih a drive mid-way in the third period that gave the South a brief lead. After the North had been halted twice in Southern territory, Nava launched a razzled-dazzled Rebel romp downfield from his own 24. A 17-yard pass completion to Wayne Woodyard started it and after one incompletion, Armijo speared a Nava aerial and hot-footed it to the North 35. Three running plays by Armijo and Nava carried to the 22 and from there the Centennial quarterback lofted a pass into the end zone where Woodyard made a remarkable diving catch. Gary Gehlhoff's extra point pushed the Rebels on top, 7-6.

That rapid turn of events buoyed South's hopes for a time but the mistakes which were to prove fatal occurred in rapid fire order in the fourth quarter. Early in the period, Randy Blackmon of Durango took over the quarterbacking duties for the Rebels and on his second play he flipped a pass over center that was picked off by Vern Legvalh of Boulder and returned 35 yards for a touchdown. A two-point conversion attempt failed but the North still had a 12-7 advantage with 13:07 left.

Three plays after the next kick, Armijo had the ball spin out of his hands as he crossed his own 31 and Anderson recovered for the North. This time the upstaters drove in quickly with Babbs jamming over from the one. Anderson kicked the point.

The final touchdown came late in the period after the North received a punt at its own 49. Two straight personal foul penalties placed the ball within the shadow of the goal and on the fifth running play following Anderson skirted the left side from the one for the score.

Mantle Injures His Leg

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' slugging outfielder, sat in the dressing room after Saturday night's 8-1 victory over Baltimore, and in obvious pain, said "I don't think I can make it tomorrow."

Mantle left the middle game of the crucial, three-game set against the American League leading Orioles in the fifth inning and immediately went to the Yankee clubhouse for whirlpool treatments on his jammed right knee.

Mantle jammed the leg in a headlong dive back to first base on an attempted pick off play in the sixth inning of Friday night's game.

"It didn't bother me then," said Mantle, "and it didn't bother me all day, or during batting practice. But after batting practice, I jumped down the steps in the dugout and got a pain like a toothache.

"I couldn't stand up. I had to sit down."

Phil Linz, who played short in place of Kubek Saturday night, hit a two-run homer and collected three singles, driving in four runs and scoring three.

Sportscaster's Pun

NEW YORK (AP)—Sportscaster Jack Whitaker reported the results of the New York Yankees baseball game on WCBS-TV Friday night against the Baltimore Orioles as: "Baltimore 5, CBS 1."

The Columbia Broadcasting System confirmed Friday it had purchased an 80 per cent interest in the Yankees.

NFL Bears Tumble Redskins, 14-13

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Chicago Bears capitalized on Washington fumbles for two touchdowns Saturday night and downed the Redskins 14-13 in a National Football League exhibition game before 23,611 fans at City Stadium.

Bob Kilcullen's recovery of a fumble by Redskin quarterback George Izo on the Washington 19 set up the Bears for their first touchdown in the second period. Ron Bull's two-yard run was the payoff.

In the third quarter, Washington's Tommy Neck fumbled a punt and Larry Glueck recovered for the NFL champion Bears on the Redskin 27. Chicago needed 10 plays and a pass interference call, which put the ball on the Washington one, before Joe Marconi scored.

A 25-yard field goal by rookie John Seedborg in the second period and a 22-yard field goal by Bob Khayat in the same quarter gave Washington all its first-half points.

The Redskins threatened throughout the last period, and scored their only touchdown on a 72-yard drive. Izo's short screen pass to Dave Francis and his 38-yarder to Joe Fernandez to the Bear 26 set up the TD. Tom Tracy's running brought the ball to the one and then Izo went over.

The Redskins had a chance to win in the final 47 seconds but Seedborg's field goal try from the 41 was wide.

Vikings Storm Past Cardinals In Exhibition

ATLANTA (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings combined a vicious, blitzing defense with the fine passing of quarterback Fran Tarkenton Saturday night defeating the St. Louis Cardinals 24-10 in a National Football League exhibition.

Tarkenton, who was shaken up badly and sent out of the game midway through the third quarter, came off the bench with just 3½ minutes to go and engineered the Vikings to two quick touchdowns.

World Seniors Tourney Opens Saturday

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The World Seniors Golf Championships, which has been consistently stretching toward the pinnacle among senior amateur events in this country since its inception in 1960, has apparently arrived at its goal in 1964.

For the first three summers, this Chick Evans origination struggled alone with an excellent field from the United States but only a minimum of attention from overseas. In 1963, with the launching of the Francis H. I. Brown International Team Match which immediately precedes the World Seniors Tournament, the field of foreign entries swelled overnight. And when the week long extravaganza opens its 1964 run at the Broadmoor Saturday, its outstanding list of entries assures it of being a smashing success.

This year's International Team Match, which will run Saturday and Sunday and will be scored on a handicap basis, will attract four man teams from 12 nations. And when the World Tournament kicks off its six days of match play action Monday, Aug. 24, no fewer than 48 foreign contestants are expected to be included in the bulky field.

Mexico's Famed Horseman Faces Shooting Charges

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's internationally known horseman, Gen. Humberto Mariles, faces charges of shooting and seriously wounding another man in a dispute over a traffic mixup.

Both Mariles, former Olympic team champion and Jesus Velazquez Mendez, 32, were taken to a hospital where Mendez was operated upon. Mariles escaped through a bathroom window.

Velazquez' condition was listed as serious.

Magazine Says 'Sudden Death' Tops

Colorado College football captain Steve "Sudden Death" Sabol belongs at the top, says SPORT Magazine.

In a profile on Sabol in the September issue, the national sports magazine says "Steve Sabol belongs right up there with Novella O'Hara, John Pregenzer, Hotso Casey and the World Series press parties in making sports a great place visit or to live in."

The husky Colorado College senior attracted the attention of sports writers last year when they discovered he was writing advertisements of himself in home football programs.

"He wasn't satisfied, for example, when he arrived at Colorado College as a 165-pound fullback from Haverford School and Villanova, Pennsylvaia," SPORT reported. "With a background like that Sabol figured he had about as much chance of playing college football as a guy from Swarthmore had of playing pro football.

" 'I needed something to get people to notice me,' Steve told us this spring. 'So I said I was from Coaltown Township, Pennsylvania—everybody from Western Pennsylvania is supposed to be a good football player. I even wrote that for the registrar.' He chuckled. 'That sounded good and it worked. I was fourth string until the coach looked down the roster and saw I was from Coaltown Township. He moved me right up to second string.'

"Although he wasn't playing much, Sabol was making progress. Until the night his father had dinner with the coach, and Jerry Carle said something about Steve doing well, but that you could count on boys from Coaltown Township doing well on a football field. 'What?' said Ed Sabol.

" 'I'd warned my father,' Steve said, 'but he let it slip out anyway. The coach just laughed. Everybody got a big laugh out of it.'

"Coaltown Township had power, all right, but it didn't have color. What Sabol needed the next year was something a little catchy, a hometown that program readers wouldn't forget. 'Possum Trot, Mississippi sounded good,' Steve said.

Cassius Clay Says He May Quit After Liston Bout

CHICAGO (AP) - Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay said Saturday he may retire from boxing after his return match with Sonny Liston.

If he does retire, Clay said in an interview with Chicago radio station WBBM; he may become a preacher.

And if he does he will preach in behalf of the Black Muslims.

Clay, known among fellow Muslims as Muhammad Ali, was married Friday to Sonji Roy, a former model.

The champion said they plan to stay in Chicago for three days. Then, he said they will go to Egypt where he will have a role in a biblical movie.

He plans to train there for his bout with Liston. No time or place has been fixed for the fight.

Clay said he expects the bout to be held within the next two months.

Mets Make Fourth Triple Play

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets, who made two errors on one play in the first inning, made three outs on one swing of the bat in the second inning as the National League leading Philadelphia Phillies pulled off the fourth triple play of the season Saturday night.

The Phillies tied a National League record by pulling off their second triple-killing of the year. They had executed one against Houston May 17.

The Mets had muffed an apparent inning-ending double play in the first inning when both second baseman Ron Hunt and first baseman Ed Kranepool threw wildly, and the Phillies responded by pushing across six runs. But, in the second, the Mets mounted a counter-offensive.

Chris Cannizzaro led off with a single and Roy McMillan followed with a double. At this point, John Boozer replaced starter Ray Culp. Met pitcher Jack Fisher singled off Boozer's glove as a run scored, leaving runners on first and second.

Bobby Klaus then lashed a liner back to Boozer, who grabbed it, threw to Ruben Amaro for an out at second and fired to first, where Frank Thomas beat Fisher back to the bag, completing the triple play.

The Mets weren't doing a good job of it, but they were trying to stave off elimination from the pennant race. Another loss would be No. 82, which would mean they could not finish above .500.

Phillies Purchase Bobby Shantz From Chicago

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Saturday they had bought veteran pitcher Bobby Shantz from the Chicago Cubs for cash and a player to be named by Oct. 15, or additional cash in lieu of a player.

General Manager John Quinn said Shantz, who will be 39 on Sept. 26, was to report to the Phils in time for Saturday night's game with the Mets at New York.

Shantz was acquited to give added depth to the National League leaders' bullpen staff in the final weeks' drive for the pennant.

Shantz, one of baseball's smallest pitchers, returns to the city where he enjoyed his great triumphs as the mighty mite of the Philadelphia Athletics of the American League before they shifted to Kansas City. He was a 24-game winner in 1952.

Since then Shantz has been with the New York Yankees, Washington Senators, Houston Colts and St. Louis Cardinals before landing a Chicago berth.

Browns Register Win Over Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Ram quarterback Frank Ryan fired four touchdown passes and Jim Ninowski connected for two more as the Cleveland Browns beat Los Angeles 56-31 Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

The Rams had massed to stop the running of fullback Jim Brown and fell victims to Ryan's brilliant throwing.

All of his strikes came in the first half when he piled up 267 yards on 13 completions in 18 attempts.

After making only a token appearance in the third period, Ryan gave way to Ninowski, who continued the furious passing pace.

Paul Warfield, an elusive rookie flanker back from Ohio State, caught two of Ryan's touchdown tosses and snagged one from Ninowski. Ryan also rifled two scoring throws to end Gary Collins.

Ninowski's second touchdown pass came on a play that covered 91 yards. From the Cleveland nine line he completed a short throw to end Clifton McNeil, who dodged past three Ram defenders and went all the way.

The Rams scored first, on a 32-yard field goal by Danny Villanueva, but the Browns retaliated with three touchdowns in the same quarter. One was a short burst up the middle by Brown, who saw little action in the second half.

After Ram quarterback Roman Gabriel was sidelined with a knee injury, Heisman Trophy winner Terry Baker drove the Rams to four touchdowns.

He completed 18 of 27 attempts for 260 yards, including four-and seven-yard touchdown passes to end Jim Phillips. The other Ram scores were on a one-yard smash by Carver Shannon and a 10-yard pass from Baker to Carroll Dale.

Belinsky's Attorney To Appeal Suspension

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pitcher Bo Belinsky, suspended from the Los Angeles Angels for throwing a punch at a sports writer, flew to Los Angeles from Washington, D.C., Saturday night.

Belinsky, 27, was met at International Airport by attorney Paul Caruso, who said they hope to appeal the suspension at a hearing before baseball's commissioner Ford Frick.

Angell Manager Bill Rigney suspended Belinsky Friday for allegedly striking Braven Dyer, 64, baseball writer for the Los Angeles Times. The incident reportedly occurred in Belinsky's Washington hotel room.

Caruso said he is certain Belinsky would be vindicated at a hearing.

Dyer, who had six stitches taken in his head as a result of the fracas, remained in Washington, where the Angels wind up a four-game stand Sunday.

Caruso said he was disappointed that Rigney had acted before hearing Belinsky's version of what happened in the hotel room in the early morning hours.

Caruso said Belinsky is wanted by a number of major league clubs but cannot take a job until his indefinite suspension is lifted.

"If they had fired me, that wouldn't have been so bad," Belinsky said. "This way I can't even play in Japan."

San Diego Defeats Oilers

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Fullback Keith Kinderman rammed three yards for a touchdown with 1:12 left Saturday night to bring San Diego Chargers from behind for a 44-38 victory over Houston in an American Football League exhibition game here.

Houston led 38-37 before Kinderman's run. The touchdown climaxed a 62-yard drive that began when San Diego end Earl Faison recovered a Houston fumble on the Charger 38.

The wild game was highlighted by a 104-yard touchdown run on the second half kickoff by the Oiler's Sid Blanks. The run put Houston back in the game after the Oilers were down 30-17 at the half.

San Diego quarterback John Hadl passed for three touchdowns in the first half and rolled up 192 yards in the air with 12 completions out of 18 passes.

Two of his touchdown heaves went to Dave Kocourek and one — for 49-yards — to flanker Lance Alworth who got 139 yards on nine receptions.

Then Hadl turned the helm over to Tobin Rote who directed two TD drives in the second half.

Houston quarterback George Blanda keyed the Oiler attack, kicking a field goal, passing for three touchdowns and rolling up 188 yards in the air on eleven completions of 23 throws.

Two Americans Win World Parachute Title

LEUTKIRCH, Germany (AP) —Tee Taylor of Dallas and Richard Fortenberry of Riverside, Calif., have won the individual titles at the world parachuting championships, it was announced Saturday.

Judges said they still were in the midst of completing their complicated scoring tabulations but that enough work had been done to show that the two Americans were the champions.

Miss Taylor is a 22-year old secretary. Fortenberry, 26, is a sergeant in the Air Force.

Speedy Scot Captures American Trotter Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Speedy Scot, America's premier trotter, hung up a world record of 2:31 2-5 for 1¼ miles Saturday night as he won the $50,000 American Trotting Championship at Roosevelt Raceway and qualified to meet Europe's best in the Roosevelt International.

Taking the lead after the field of seven had gone a little more than one-quarter mile, the 4-year-old son of Speedster from the Castleton Farm trotted in front the remainder of the way for a three-quarter length victory over Duke Rodney. Su Mac Lad, world's top money trotter, was third, another three-quarters of a length back.

The time, made under the guidance of Ralph Baldwin, clipped 1 1-5 seconds off the world standard held by Su Mac Lad and Porterhouse, who wound up fifth in the race. In next Saturday's $50,000 international over the same distance, Speedy Scot will join Su Mac Lad, the defending champion, against five and perhaps six European invaders.

After Su Mac Lad, driven by Stanley Dancer, had shown the way to the first quarter pole in 29 3-5 seconds with Speedy Scot third, the Castleton ace swung into the lead and easily tossed back every challenge. He trotted the one-half mile in 1:00 4-5, the three quarters in 1:30 4-5, the mile in 2:01 2-5 and wound up with a 30-second final quarter.

As the favorite of the crowd of 46,111, Speedy Scot paid $2.80, $2.50, and $2.20. Duke Rodney, driven by Billy Haughton for Mr. and Mrs. Pat Di Gennaro of Scottsville, N.Y., returned $3.20 and $2.50 Su Mac Lad, carrying the hopes of Irving Berkemeyer of New Milford, N.J., paid $2.50 to show.

Speedy Scot, winning his second major stake at Roosevelt in two weeks, earned $25,000 to boost his total bank account to $469,261 on 28 victories and one second in 24 starts.

Su Mac Lad picked up $6,000 for third to run his record bank roll to $789,199. The victory also gave Mr. and Mrs. Fred Van Lennep, owners of the Castleton, their third stakes triumph in two weeks at Roosevelt and winnings of $196,171.

Phillies Trample Faltering Mets Despite Triple Play

NEW YORK (AP)—The National League leading Philadelphia Phillies scored six runs in the first inning after New York made two errors on one play, then pulled off a triple play in the second inning and romped to an 8-1 victory over the Mets Saturday night.

The victory kept the Phillies' lead at four games over the San Francisco Giants.

At the same time, the Mets became the first team eliminated from pennant contention and accomplished that two days earlier than last year. The Mets have lost 82 games and cannot finish at .500 or above.

The Phillies put the game out of reach before New York came to bat. Tony Gonzalez led off with a single and Richie Allen beat out a bunt. One out later, Mets' starter Jack Fisher walked Wes Covington, filling the bases.

Clay Dalrymple then lined to second baseman Ron Hunt, who attempted to double Covington off first for the final out of the inning, but threw wildly. First baseman Ed Kranepool retrieved the errant peg and fired one of his own past catcher Chris Cannizzaro.

Two runs were in ,and singles by former Met Frank Thomas and Ruben Amaro produced two more before pitcher Ray Culp wrapped up the scoring with a two-run single.

The Mets loaded the bases in the first but couldn't score, then mounted another threat in the second when Cannizzaro singled and Roy McMillan doubled. John Boozer then replaced Culp. Fisher singled off Boozer's glove as Cannizzaro scored, but Boozer caught the next one to start the triple play.

Bobby Klaus lined one back the mound that Boozer grabbed, immediately spinning and throwing to Amaro at second to double off McMillan. Amaro then fired to first baseman Thomas, who beat Fisher back to the bag for out No. 3.

It was the fourth triple play of the season — all in the National League — and the second by the Phillies, tying the NL record. The Phillies executed a triple play against Houston, May 17.

The Phillies scored their final two runs in the third inning on a double by Thomas, Tony Taylor's triple and another throwing error by Hunt.

Before the night was over, Thomas collected another hit and Hunt another error, each winding up with three in the respective departments.

Houston Defeats Cincinnati, 7-4

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Aspromonte drove in four runs with four singles and right-hander Don Nottebart posted his third straight victory as the Houston Colts defeated the Cincinnati Reds 7-4 Saturday night.

Nottebart, 6-8, checked the Reds on six hits until Vada Pinson hit his second home run of the game, a two-run wallop in the eighth that cut the Colts' lead to 5-4. Hal Woodeshick relieved Nottebart and stopped the Reds the rest of the way.

Aspromonte's second run-scoring hit broke a 2-2 deadlock in the fifth. The Colts scored two more runs in the seventh against loser John Tsitouris, 7-10, and Ryne Duren, and two more in the eighth. Aspromonte drove in a run in each inning and singles by Bob Lillis and Joe Gaines delivered the other two.

The Colts scored single runs in the second and third innings off starter Joe Nuxhall. Jerry Grote singled home Carroll Hardy in the second and Aspromonte's first hit drove in Al Spangler in the third.

The Reds tied it in the fourth. Pinson led off with his 16th homer. Frank Robinson followed with a single and eventually scored on Johnny Edwards' sacrifice fly.

Indians Named Rosen Team's New Manager

CLEVELAND (AP) — Al Rosen, former slugging third baseman for the Cleveland Indians, with a year as Little League coach under his belt has been promoted to manager.

Rosen, 40, is a stockbroker when he isn't coaching the Eagles in a suburban Shaker Heights league for boys 10-12 years old. The Eagles had an undefeated 14-game season this year in winning the Junior A Class crown.

"Robbie, my 10-year-old son, told me I didn't have enough experience to manage," said Rosen. "He said I should coach a year first.

"The boys learned quickly. You don't teach them, you instruct them.

"We never held infield practice and I didn't hit fungoes to the outfielders. This doesn't help them learn what to do with the ball after they field it. And it's not much fun."

The graying ex-major leaguer said he emphasized practicing play situations.

"Trying to teach a kid to hit is a ridiculous waste of time," he continued. "I threw batting practice by the hour so the kids could learn naturally."

Ashley Wins Marathon Run In AAU Meet

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Richard Ashle of the Rochester Track Club easily won a 26-mile marathon run sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union Saturday.

Ashley, 23, was timed in 2 hours, 28 minutes and 55.6 seconds, nearly 10 minutes faster than runner-up Vincent Chiapetta of the New York Athletic Club. Paul Rossi of Watertown, Mass., was third.

Thirteen of the 39 starters, including Ashley's father, Clarence, failed to finish. The elder Ashley, 56, gave up after about 15 miles.

Ralph Boston Sets New Track Record

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Ralph Boston, the United States' top hope in the Olympic broad jump, equalled the world record with a leap of 27 feet 3¼ inches Saturday night in the Carreras Invitational track meet.

Boston matched the mark posted by Russia's Igor Ter-Ovanesyan on his third jump and bounded exultantly from the pit, waving his arms to the crowd.

Boston recently went 27-5½ in the U.S. Olympic trials at New York's Randalls' Island, but was aided by a trailing wind too great to make the leap eligible for record consideration.

Morgan Groth, of Oregon State, ripped off the fastest half mile in the world this year, 1:46.4, in a paper-thin victory over George Kerr of Jamaica in the 880 yard run.

Yankees Smack Down American Leaders With Win Over Orioles

By GORDON BEARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — The New York Yankees smacked down the American League-leading Baltimore Orioles 8-1 Saturday night with a potent 11-hit attack that included two-run homers by Roger Maris and Phil Linz.

Linz, a Baltimore native, also collected three singles while driving in four runs and scoring three.

The aroused, third-place Yanks, who had lost 10 of 16 games against Baltimore, moved to within 3½ games of the Orioles with a stern reminder they are still in the race. Baltimore maintained its three-game margin over the runner-up Chicago White Sox, who lost 5-3 to Boston.

Linz singled and scored runs in the first and third innings off loser Dave McNally, rapped a two-run single off Dave Vineyard in the fourth and homered off Vineyard in the sixth.

Prior to Saturday's game, Linz had knocked in only 14 runs in 250 times at bat.

Jim Bouton, who had lost four of five previous decisions to the Orioles, hurled a steady five-hitter. The Orioles scored on Brooks Robinson's 19th homer in the second.

The only other Oriole runner to advance past first was Sam Bowns, who doubled and moved to third on a ground out in the fifth.

Linz scored on Maris' 19th homer in the first inning and rode home on a double by Mickey Mantle in the third. Mantle, who jammed his left knee Friday, was removed in the fifth inning and given whirlpool treatments.

The Yankee attack also included doubles by Elston Howard and Clete Boyer, preceding Linz' homer in the sixth.

For the second night in a row, Baltimore's single-game attendance record was broken as 47,987 fans watched the second of a three-game set which concludes Sunday.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Alan Simpson outran Witold Baran of Poland in the stretch Saturday and won the 1,500- meter feature of a two-day international track meet at White City Stadium.

Minnesota Bombs Indians, 9-3

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Catcher Jerry Zimmerman drove in four runs with single and double, leading the Minnesota Twins to a 9-3 victory over Cleveland Saturday.

The Twins put it out of reach quickly, bombarding rookie Luis Tiant for five runs in the first two innings, and then held on behind Dick Stigman.

Stigman survived a three-run first and shut out the Indians the rest of the way, bringing his record to 6-11 with his first victory since July 3.

The Twins scored two runs off Tiant, now 5-2, in the first on Tony Oliva's double and Harmon Killebrew's grounder, and then kayoed him in the second. Three singles, a double and a wild pitch by reliever Sam McDowell, who took over with two out, produced three runs.

Zimmerman batted in three runs with a bases-clearing double in the seventh when the Twins scored four times against reliever Jack Kralick. Minnesota's 11-hit attack included six doubles.

The Indians combined three singles and two errors, one by Stigman, for their three runs in the first.

Dodgers Slip Past Cardinals, 4-3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nate Oliver raced home from third base while another man was being picked off first, giving the Los Angeles Dodgers the run they need for a 4-3 victory over St. Louis Saturday.

The Dodgers, trailing 3-1 after six innings, came up with three runs in the seventh, Oliver scoring the last one while Dick Tracewski was being run down after being caught off first.

Tracewski had knocked in the first two runs of the rally with a bad-bounce single past shortstop Dick Groat.

Bob Gibson had allowed the Dodgers only two hits after six, but Frank Howard and John Roseboro singled with one away in the seventh and a walk to Oliver loaded the bases.

Tracewski's single scored Howard and pinch runner Wes Parker and sent Oliver to third.

Gibson, charged with all four Dodger runs, suffered his 10th loss in 20 decisions. Joe Moeller worked seven innings for the Dodgers allowing five hits and three runs, and picked up his seventh victory against 11 defeats.

Two walks and a single by Dick Groat put the Cards ahead 1-0 in the first inning. They made it 3-0 in the third on singles by Curt Flood, Lou Brock and Bill White and a sacrifice fly by Ken Boyer.

The Dodgers got their first run in the fourth. Wills opened with a single, Jim Gilliam walked and they pulled a double steal. Then Willie Davis walked and Wills scored on a sacrifice fly by Ron Fairly.

First Inning Uprising Nets Tigers 5-1 Win Over A's

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Rookie right-hander Dennis McLain, backed by a three-run first inning uprising, checked Kansas City on three hits Saturday night in the Detroit Tigers' 5-1 victory over the Athletics.

McLain gave up a lead-off home run to Rocky Colavito in the second inning and then blanked the A's on two singles enroute to his third victory in six decisions.

Jerry Lumpe started the first inning rally with a one-out single and stopped at third on Al Kaline's double. Lumpe and Kaline scored on a single by Gates Brown, who then stole second. Bill Freehan's single delivered Brown and knocked out KC starter Diego Segui.

The Tigers added a pair of unearned runs in the seventh on Don Wert's double, a walk, an error by reliever Ken Sanders, a wild pitch and Kaline's sacrifice fly.

Giants Edge Braves, 8-7; Close NL Standings Gap

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Duke Snider's pinch-single in the eighth inning brought in the winning run Saturday as San Francisco edged Milwaukee 8-7 after blowing a six-run lead.

The victory moved the Giants 3½ games behind the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies, who played a night game at New York.

Snider's single, a soft liner to center, followed a 410-foot triple by Jim Hart that greeted Bob Sadowski, the fourth Milwaukee pitcher.

The Braves had erased a six-run Giant lead and moved ahead 7-6 on two-run homers by Ed Matthews an Henry Aaron in a five-run fourth inning.

Both homers came off Jim Duffalo, who relieved starter Ron Herbel in the fourth with two on, none out and the Giants leading 6-2.

A run scored on two long outfield fly outs his 17th homer and Aaron's 21st homer, following a bunt single by Ty Cline, put the Braves in the lead.

But Orlando Cepeda hit his 22nd homer in the fifth with none on off Chi Chi Olivo.

Conley Wins Tourney

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Peggy Conley of Spokane, Wash., finally broke the runner-up habit Saturday and won the 16th annual junior girls championship of the U.S. Golf Association.

Miss Conley turned the front nine in an even par 35 in defeating Laura MacIvor of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., 6 and 5.

The winner, runner-up last year in both the junior girls and the women's amateur tournaments, started her runaway victory by grabbing the 1st, 5th, 6th and 8th holes, making the turn at 4 up.

She birdied No. 10 and clinched the title on the 13th by dropping a par putt.

"It was getting tiresome being runner-up," Miss Conley said on accepting her trophy.

The 17-year-old girl had never won a major championship before. Besides her two second-places last year, she also placed second in the women's Western junior tournament in Waukegan, Ill., last week.

It was the second year in a row that Miss MacIvor had lost to the eventual champion. In 1963, she dropped a quarter-final match to Janis Ferraris of San Francisco, who later won. This year Miss Ferraris lost out in the quarter-final.

A cold putter proved to be the loser's downfall. She missed a four-footer on No. 1, a three-footer on No. 5 and on two other holes her putts stopped on the lip of the cup.

Sky-Divers to Be Highlight of Show In Annual Prospect Skiing Tourney

There will be an added treat for the spectators at the sixth annual Prospect Lake Boat Club's Water Ski Tournament this next Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 22-23, as the sport parachute club of Ft. Carson will present a sky-diving exhibition into the middle of the lake during next Sunday's performance.

Taking part in the parachute show will be Cecil Brewer and Paul Zeisler of Ft. Carson, who will jump from an airplane from an altitude of 7,500 feet above the water in Prospect Lake.

The jumpers will make a "Free fall" for 30 seconds before they open their chutes at 2,200 feet over the water.

This event is schedueld for about 1:30-2 p.m., in the middle of the regular water ski show. All other activities at the lake will stop at this time to allow a clear target for the jumpers. Weather will be a prominent facor, however, for they will not be able to jump if there ia a wind of 15 m.p.h. or more.

There will be three pick-ups on the lake, but all others will have to be on the shore. The boats will make a circle and the jumpers will land in the center of this circle, then be given water skis and will ski to the shore.

There will also be the regular events of this yearly ski tournament, with competition in slalom, tricks and jumping to all age brackets in both the Pro Division (in which one and all can enter) and the Novice Division (for those who have never won one of the top three places in the event in any show).

Tournament director this year is Bob Hockaday and chief judge will be Dick Titus. Although this will not be an AWSA sanctioned meet, their rules will be followed as closely as possible. The entry deadline is this Thursday, Aug. 20, and late entries will be assessed an additional fee.

The first event this next Saturday is scheduled to start at 7 a.m. and they will be run off as fast as conditions will permit, running all the slalom, then the tricks, and followed by the jumping in eight divisions.

Sunday's events will start at 11 a.m. with the boat races. This is a state-wide race, open to anyone. Registration will be accepted up to race time, and plans call for at least six races.

In addition, a hydroplane exhibition is slated and there will be a behind-a-boat surfing show.

The water ski show will begin Sunday at 1 p.m. with acts in barefoot skiing, saucers, shoe pyramids, toboggan races, exhibition jumping and tricks and many clown acts.

The sky-diving by parachute will be the highlight of Sunday's acts, put on by Brewer who has made 150 jumps and Zeisler with 250 jumps.

Both men are ex-paratroopers and have jumped throughout the United States. Brewer has made numerous jumps into the mountains of California, his home state, and Zeisler is a member of the All-American Sport Parachute Team and has jumped with the "Golden Knights," the Army's precision jump team at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

In free fall, they will descend at a rate of 120 miles per hour or one mile every 30 seconds. To add color to Sunday's jump, the men will carry colored smoke with them during the fall to aid spectators in watching them come down.

The public is invited to attend the two-day show without charge. Ample parking facilities are available, and the events can be seen from every part of the lake shore.

IN NEXT SUNDAY'S SHOW — These ski-divers shown making a free fall from more than 7,000 feet above the ground will be the highlight of next Sunday's annual Prospect Lake Boat Club's Water Ski Tournament. The parachute team from Ft. Carson will dive into the middle of the lake, then put on water skis and ski to shore. In addition, there will be a complete schedule of water skiing events both Saturday and Sunday and the show is open to the public. (U.S. Army Photo)

Red Sox Topple Chicago

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

Boston (AP) — The Boston Red Sox turned on Chicago Saturday and rode Felix Mantilla's three-run homer to a 5-2 victory over the pennant-hopeful White Sox.

The loss for the second-place White Sox, who had won 13 of 16 previous games with Boston, dropped them 3½ games behind American League leading Baltimore. The Orioles met the New York Yankees in a night game.

The Red Sox, losers of 12 of their last 13 games, landed on rookie Fred Talbot for four runs in the second inning.

Two singles, a walk, a force and Russ Nixon's sacrifice fly preceded Mantilla's smash into the left field screen, his 20th homer and second in as many games off White Sox pitching.

Mantilla, the veteran utility-man of six positions currently operating at second base, also had a double and single and scored twice. He was thrown out at second trying to stretch a hit off the wall in the first inning but responded with the big homer his next trip.

Right-hander Dave Morehead conquered early wildness for his seventh victory, although he needed late relief help from Dick Radatz.

Over the first four innings, Morehead walked six but the White Sox stranded seven runners. One walk came home to haunt him when Jim Landis tripled in the fourth. J.C. Martin singled for a run in the second.

Morehead had a four-hitter going through seven innings when he developed a blister on his pitching hand and had to be replaced.

Pirate Rally Tops Cubs, 5-4

CHICAGO (AP) — Bob Bailey raced home from third on Donn Clendenon's infield single in the nineth inning, bringing the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Bailey singled to open the ninth, moved to second on a single by Manny Mota and, two outs later, advanced to third on a wild pitch by reliever Lindy McDaniel.

Clendenon then hit a grounder into the shortstop hole. Andre Rodgers grabbed the ball and threw to third in an attempt to get Mota before Bailey crossed the plate. Mota, however, was safe and Bailey scored the clincher.

A battle of homers preceded the decisive rally.

Billy Williams and Billy Cowan each hit two-run homers in a four-run fourth inning that put the Cubs ahead 4-3. But the Pirates tied it in the fifth, chasing Dick Ellsworth when singles by Roberto Clemente and Jerry Lynch and a sacrifice fly by Clendenon produced a run.

The Pirates had pulled ahead 2-0 in the first inning on homers by Bailey and Clemente, then added another run in the third on two walks sandwiched around a double by Mota and a sacrifice fly by Luncy.

Reliever Al McBean, taking over in the eighth, recorded his seventh victory of the season and 10th straight without a loss. It was McBean's 40th appearance of the season and gave him a string of 60 games without a defeat.

RMKC Oval Opens Season Aug. 22

Amperex and Cleveland's Choice, two great names in greyhound racing on the Colorado Springs' Rocky Mountain Kennel Club's oval in past seasons have been registered in for the 1964 meet, according to Frank Jones, RMKC's racing secretary.

The 1964 RMKC season opens next Saturday, (Aug. 22nd, with the running of the 16th Annual Inaugural Classic, the event in which Cleveland's Choice took the show honors in 1963. Cleveland's Choice is still holder of the time record for the RMKC Peak Course of 1.710 feet which he coursed in 31.90 on Sept. 4th of last season. The 1963 meet was the first season in which the Peak Course had been used. This greyhound from Mrs. Frank Hall's Summit Kennels broke a dozen times from the RMKC boxes last season and was in the money on ten finishes.

Joe Mamino's Amperex broke in on the RMKC oval in 1962 and was the favorite of many fans during that meet. Amperex did not race at RMKC last year. Joe Mamino has furnished many of the leading greyhounds on the RMKC oval in past seasons.

Of the twenty kennels that have been booked into RMKC for the up-coming meet, five are new to local fans. These are Oscar Evers, Frank Pierce, Carl Tracy, Frank Whitehead and the Huron Kennels.

Seven kennels presently racing at Pueblo, which closes on next Wednesday, will be racing at RMKC. They are Cecil W. Wilson, Paul George, Paul Sutherland, Star Club, Shamrock, and George Murphey.

Others rounding out the 1964 RMKC roster and returning to the RMKC meet from the past season are Mrs. Frank Hall's Summit Kennel, F. B. Stutz, Kenneth C. Smith, L. B. Hughes, Cen-Tex, Alderson and Lentz, Don Abernathy and G. A. Alderson.

Fans attending RMKC this season will see many improvements as they watch their favorite canines circle the local oval. General Manager Al Binns lists them as a new Tote Board that is operated electronically from the main calculating room and which will allow ten and even twelve changes in odds information for each race. Closed circuit TV monitors have been placed in each of the three wagering areas so that patrons approaching the mutuels windows may see the constantly changing odds. The parking lot has been re-surfaced and the main floor of the grandstand area has been tiled.

The greyhound racing itself will see two major changes as RMKC presents for the first time the fabulous Twin Quin and 11 races each night, (excepting Sunday when no racing is held). Eleven race programs in past seasons have been presented only on Friday, Saturday and Monday nights and 10 races have been the custom on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

RMKC's official schooling races are being held nightly through Friday, Aug. 21st, at p.m. each evening. Weigh-in for the greyhounds is at 7 p.m. There is no admission charge for the schooling races and everyone, regardless of age is welcome to attend. However, when the official racing season at RMKC opens on Saturday, Aug. 22nd, no minors will be admitted to the RMKC track.

RMKC is located north of downtown Colorado Springs on the highway to Denver. City bus service will be available from downtown Colorado Springs when the meet officially opens as well as special bus service from Pueblo and Denver direct to the track.

Post time for official racing, beginning Aug. 22nd, will be 8 p.m.

Runaway Boy's Body Buried at Woodland, Calif.

WOODLAND, Calif. (UPI) — An 11-year-old runaway boy who died in a refrigerated railroad box car as it rolled across the United States was buried Saturday in a simple ceremony outside this quiet northern California city.

The family of Ramon Gutierrez filed past his casket and sprinkled dirt in the form of a cross in an old Mexican burial custom before it was lowered into the grave.

Ramon disappeared from his prune orchard home near here July 29. His body was found last Monday huddled in a railroad car loaded with melons in Hialeah, Fla.

The story of the runaway boy's struggle to free himself as the locked car rolled 3,000 miles across the country and his lonely death stirred Floridans to help in the only way they could.

They saved him from a pauper's burial in Miami by raising funds to return his body home and pay for the funeral.

Play It by Ear In Hunting For Apartment

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Apartment hunting? Play it by ear.

Although apartment dwellers rate noise as one of the chief annoyances in living in multi-family buildings, most of them don't find out about it until they move in.

The family arguing next door, the clatter of children in the hallway, the rattling of pipes in the apartment overhead, the blare of the television set across the corridor are nuisances that are hard to live with day-in-day-out.

Therefore, it behooves apartment hunters to use their ears as well as their eyes, D. W. Ladd, Jr., vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., suggests.

Ladd, whose firm has been conducting research into noise control for homes and apartments, has some tips on apartment hunting by ear:

Learn the apartment layout plan for the building you are interested in. Preferably, apartments should be designed on the mirror plan, with the bathroom of one apartment adjoining that of the next; the kitchen of one backing on the kitchen of the adjacent apartment, etc.

While this won't guarantee less noise, Ladd said, it does lessen the likelihood of your neighbor's normal activities disturbing you.

Take along a portable radio and a friend. Have your companion, in the bedroom with door closed, play the radio at different volume levels while you listen from other rooms. An adequately sound - conditioned apartment should muffle the radio.

Then send your friend into the hallway with the radio. If the hall has been built with noise suppression in mind, you should not be disturbed.

Check to see that doors are staggered along the corridor so that noise from one area will not pass directly across into another area. Inspect the door of your apartment to see that it is air-tight. For optimum acoustical performance, doors should be sealed at the top and sides with a soft weather stripping, Ladd said.

Try knocking on the door to determine its construction. Hollow core doors will allow hall and elevator noise to carry into the apartment more readily than solid wood core doors or doors of mineral core.

Windows should be far enough apart so that cross-talk will not carry from an open window into one in the next room or apartmember, Ladd said, the bigger the transmission of noise, although thicker glass diminishes this noise factor a bit. Sound absorbing curtains and draperies also will help cut noise.

Run the shower, flush the toilet and operate the garbage disposal unit and other kitchen appliances. This will give a good idea of what to expect in the way of plumbing noise. Whistling noises indicate pipes too small to carry their water load, while vibrating and clattering pipes usully point to unsatisfactory insulation from the apartment walls.

Have a companion pound on the wall in one room while you listen from an adjacent room. Properly contructed walls will not transmit the thumping to an irritating degree.

Check switches, plugs and appliances for small openings through which noise may leak. Even a well designed apartment can be noisy if small measures are overlooked.

While on your way in or out of the apartment building, take the opportunity to notice whether the building itself is quiet or subject to incinerator noises, hall doors which are loose and banging and noisy elevator doors.

Look for an apartment after work or on the weekend. You will get a truer picture of the noises to expect, since your neighbors will be at home.

If you like an apartment even though it doesn't rate high on this list, Ladd suggest you request a noise amendment in your lease that will give you an out should the noise prove greater than you can take.

Look carefully at the lease itself. Requirements for covering space with carpeting may be a per centage of the floor space with carpeting may be there to cover up noise problems in building.

Not every building will pass this test, but even in one that does, Ladd emphasized, tenant cooperation is a must. Carefully considered use of draperies, carpeting and furniture upholstered with sound - absorbing materials plus consideration for one's neighbors helps contribute to tranquil apartment life.

U.S. Production Soaring With Economic Boom

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economic boom passed new milestones last month as factory production scored an 11th consecutive advance and the government reported a breakthrough in the fight against unemployment.

Industrial production for July was 5½ per cent higher than a year ago and stood at 132.7 on the Federal Reserve Board's index of factory and mine output that uses 100 for the 1957-59 period as a base.

The Labor Department, analyzing employment and unemployment figures for the first seven months of 1964, reported that employment during the period averaged 1.6 million above 1963 levels. At the same time the labor force increased by an average of only 1.4 million.

"Recent improvements appear to have broken the 10-year uptrend in unemployment," the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics concluded.

Last week, the bureau had put the July jobless rate at a seasonally adjusted figure of 4.9 per cent — the first time in 4½ years the rate dropped below 5 per cent.

The average unemployment rate for the first seven months of 1964, the bureau said, was 5.3 per cent, compared with 5.7 per cent during the same period last year.

Automobile production continued at a record level, although there were some cutbacks in preparation for the annual model changeover.

Actress Rescues Relative

MOSCOW (UPI) — Hollywood actress Ruta Lee left the soviet Union Friday with her 90-year-old grandmother, putting a happy ending to 10 years of weary efforts to win her release.

But a last minute mixup nearly snarled their plans. Officials said they couldn't find the grandmother's exit papers.

"They told me they rad no record of grandma's exit visa," the pretty blonde told newsmen. "It really scared the hell out of me.

"But then I called the American Embassy. They called the Soviet Foreign Ministry. And then the visa finally turned up."

Chaplain Defends Words In Racial Issue Play

GENEVA (AP) — The Rev. Malcolm Boyd, Episcopal chaplain of Wayne State University, said Friday his play on racial prejudice used some objectionable words only to illustrate "the kind of terms employed by racial bigots."

In a press statement, Boyd said criticism of the play by The Rt. Rev. Richard S. Emrich, bishop of the Detroit Diocese, must have been due to a misunderstanding.

Boyd is lecturing here to a seminary course of the World Council of Churches. He formerly served as chaplain at Colorado State University.

"I plan to return shortly to the United States and very much hope to discuss the situation with Bishop Emrich," he said.

He described his play, entitled "Boy," as the study of an encounter between a Negro and a white man.

"The white man expressed his hostility toward the Negro because of racial prejudice. In his anger, the white man uses the two words 'nigger' and 'damn'. Presumably these are the words which have led to the misunderstanding.

"As one who is deeply involved in the civil rights struggle, I used these words as examples of the kind of terms employed by racial bigots."

Although banned by the Michigan State University educational television station, Boyd said, the play was being presented by educational and religious groups throughout the United States.

CRASH KILLS FOUR

SEOUL (UPI) — A U. S. military spokesman said Saturday two Army officers and two enlisted men were killed Friday in the crash of a helicopter 165 miles south of here.

The CH-37-B crashed after one of its rotors was damaged when the craft flew too close to a mountainside.

Miller Promises GOP Candidates Help for All

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican vice presidential nominee William E. Miller promised today he and Sen. Barry Goldwater "will give all the help we can" to every GOP candidate who seeks a hand from the national ticket.

And he said Republican senators, representatives and governors who want to serve effectively can do it best by backing the national ticket.

The New York congressman's forum was a meeting of Republican state chairmen and finance chiefs from the 50 states.

"I am not here today to preach harmony between any so-called factions of the Republican party because I know it isn't necessary," Miller said in his prepared pep talk.

Then, both affirming Republican solidarity and taking a poke at President Johnson, Miller said "Republicans all over the country who want to defeat Gentleman Bird in November" already have united.

The taunting reference to the President was a play on Mrs. Johnson's familiar nickname—Lady Bird — and their older daughter's name — Lynda Bird

And the claim of Republican solidarity follows efforts by Goldwater and Miller to swing all Republicans who opposed the senator's nomination behind his drive for the White House.

But there are still several holdouts, including Sens. Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits of New York.

Miller was the leadoff speaker at a closed session that was to hear also from Goldwater and GOP National Chairman Dean Burch.

In private meetings expected to last all day, the state and national party leaders are talking about strategy for the campaign ahead and also about how to pay for it.

Campaign sources say the price tag on Goldwater's bid for the White House will run to more than $12 million.

TRIAL SET

DENVER (UPI)—Dist. Judge Henry Santo Friday set trial for Jan. 4, 1965, for the last of Denver's police officers charged with burglary. The officer, patrolman John Bates, 55, was charged with burglary and conspiracy in an unsuccessful safe-cracking attempt Oct. 5, 1959. An earlier trial was dismissed in July of 1963 by Dist. Judge Mitchel Johns on grounds the case was not brought to trial within two terms of court or within one year filing of the criminal information. The Supreme Court reversed the decision on grounds Bates caused the delay.

INSULATION TESTER — Western Electrodynamics' insulation tester is an instrument designed to measure accurately electrical insulation quality with complete safety as to operator and equipment even though very high voltages are utilized. Its design is unique in this respect since absolute safety is achieved without degradation of measuring accuracy. It is capable of full automation for production line testing. It is also offered in portable versions for use in testing of cables and other equipment at remote locations.

Western Electrodynamics Business Outlook Bright

Business is looking up for Western Electrodynamics according to a report made by company officials today.

Since the beginning of the year the company has acquired numerous industrial orders and 14 government contracts with an aggregate value approaching one and one-half million dollars.

Fiscal 1964 sales and shipments are expected to be nearly four times those realized in fiscal 1963. The company is well financed through ownership of the majority of its common stock by Midwest Oil Corporation, Denver, Colorado.

It now has a complement of well qualifitd managers with long experience in products and equipment of the type being produced.

Its current backlog of military contracts includes a battlefield radio for Army ground troops, a miss-distance indicator for Navy Missile programs, several electronic sub-assemblies for the Army NIKE anit-aircraft missile program, and several amplifier and power supply assemblies for airborne navigation and missile launching systems.

Wtstern Electrodynamics, Inc., 707 Hathaway Dr., is an integrated electronics and electro-mechanical manufacturing company currently engaged in both industrial and military production.

Its industrial product line includes fault sensing and recording equipment for electrical utilities; sophisticated sensitive radio receivers for atmospheric research; central monitoring equipment for burglar alarm and fire alarm systems; insulation testers for electrical and electronic production verification, and electronic weighing defices.

The 30,000 square feet plant, of one story masonry construction, is well equipped for a company of its size, having a full complement of machine shop equipment, assembly tooling, as well as welders, paintshop, woodshop, etc.

During the past several months employment has increased about 50 per cent with another 50 per cent increase planned later in the year.

As a part of this expansion, additional engineering personnel have been brought in to strengthen the technical aspects of the company.

From the base now established, the company expects to become the dominant U. S. producer of automatic oscillographs and ionospheric radio research receivers as well as to increase its penetration of the government electronics market.

Officials report that sales for fiscal 1964 are expected to be in excess of one million dollars and are further projected to increase to two and one-half million dollars in fiscal 1965.

Floor space and other plant capacity are adequate to absorb this increase in volume. Additional assembly workers will be required, however.

The company was incorporated in April 1960 under the laws of the State of Colorado.

In January of this year the company expanded into government electronic production work. It is a stockholder-owned corporation and does business both directly and through manufacturers representatives in all 50 states and in 31 foreign countries. Major customers are electric utilities, scientific institutions, government agencies, and oher industrial concerns.

The company banks with the Exchange National Bank of Colorado Springs which has placed Mr. Grover Scott, vice president, in charge of the account.

G. H. Teeter assumed the presidency of Western Electrodynamiss in November of 1963. He had previously been associated with Hoffman Electronics Corporation of Los Angeles as group vice president, and subsequently, as vice president and general manager of the Military Products Division. Prior to his association with Hoffman, he was associated with Martin Marietta Corporation in the Martin Denver Division in various capacities ranging from director of ground base electronics to assistant general manager. Previous associations were with Convair, Fort-Worth Division, Northrup Corporation, and Harvey Aluminum Corporation. Teeter has spent his entire career essentially in the electronics industry.

He lives with his wife, Mary, and their four sons at 2435 Ceresa Lane.

Other company management include:

Thomas T. Sorrels, director of engineering, who holds an electrical engineering degree from Southern Methodist University and has done graduate work there and at the University of Utah. He has 18 years of electronics experience with Hughes, Thiokol, and others. At one time he operated his own company in the local area. Sorrels resides with his family in Woodland Park.

F. A. Wirth, director of marketing, holds an electical engineering degree from the University of Illinois and a master of business administration degree from Xavier University. Additionally, he has done graduate work at Denver and Texas Christian Universities. He has more than 15 years experience in sales, engineering, and marketing in both military and commercial fields with several national concerns. Wirth, with his wife Dorles and three children, lives in the city.

William De Wolfe, director of purchasing, has nine years experience in the purchasing field, during the last six of which he was purchasing manager for an electronics division of a national aerospace concern. Mr. DeWolfe and his family live in Denver.

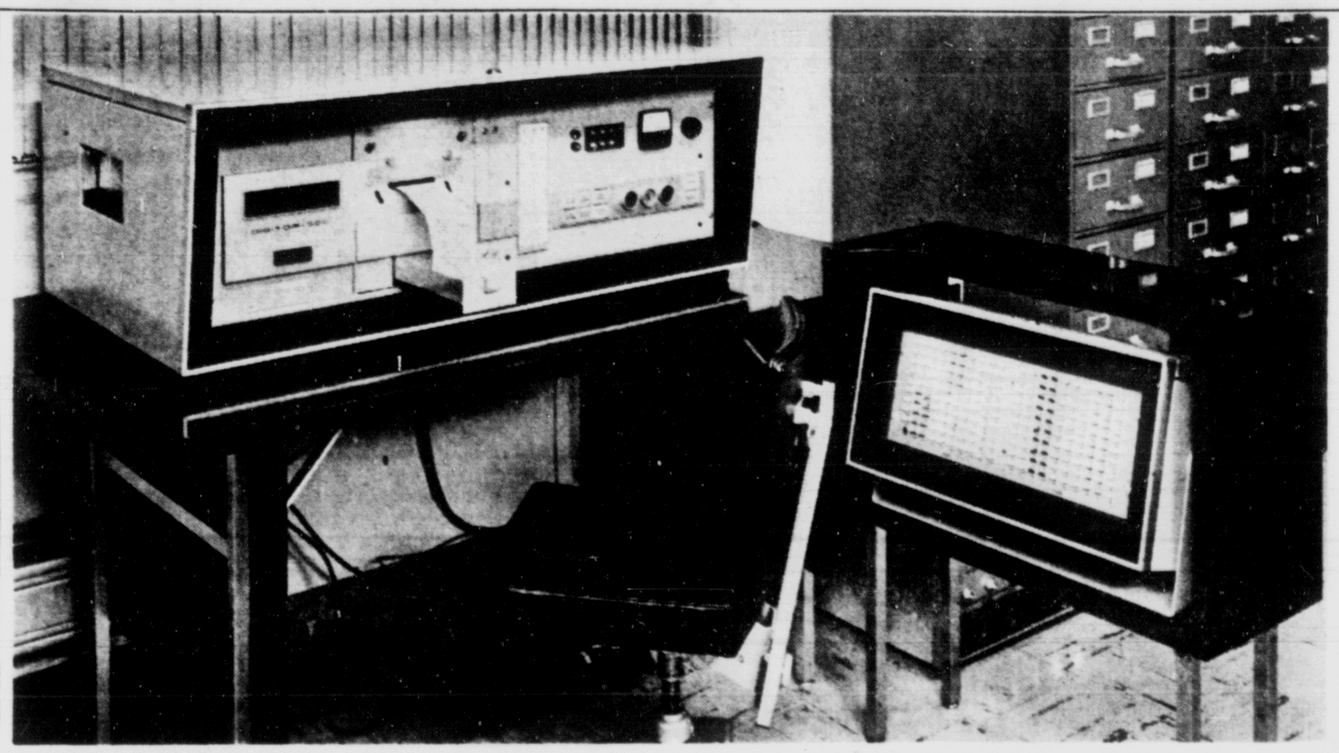
Robert L. Knecht, director of finance, who is also assistant treasurer of the company, has an undergraduate degree in business as well as a law degree from Chase Institute. He has more than 15 years experience as an attorney, engaged in government contract law, and in positions of financial responsibility, with several national aerospace and electronics concerns. He has been admitted to the bar in Colorado and Ohio. He has also been authorized to practice before the supreme courts of both states as well as the Supreme Court of the United States. Knecht resides in Academy Estates with his wife, Lorraine, and their five children.

Jack Lenhart, director of manufacturing, has 20 years experience in the electronics manufacturing field. He is trained as a manufacturing engineer with subsequent experience in materiel control, quality control, production control, and electronics fabrication techniques. Leniart lives in the city and is in the process of moving his family here also.

Mr. Norman E. Harvey, director of quality control, has 7 years experience in the electronic and electro-mechanical field, both military and commercial. He has been closely associated with the design and evaluation of the company's Fault Recorder and has served as Field Service Engineer. Mr. Harvey resides in the city with his wife, Mary Jane, and their two children.

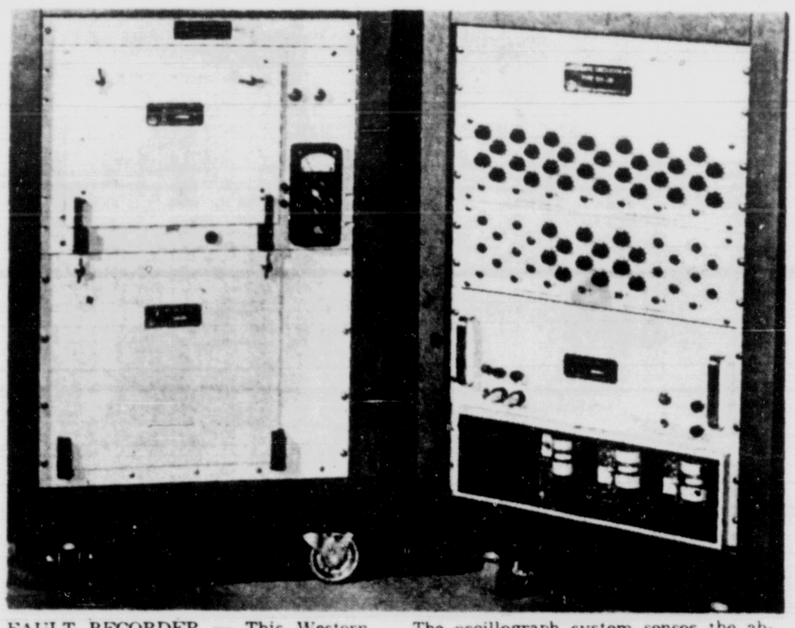
NO OFFICIAL RECORD

It has always remained a matter of conjecture as to where George and Martha Washington were married as there is no official record as to whether it was at the White House, at the home of the widow Custis or at nearby Saint Peter's Church.

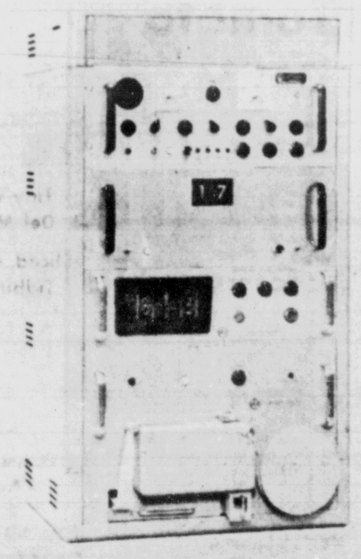


DIGITOR MONITORING SYSTEM — Western Electrodynamics telecommunications system can provide data acquisition, monitoring, comparison, and remote control functions for up to 1000 remote data sources. It can serve a large variety of potential users. In its most basic form it provides significant cost and manpower savings as well as enhanced reliability for operators of centralized burglar alarm and fire alarm monitoring systems. A unit of this type has been installed in the Denver Burglar Alarm Company since September, 1963. It has been on the line and operating continuously since that time without a single operational malfunction. One of the channels it is monitoring is a burglar alarm installed in Colorado Springs department store. The alarm is connected to the central monitor in Denver by a radio link provided by Western Union Telegraph. The system is adaptable to centralized credit and check cashing verification, customer billing for operations such as doctors and dentists, and flow measurement and control for oil fields, gas fields, pipelines, and flood control and water conservation systems.

WESTERN ELECTRODYNAMIC BUILDING—This is a front view of the plant which is located at 707 Hathaway Dr., in Dynamics Park, near the airport. The 30,000 square foot building is equipped with a rather complete compliment of general purpose machines as well as a number of high precision Swedish machine tools. It has a complete assortment of equipment such as ozalid, multilith and process camera equipment.



FAULT RECORDER — This Western Electrodynamics fault recorder is a multi-channel oscillograph used for sensing and recording electric power system abnormalities. It has a unique fast actuating drive system which brings the recording paper up to constant recording speed in 1/300th of a second—about the same time it takes for the shutter to operate in a good camera. In use, the system is attached to the utility company's power lines. It rests in a quiescent state until an abnormality, such as a current overload, a broken power line, etc., appears on the power lines. The oscillograph system senses the abnormality, starts the recorder, makes a record of the existing power line data, shuts itself off, and resets to be ready for the next abnormality. This equipment has potential use in all electric power systems in the U.S. and throughout the world. From the recorded data, power system engineers are able to analyze the cause of the abnormality, its basic type, its approximate probable location, and what is necessary to effect a repair before dispatching men and equipment to the site.



IONOSPHERIC EQUIPMENT — Western Electrodynamics produces two types of scientific radio receivers. The one shown here is a single channel receiver called Riometer. It is a highly sensitive receiver combined with a precise local reference system and an accurate measuring system. It is used to monitor, measure and record low level atmospheric noise relativity. These measurements have high correlation with sun spot activity, solar flares and other atmospheric electromagnetic disturbances.

SDC Building Completion Slated for November

By DICK MOORE
Gazette Telegraph
Business Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three story installments concerning the new System Development Control Corporation building being erected on Union Printer Home grounds — the story of system development control and lastly biographies of the company's officers.

Instruments capable of tracking hurtling satellites through the blackness of space, detecting the sound of faraway, attacking aircraft, or charting, in a fraction of a second, the path of an approaching missile, must be maintained and operated by skilled technicians.

Such equipment must first be activated and technicians trained to use it. Such equipment is now in operation in the Colorado Springs area and men charged with the responsibility of its activation and the training of technicians who man it are part of the System Development Control Corporation. They will occupy a new 25,000 square foot building being erected on two acres of the Union Printers Home property.

The building will contain 110 rooms, movable partitions, suspended ceiling, a non-glare lighting and difuser system and air conditioning. The building is to be one story initially but is designed for a second story addition when the need arises. Exteriorwise the building is composed of brick and a prestressed concrete roof. There will be an asphalted parking space for approximately 160 cars.

To be completed at an estimated $500,000 cost, the building was designed by C. Dewey King, local architect, and is being built by Becker Davis Contractors 1230 Kingsley Dr., of Colorado Springs and Dallas, Tex. Becker Davis also built and leased the Burroughs $600,000, 50,000 square foot building and are now builders of homes in the Austin Estates No. 2, a 100-home development project.

Gene A. Becker of Dallas and Berry Davis of Colorado Springs began business locally in 1960 and have been associated in business together for the past 10 years.

The Union Printer Home has leased the building ground to the Becker Davis Company. Under terms of the agreement the Home will receive $3,600 a year for each of 10 years in rental payments.

At the end of the 10-year period, Becker and Davis has options to renew the lease for nine following periods of five years each with the condition that the Home will receive payment of $3,600 each year or 10 per cent of the gross income received by the contracting company in rentals, whichever figure is higher.

At the end of the 55-year maximum period, all remaining buildings on the property will then belong to the Home.

Completion date of the current building under construction is November of this year.

Red Tides Again Strike Beaches of South California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They call them red tides, and this year they are worse than at any time in the past two decades along Southern California beaches, say oceanographers and lifeguards.

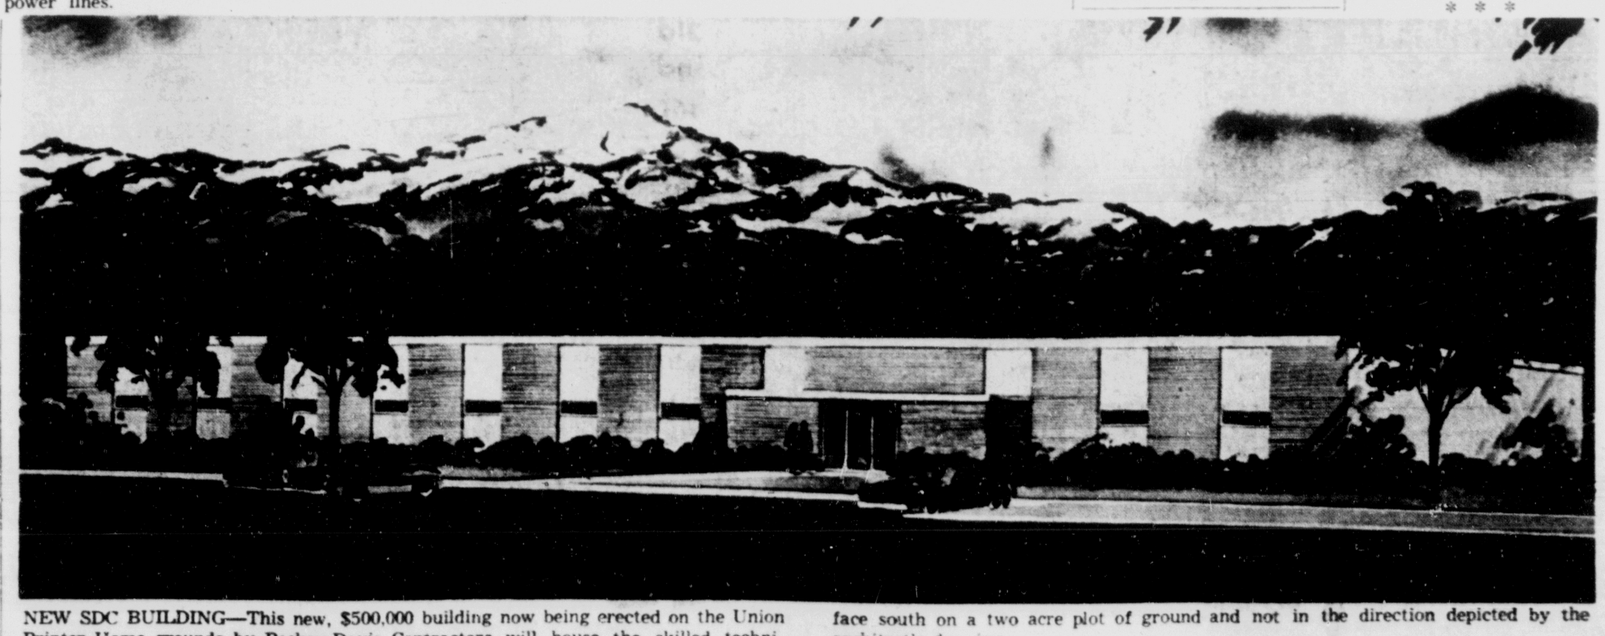
The tides are caused by the sudden appearance of tiny organisms that exude a slimy substance which robs the water of oxygen and kills fish.

Complaints of the resultant smell have been received from Oceanside to Santa Cruz in Northern California, but most come from the seacoasts of San Diego, Orange, Los Angeles and Ventura counties in Southern California.

Swimmers suffer no apparent ill effect from the slightly sticky stuff.

Nobody knows why the tides appear without warning, but the general opinion is that they are caused by high minimum atmospheric temperatures and high water temperatures.

The organisms, called Gymnodinium brevis, appear in one degree or another almost every summer, when ocean water reaches 65 degrees or more.



NEW SDC BUILDING—This new, $500,000 building now being erected on the Union Printer Home grounds by Becker Davis Contractors will house the skilled technicians of the System Development Control Corporation. Actually the building will face south on a two acre plot of ground and not in the direction depicted by the architect's drawing.

Starlight Apartments Will Have Twin Building

The Starlight Apartments, 720 Melany Ln. and North Chestnut Street, will have a matching building upon its completion this winter.

The new building being constructed adjacent to the original Starlight unit, will be completed at a cost of more than $300,000. Its 35 units will contain 1,000 square feet per unit.

Each unit will feature wall-to-wall carpeting, air conditioning, exhaust fans in the kitchens and bathrooms, double sinks with disposals, formica-covered working tops in the kitchens which will also have birch wood cabinets. Five of the units will have three bedrooms.

Outside, the buildings will be landscaped. An asphalted driveway and a parking area between the buildings will provide parking space for 75 cars.

A children's playground area will also be provided and will be equipped with heavy duty slides, a merry-go-round, swings and other playground props. The children's area will be surrounded by a chain link fence.

A 30 by 50-foot swimming pool complete with patio, furniture, and picnic table completes the picture. The pool is enclosed by a cedar picket fence.

The building already constructed plus the one now being built were erected, and is being built by James Green, local builder and architect and his partner Mark Ramsey of Denver.

Green, a native of Oklahoma, studied architectural engineering at the University of Oklahoma before entering the building business. He came to Colorado Springs in 1954 where he continued in the same occupation. His office is in the First National Bank Building.

He and his wife Emmajo and three daughters live at 6 Crossland Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Green, parents of James Green, are resident managers of the apartment building already completed.

The elder Green is a native of North Carolina and a veteran of World War I. He served in England and fought in France during the war and later became part of the army of occupation in Germany.

He returned to the United States in 1918 and was discharged with the rank of sergeant.

He was engaged in the lumber business in Oklahoma before coming to Colorado Springs in 1955. Here he was employed by the Everett Lumber Company until his retirement in 1959. The Greens also have a daughter who lives in North Carolina.

NO AGREEMENT

There is no general agreement as to the whereabouts of Vinland, the region supposedly discovered by Leif Ericson. Some scholars place it no further south than Labrador, others were sure it was Chaleur Bay or somewhere on the coast of Nova Scotia, Maine or Boston Harbor.

New Horse Track Slated To Open Next Spring

Pikes Peak Meadows, new horse track located adjacent to the over pass just south of Colorado Springs on U. S. 85-87, is scheduled to open in 1965 with an April, May, June calendar of thoroughbred racing.

The stable area, which has been completed, has stalls for 570 horses, 96 tack rooms, and 30 pony pens. The running strip is virtually completed and only needs to be made ready for racing next spring before the start of the meet.

Overall plans for Pikes Peak Meadows, to be owned and operated by Midway Enterprises, Inc., of Colorado Springs, calls for a one-mile track, grandstand and related buildings and parking area. In addition to the grandstand, there will be a standing ramp, club house and paddock area designed to accommodate at least 8,500 persons.

Parking will be provided adjacent to the grandstand. The plan also calls for an administration building, cafeteria and jockey quarters.

William Burk, Jr., of Albuquerque, N. M. is architect and L. R. Foy of Hutchinson, Kan. general contractor.

The site is located on U. S. Highway 85-87 (Interstate 25) between Colorado Springs and Pueblo and consists of two tracts of land. The first tract, on which the racing plant is located, consists of 155.76 acres. Another tract of 320 acres has been purchased for undetermined future use.

Conyers Stewart, Pueblo, is president of the corporation developing Pikes Peak Meadows. He has been engaged in the ranching and horse breeding business most of his adult life and for more than five years has been a partner in the Duell and Stewart thoroughbred ranch at Rye, Colorado and races his own horses throughout the nation.

General Manager of Pikes Peak Meadows will be John Sidenberg of Colorado Springs, presently on active duty with the North American Air Defense Command.

He has been a thoroughbred horse owner and breeder for a number of years and races horses throughout the southwest. He will assume management of the track on his retirement in the near future.

Other officers and members of the board of directors include: Emil Clark, Colorado Springs, vice president and director; John I. Ladd, Pueblo, secretary-treasurer and director and M. R. Watters, Cheraw, Lee McMurtry, Pueblo, Dean F. Chaussee, Colorado Springs, L. R. Foy, Hutchinson,, Kan. and Robert Miller, Colorado Springs, directors.

Cleaning Shop Opens Under New Ownership

The Deluxe Cleaners and Shirt Laundry, 220 E. Costilla St., will open for business Monday under the ownership of Athaniel Sneed, it was announced today. The establishment will feature three day service on pick up and delivery and 24 hours on cash and carry.

The business will service all types of dry cleaning plus the laundry and pressing of cotton shirts and pants, and will do all types of clothing alterations, Sneed said.

A drive-through with off street parking for six cars at a time is provided for customer convenience. Sneed now employs seven experienced spotters, pressers and alteration specialists and plans to expand his operations as the business grows.

A grand opening will be held sometime in October, Sneed said.

The cleaning establishment has been in operation at the Costilla Street address since 1950 and previously has been in operation in other locations in Colorado Springs.

Sneed said: "The cleaning and laundering of your clothes is a personal matter with us. We take pirde in doing quality work with this personal service. No order is too small or too large for the best in cleaning service."

Craftwood Inn Purchased By Straus and Summer

Announcement has been made by John H. Straus and Ralph E. Summer of their purchase of the Craftwood Inn, 414 El Paso Blvd., Manitou Springs.

The partners have announced they purchased the historic dining establishment July 15 from Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Roeser and Roeser's daughter, Mrs. Mary Jane Beihn.

Craftwood Inn, situated on 5 acres of landscaped grounds in the shadow of Pikes Peak, has been a landmark of good eating in the Pikes Peak Region for many years. Built of English design near the Garden of the Gods entrance off Colorado Avenue, it possesses a rustic charm with original rooms filled with pine tables and chairs, decorative table settings, hand-painted china and ivy-colored walls.

Straus and Summer said they will continue to serve the famous Craftwood Inn food family style and feature such items as filet of sole, southern fried chicken, chicken and dumplings, chicken pot pie and steaks as you like them.

All food is prepared by women cooks who add homemade flavor to such delecacies as muffins, buscuits, salads and deserts—one of the most famous desert specialities of the house being French chocolate mint pie.

The partners will continue to employ five table servers, five kitchen workers and five bus boys and girls for the convenience of their customers.

The Inn will be open Mondays through Saturdays 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., for lunch, and for dinner from 5 to 9 p.m. On Sundays dinner will be served from noon to 9 p.m. Reservations are requested for the convenience of the customer. Facilities are also available for private dining.

The original building was built in the 1920's by the late Ronald Boutwell who operated a craftwood shop in the dwelling. Handiwork fashioned at the shop was retailed by Boutwell, both at the Craftwood Shop and in the Burns Building, Colorado Springs.

The Roesers acquired the shop in 1927 for their home and converted the lower floor to dining rooms in 1940. This year the Inn will celebrate its 25th anniversary, as such, Straus said.

Also on the premises is a small curio Shop, the Gingerbread house, now operated by Mrs. Straus.

Summer, a native of Philadelphia, is an Airforce service man of 21-years. During this time he had extensive experience in the management of service clubs and the preparation and serving of foods. He has also completed courses in hotel management offered at Cornell University.

Mrs. Summer, a native of New Jersey, was associated with her parents in the restaurant business prior to her marriage. She now occupies the position of hostess at the Craftwood Inn.

Straus is a native of Chicago. Previous to coming to Colorado Springs in 1941, he was a clothing salesman. Immediately after his arrival here, he purchased the Mesa Springs Ranch which he still owns. The ranch is located near the Sinton Dairy north of the city.

He is a past chairman of the El Paso Planning Commission, present chairman of the El Paso County Board of Adjustment, and also serves as chairman on a sub-committee of the Chamber of Commerce industrial division.

NEW OWNERS — Ralph E. Summer and John Straus have announced their purchase of Craftwood Inn as of July 15. Summer and his wife Gloria, left, have had much previous experience in the restaurant and club business. Mrs. Summer is hostess at the Inn. Straus, owner of the Mesa Springs Ranch, has long been active in local and county civic affairs. His wife Eldora is now operating the Gingerbread House, a small curio shop on the five acre grounds. Mr. and Mrs. Straus are at the right in the picture.

Studebaker Shows Six Month Profit

Byers A. Burlingame, president of Studebaker Corporation, today reported to shareholders a net profit of $3,455,611 for the first six months of 1964, equal to 24 cents per share on sales of 139,518,083.

This compares with a net loss of $7,568,419 for the corresponding period in 1963, or a loss per share of 54 cents on sales of $205,342,065.

Earnings for the second quarter of 1964 amounted to $2,299,-431 equal to 16 cents per share on second quarter sales of $72,-195,318. In the second quarter of 1963, sales were $105,407,663 and losses amounted to $1,154,576 or eight cents per share.

"Although these earning results for the first six months represent a marked improvement over the same period last year, they are not up to expectation," Burlingame said.

"Reduction in net sales from $205,342,065 to $139,518,083 was occasioned by the shift of the automotive base of operations to Canada with a consequent reduction of vehicle sales and the novation of our military truck business due to the sale of our defense product division," Burlingame said.

He pointed out that the shift of automotive manufacturing operations to Canada will be completed by September 14, when the first 1965 model Studebakers will be produced on the Hamilton, Ontario, assembly line.

Burlingame stated that the proceeds on sales of surplus South Bend properties, plus the payment of $1,650,000 due on September 1, 1964, would reduce the corporation's long term 5 per cent debt from $16,500,000, to approximately $6,000,000 by September 1, 1964.

NO ZIGZAG

Contrary to popular notion, lightning does not zigzag but curves, twists, meanders and branches like limbs on a tree. It does not travel downward in a series of sharp, short angles.

Wlilamette Park Units Lend Charm to Old Street

The Willamette Park apartment annex, 425-431 E. Willamette Ave., is now open for business under the resident managership of Mr. and Mrs. Obert Hitch, formerly from Denver.

The apartments were built under the supervision of the Ira Sampson and Company of Denver at an approximate cost of $300,000.

Each of the three story masonry and stone buildings have 15 units each. The units feature complete electric kitchens, wood-paneled cabinets, wall-to-wall carpeting, tile baths and individually controlled heat, washers and dryers, storage lockers and two bedrooms.

Outside the apartments an asphalted and lined parking area provides close access to the units. On the apartment facade, iron railing and covered patios on the aboveground levels provide room for lounging in conveniently placed chairs.

Immediately adjacent to the cement walks rustic landscaping composed of white and red stone, gnarled wood and green grass, enhances the overall decor.

Between the two buildings is a landscaped swimming pool and patio area complete with furniture. Nearby is a fenced-in children's playground. The playground and pool are completely enclosed with a redwood fence and a wire fence separates the children's area from the pool.

Sampson, president of the Ira Sampson Company, who are and engaged in property managership, said he was gratified that the new apartments are 100 per cent occupied less than a month after opening. "We appreciate the reception given us by the people of Colorado Springs," Sampson said.

The Sampson company has been in business four years in Denver and now manage 1,400 units in that area, Sampson said. A grand opening is planned for the Colorado Springs apartments at a later date, he said.

Hitch came to Colorado Springs from Arkansas. He is a veteran of World War II; serving with the United States Cavalry in the American War Theater before his military discharge in 1945. He was a car salesman in Arkansas prior to his present occupation.

Mrs. Hitch, a native of Louisiana, is a graduate of Burnett's Business College in Arkansas. She is also a veteran of World War II, serving in the American War Theater as a WAC sergeant.

Previous to her present job she worked in the tax account field.

State Investors Buy 112 Million In Bond Issues

The State of Colorado, its agencies, cities and towns, floated $112,836,000 worth of long-term bond issues during the first seven months of 1964 to finance various public projects, it was reported yesterday by "The Weekly Bond Buyer," the news authority serving institutional investors.

In July, the total of bonds issued by this state and its governmental units, whose interest payments are exempt from federal income taxes, was $49,363,-000.

The national total of state and municipal bonds issued during July, 1964, "The Weekly Bond Buyer" reported amounted to $884,403,552, a July record high in long-term state and local government financings. The revised total for June, 1964 is $899,740,-116.

The total financing for the first seven months of 1964 is $6,308,816,950, about 2.6 per cent below the record pace of the first seven months of 1963 when long - term tax - exempt bonds sold aggregated $6,475,307,715.

School financing accounted for $2,179,203,064, or 34.5 per cent of the long-term volume for the first seven months this year, and $991,398,298, or 15.7 per cent, represents bonds issued for water and sewer purposes. A total of $668,258,563 or 10.5 per cent, was issued for highway, bridge and tunnels.

Interest rates paid by state and local borrowers remained fairly stable during the month of July, according to the Bond Buyer's Index, a weekly trade barometer of municipal bond interest rates. The index stood at 3.19 per cent at the end of July, as compared with 3.20 per cent at the end of June.

Fund Shortage Is Charged

DENVER (UPI) — A full-scale investigation of an audit of funds handled by the Denver District Court Probation Department was underway today after a partial audit showed a possible shortage of $1,351.

The investigation by the Denver Police Department was requested by Saul Pinchick, presiding judge of the court, after City Auditor Charles Byrne revealed the shortage and "many discrepancies."

Byrne said it appeared endorsements on six checks, drawn on the Probation Department restitution account and cashed at the department office, were forgeries. The checks ranged from $70 to $415 and totaled $1,351.

Comedian Brings Memories of Fun in Past

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK — Not having seen or heard of Jack Kirkwood in many years, we were very sorry to renew our acquaintance with him the other day in the obituary notices. And as so much of our generation's youth belongs to him and the men like him, we were quite saddened at not being listed among the survivors.

The news of the event said only:

"Mr. Kirkwood, a comedian whose career spanned vaudeville and television, would have been 70 next week."

It was implied, of course, that Mr. Kirkwood was on the radio—the way day is implied between dawn and dusk. But somehow the day of radio has never qualified as anything more than just so much Kent and Atwater under the bridge between vaudeville and television.

Hollywood of the same vintage has become a bona fide era. Children not yet old enough to vote talk lovingly about the old Pantages Time or the great acts on the Orpheum Circuit. And young men who barely remember V-J Day are at large among the ladies' club lecturing on "The Early Days of Television."

But who cherishes the golden age of radio?

Who reminisces lovingly over those Sunday nights when nobody went out because Eddie Cantor was on the air? (And if people from radio. We grew up with them in the days when a program dared be listed as "To Be Announced."

It might have been a haphazard time compared with today's his show ran a few minutes late, that was Lily Pons' bad luck.)

What child knows of Bob Burns, Edgar Bergen, Fred Allen, Ben Bernie, Joe Cook, Frank Morgan, Helen Broderick, Ransom Sherman, Fibber McGee and Molly, Vic and Sade, Easy Aces, Victor Moore, Col. Lemuel Q. Stoonagle and Bud?

No, they don't know those names. And furthermore, they think that television invented Jack Benny and Bob Hope.

But we remember all those split-second, chock-full, over-produced and over-sponsored entertaiment. But at least you didn't have to worry about next week or next season because the same time, same station—telling the same funny stories, same people would be back—opening the same closets, looking for the same gas men.

But it is a pretty sorry business when you are not allowed to look back on your youth as "the good old days" because that era was already finished when you came long, and the next one won't start for 20 years.

We were quite grown up when we realized the dusty corner to which radio was being sent by the historians. Television was long out of its early days, being at least trree years old. And we were having a cup of coffee with an old radio comedian named Jack Kirkwood, who had had his own show and been a writer on others and was at that time acting in television comedy.

"How did you manage to be so funny every morning for all those years?" we asked him.

"Very simple," Jack said. "I have seven trunks full of jokes in my attic."

"How come they can't manage it on television?" we asked.

"Very simple," he said. "They don't build houses with attics like they did in the good old days."

Two Marines Injured In Viet Nam Flight

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine Corps officers were seriously injured in the crash of a light L19 observation plane Saturday in central highland mountains about 20 miles from the Laotian border.

A U.S. spokesman said the cause of the crash was not known but it was not believed the plane was hit by Communist Viet Cong ground fire.

Earlier, a U.S. Army pilot was wounded in the jaw by guerrilla fire during a helicopter assault in the Mekong Delta.

Aged Medicare Plan Boosted In Congress

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration is trying a new tactic to get a health care for the elderly program through Congress this year.

Apparently with White House blessing, four key Democratic senators introduced an optional program Friday and sent it toward a floor showdown, perhaps next week.

The measure was introduced by Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., former secretary of welfare, after a meeting in Democratic leader Mike Mansfield's office with White House aides.

Significantly, the measure was cosponsored by Mansfield, eassistant leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexicil, one of the foremost among Senate Democrats pressing for health care under the Social Security system.

The plan would give Social Security beneficiaries a choice between a $7 a month increase in cash benefits or a $2 increase plus a health care plan similar to the administration-backed King-Anderson proposal.

The administration had been pushing the King-Anderson proposal in the Senate Finance Committee as an amendment to a House-passed bill that would increase Social Security benefits by 5 per cent.

Oldsters Learn From Teens in Dance Craze

By ROBERT COCHNAR

MANSFIELD, Ohio (NEA)— The big, converted barn is hot and jammed with gyrating youngsters, many scrunched together in pulsating knots.

The three - piece band is rocking with a solid BOOM - boom - boom - BOOM - boom - boom beat. The amplified screams of an organ add the simple melody.

A cop, leaning on a door jamb, mops his sweating face and smiles. "After this," he says, "the kids are too tired to get into trouble."

The kids in this small Ohio city, as well as in cities and towns throughout the country, were dancing. Not the familiar two - step, of course, not even the jitterbug or once-popular Twist. They were involved with such esoteric items as the Monkey, Frug, Dog, Watusi, Slop, Wobble, Bug, Push, Frankenstein, Surf, Heat Wave, Mashed Potato, Fish and dozens of variations.

Grownups grimaced. Waitresses, who had to navigate trays of soft drinks through the weaving, tennis-shoed herds, were harried. But the youngsters were having fun.

How do you tell one dance from another?

"You just improvise," a red - faced 16-year-old girl explained between steps. "We don't care much about the names. One's about the same as the other, although maybe you move your arms and shuffle your feet differently. We just follow the rhythm."

And yet most of the youngsters have at least a vague idea of what's expected of them in each dance. Scott Muni, a New York disc jockey, says that television is responsible.

"Before television," Muni says, "there were no real means of exposing a new dance to millions of youngsters simultaneously. The television 'teen bandstand' type of show came along and, suddenly, boys and girls in every part of the country could see how new dances were being done."

But why so many dances?

"Kids get bored quickly," Muni says. "They're always anxious to pick up something new. That's why there are so many dances. Before television, you'd have standards like the rumba and samba that went on for years and years. Things are different now."

Contemporary historians of the dance say the root of all new versions is the Twist, which they say was probably started several years ago by that master hip-swiveler, Elvis Presley (although some swear it's a French import).

And in most cases, the record comes before the dance. "You've got to have a record so that you can establish the beat of a particular dance," Muni explains. "Most of these songs actually include some kind of dance instruction in the lyrics."

One new dance, "The Wrangler Stretch," is quite explicit. The song's lyrics say: "All you gotta do is stretch and shake your hips around. Stretch and now you're off the ground. And then you're doin' the Wrangler Stretch."

The dancers rarely touch their partners in any of the new dances (although they often collide with other couples). The idea is to improvise wild, impossible - to - do - twice movements around a basic rhythm, in much the same way a jazz pianist will noodle around a single theme, constantly building, constantly moving further away.

The new dances appear to be closely guarded by the young adherents. Few are known to the general public until they're discarded by the originators and are picked up by Cafe Society people and mass magazines. Thus, when the Twist was — and perhaps still is—a national sensation, youngsters were dancing something else.

One exception to this general rule is when Luci Johnson danced the Frug at the White House. Luci, hip to the dancing habits of her teen - aged colleagues, exposed to a national audience a dance still "in" with the younger set. The kids shortly thereafter jumped to the Flop and Bug.

College students, too, "discover" a new dance after their younger brothers and sisters have moved to something else, but before Zsa Zsa Gabor has learned it.

Muni says America has just seen the first few of a long line of wacky dances to come. "The kids are beginning to dance at a very early age," he points out. "When I appear at dance hops, I see 10 - year - olds who are accomplished dancers.

"I've been in cities where some junior high schoolers will get together after classes and form a sort of informal dancing club where they'll come up with their own variations of the popular steps. I'm sure teen-agers will continue to embrace hundreds of new dances with wild and wonderful names."

Pretty soon the youngsters will discover a jazzed - up version of the minuet, and dancing will have come full circuit.

Restrictions for Young Drivers Being Studied

DENVER (AP)— Restrictions on youthful automobile drivers may be recommended to the Colorado Legislature next January by a special committee studying driver licensing.

The committee asked its staff Friday afternoon to draw up two sample bills for consideration at an Oct. 5-6 meeting. One would give youngsters only a probationary license at age 16, but would allow them a full license at age 18. The other would keep drivers on a probationary basis until they reach 21 years of age. A 16-year old now is given a regular driver's license.

The committee also asked that two bills be drawn up affecting motor scooters, also for consideration at the October meeting. One would eliminate the provision allowing 14-year old youngsters to obtain licenses to drive the scooters. The other would forbid the operation of scooters on freeways, would limit the number of persons riding on a scooter to one and might even go into the use of protective helmets.

Rep. Norman Ohlson, R-Colorado Springs, the committee chairman, said a hearing will be conducted Oct. 5 into various aspects of an implied consent law for motorists. Under such a law, when the motorist obtains a driver's license he automatically agrees to take a blood alcohol test, or similar chemical test, if an arresting officer so directs. Failure to take the test means automatic loss of the driver's license.

Ohlson said the Colorado Bar Association, Civil Liberties Union and the State Patrol will be asked to participate in the hearing.

The committee also is considering strengthening the law against driving while a license is under suspension.

Gov. John A. Love, asked about the programs at a news conference, said he would not be prepared to back any change in the minimum driving age without studying the question. He said he thinks a stronger license suspension law is needed and better enforcement of the law is required. Love observed that many of the motorists involved in fatal accidents have long records of highway law violations.

Walter Brennan, star of "The Real McCoys," recalls that he and the late Gary Cooper haunted film casting offices in 1919 with equal lack of success.
